COMMUNICATED. O'NBILL, NEB., Jan. 24, 1897. ED. FRONTIER :--- I think it was Ason who said, "When rogues fall out honest people get their own just rights." Another old and ever true adage is: "Between two stools we fall to the ground."

And still another: "We are ground between the upper and nether grindstone." There is now a war in the so-called reformers' camp; whether the taxpayers will be benefitted or not is for the future to tell. Holt county has fallen between two yea three, stools (Dem., Rep. and Pop.) and has been ground very fine at times between two stones. The grist has been grinding for nearly twenty years but the tailings and stealings are seemingly, yet, as good as ever. The A young couple attended a lecture in democrats and republicans have been re-Nauvoo recently. tune. Will the taxpayers ever open their eyes to the systematic way these tadpole statesmen are gulling them? See the lesson taught in the huge growl of chief gunner Kautzman in last week's Beacon Light, because he couldn't bag the whole game of this season's forray himself. Listen to the pathetic song of distress he sings because his former partner in the business of reform, Treas urer Mullen, gave to another robber booty which, according to the rules of spoilsmen, belonged to him. Bat he balms his wounded and jaded soul with the defiant statement that he got paid full price for the doing of this very work (publishing treasurer's statement) which he boasts he never did at all. He says Treasurer Mullen gave the work,

Hamlin Garland in McClure's Magazine for January: His page of demerits shows scarcely a single mark for any real offense against good conduct. They are mainly "lates" and negligences. He was "late at church," "late at parade." "late at drill." He was a growing boy, and a little sluggish of a morning, no doubt. Once he sat down on his post between five and six in the morning; for this he received eight demerits. Twice in his second year as squad marcher he failed to report delinquencies in others and received five demerits each time. His amiability led to this. Once he spoke disrespectfully to his superior officer on parade. The provocation must have been very great to have led to this. The probabilities are the officer was mistaken.

When we were publishing a paper in 1872 in Mt. Vernon, Ill., the senior proprietor of a new store in town came nto the office and contracted for three columns of space for one year, with lo- purpose of electing officers and hearing cals for each issue and 2,5000 dodgers each week. He remarked that it was a snap to get into a town where the business men did not advertise. This firm started on borrowed money. In less than three years it had money enough to start two stores, one in Sedalis and one in St. Louis. Byron Nugent was the man who made the contract, and he is now the senior member of B. Nugent & Bro., the great St. Louis house. He not only owns the store, building and ground, but is now erecting a modest little cottage home which costs him $87,000. We must add that some of the old mossbacks who were in business in Mt. Vernon before Byron Nugent ever

The german has been set aside to make way for a new series of what are called morris dances, lately beome very much the mode. For exam ple, in place of standing up to the lancers in the usual fashion, a tall, golden pole is placed in the center of the drawng-room, and couples, to the number of ight, ten, or even sixteen, each take a ribbon dangling from the pole's top. At the end of every ribbon is a bouquet, and then, by following a series of simple and pretty figures, the ribbons are alternately braided about and unwound from the pole. The figures are in no ense a regulation may-pole dance, but adaptations, in the grand change, doe-adoz, etc., from the lancers and quade Another charming ball-room recreation is what society calls a Spanish fandange but which in reality is a long-step manourks. The women all carry to ines or castinets in their hands, and keep time to the music as they revolve about the room. Of course morris ril and bouquets, tambourines and castingte are all carried off as souvenirs of an evening's amusement; and, for the sake of attracting young business men, no ball holds later revelry than one o'clo of the morning.-From "Bociety Fad in Demorest's Magazine for February. iety Fada'
