

ROMANCE OF A VALENTINE.

It was the fourteenth day of February and the lovely Estelle was sitting in her luxurious boudoir when a package was handed her which she opened and exclaimed with innocent delight: "It is a valentine!"

How exquisite this wreath of handpainted roses-delicately tinted, as all tea-roses should be. And this little pocket! What can it contain? A ring. Amazing. And written on it this motto: "Think of me." There are no Cupids, with bows and arrows, and lines, rhyming with love and dove, charms and alarms, rain and pain, etc.-but a neat blank verse expressing regard and admiration, and conveying no hint of the donor or other information than that he was one unknown to her, who for the loves of art and travel, which had always ruled his life, would soon be far away on the other side of the blue waves.

Estelle took the ring from its hiding place and slipped it on her finger, curious to know if it fitted, then her maiden modesty suggested that she ought not to accept and wear a gift from an unknown giver-and she withdrew it quickly from her finger and determined to return it. But now the question arose: to whom? where?

After reasoning with her conscience she again put in on her finger. It fitted nicely and produced a mysterious presentiment of coming bliss, and a sensation about her heart which she had never known before painted her cheek with the lovely color of the tea roses on her valentine, and she said emphatically, "He shall be my ideal; I can construct him as I like—I shall make him and who can chide me if I become a hero worshiper?" And he only asks that I think of him.

Her soliloguy and state of curiosity were interrupted by a friend and comrade of the art school. Mrs. Bird, a widow lady of wealth and an enthus-ist about art, like herself, whose errand was to propose a journey together to the cradle of art. Estelle was only too glad to accompany her and accept-ed without hesitation. A feeling she could not account for prevented her from showing her valentine or speaking until long afterward of the little talisman that now seemed almost like a betrothal ring. The congenial friends made their trip a series of delightsand would have regretted reaching their destination so soon if they had not been just in time for one of those annual fetes which the American club of artists delight to celebrate.

As they were speeding along on their pleasure jaunt seated on the deck of a comfortable bcat watching their companions and enjoying a delicious breeze and the varied scenery-mountain, crag, castle, monastery and dark forest Estelle observed a picturesque looking young man, artistically dressed, as suited the occasion, gazing with a surprised and earnest look at herself. His rich brown hair and glowing eyes of the same color reminded her of her ideal, the beautiful hero whom her imagination had created, and she felt the anger encircled by the mysterious ring give a little throb in unison with her heart beat. At this moment to her surprise her friend Mrs. Bird gave him a smile and nod of recognition and before she had time to recover from her confusion of mind, Mrs. Bird requested permission to introduce her artist Brooklyn, N. Y.

friend, Henry St. Leger, and she very soon found herself absorbed in conversation with the most attractive man she had ever met.

> But it was long after this, on another St. Valentine day, when the artist friends homeward bound, sat gazing down into the dark blue waves-that she laughingly gave an account of her first valentine and the little circlet of gold, which she observed, but did not know why, attracted his attention and excited his curiosity, that he ventured to tell of his long years' study and selfdenial, whilst at the same time he had followed and worshiped a star which he thought too far above him to be obtained, but which he now, by the aid of St. Valentine, hoped would ever more be his guiding spirit.

> A St. Valentine Dinner. The New York Herald offered a prize of $25 for the best design in table decorations for a St. Valentine dinner of six. A large number of drawings were submitted, and the prize was awarded to the design herewith presented.

> The table is seven feet by four and a half. The cloth is white satin damask and the center-piece a diamond shaped, plate glass mirror, eighteen inches long by fourteen wide. Hearts fit about this outlined as solidly as possible in red carnations. Within the hearts stand five branched silver candelabra, with red candle-shades. Three small heartshaped cut glass dishes filled with heart-shaped chocolates, peppermints and wintergreens, and one with salted almonds, are placed near the candel-

At the corners of the table are flat looped bows of satin ribbon, five inches wide, with long ends reaching to the bottom of the table cloth. On each bow is placed a slender cut glass vase, eighteen inches high, with twelve American Beauty roses arranged carelessly. The ribbon should match the roses. From the chandelier four ribbon streamers, four inches wide, of the same shade, are suspended and fastened on to a rose in each vase. In the center a carrier dove is hung, with a small white envelope attached to its neck by a silver

At each cover are four forks, four spoons, two knives and five glasses, for water, champagne, claret, sherry and cordial. On the napkin is placed a white linen picture frame, heart-shaped and embroidered with solid red hearts, outlined in gold. In them may be inserted either the dinner cards or a suitable valentine verse, but who knows if there might not one day be slipped into some of these pretty favors the presentment of that very face which maidens long to dream of on St. Valentine's

To secure the vases to the table, a simple device may be employed. Sew a piece of kid the size of the standard of the vase, in the center of each bow. then sew each in turn firmly to the tablecloth, and underneath, to the same place, sew a piece of tape in the middle leaving the ends to tie to the legs of the table or tack underneath. Mix plaster of paris with water to the consistency of cream, moisten the kid with water and spread a thin layer of the plaster over it. If the vase is placed thereon and held firmly till the plaster sets, no unpleasant disaster like overturning it need be dreaded.

Why He Did Not Start.

A lazy man is seldom so very lazy as not to be able to invent some excuse for his inactivity. Harper's Round Table tells a story in point.

Patrick was the captain of a schooner that plied between New York and Haverstraw on the Hudson. One day his schooner was loaded with bricks, ready to start for New York, but Patrick gave no sign of any intention to get under way. Instead of that, he sat on deck smoking a pipe.

The owner of the brickyard, who was also the owner of the schooner, and who had reasons for wishing the bricks landed in New York at the earliest possible momenty came hurrying on board and demanded of the captain why he did not set sail.

"there's no wind." F"No wind! Why, what's the matter with you? There's Lawson's schooner under sall, going down the river now." "Yis, I've been watchin' her, but it's no use my gettin' under way. She's got the wind now, and, faith, there isn't enough of it for two."

Her Cards Well Played.

The fair young woman looked her bejeweled and florid employer coldly in the face.

"No, Mr. Boodlemuch," she said, "I cannot afford to make social acquaintances of those whom I meet in my business life. I must decline to go to dinner with you this evening, and I shall certainly not attend the opera in your company. I am exceedingly sorry, for you have been kind to me. If I have displeased you, be it so. I cannot help it. I am your typewriter. It ill becomes one of my station to speak so to the man whom the whole business world fears and honors and upon whom society has smiled. Yet I speak from the heart. What I have spoken that have I said."

sleeplessness is so terrible. Mrs. Carlow's sufferings from it so well known, our readers we feel sure, will welcome the good news that she is now well. and will be glad to know how the cure was secomplished.

Mrs. Carlow's statement is hereto appended in narrative form:

"For many years I was a confirmed invalid, suffering constant pains through my breast and back, of the most excruciating kype, rendering me absolutely helpless. I was unable to rise up or lie down without assistance, and was subject on the least extion to flutterings of the heart and such shortness of breath, or dyspance, that I often thought I was dying.

"Peaceful slumber was unknown to me. I would fall into a doze only to be awakened by the most horrible dreams, of too frightful a character to describe, and in the morning instead of being refreshed and rested, I would be utterly exhausted.

"I was attended at various times by every physician in the city, but none of them could do me any good, though, I spent hundreds of deliars in my quest of health. About three months ago, Mrs. Elizabeth Drake, whom you perhaps know, spoke to my husband advising a trial of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, stating that they had permanently cured her after years of suffering from milk leg, and he at once procured a supply for me.

permanently cured her after years of sunering from milk leg, and he at once procured a supply for me.

"By the time I had taken two boxes according to directions, for the first time in two years, I was able to enjoy peaceful and restful sleep, and as I continued to take them my health improved, so that now while using the fifth box, I feel quite recovered and my health is entirely restored. I still take two pills every night just before retiring, and wake up every morning perfectly happy

"I advise every one whom I hear complaining to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for although I recognize the fact that medicine that will cure one, will not another, still as most diseases are due to a bad condition of the blood. Pink Pills in such cases will prove a certain cure. It is but natural that I should have the most unbounded faith in them. I am only too glad to bear testimony through your paper as to what they have done for me."

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucuous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and glying the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work.
