PAINTERS OF ROMANTICISM

Corot, Chassereau, Camille, Rogier and Marilhat in Their Youth.

No anchorite ever disdained the luxuries of life in better faith than the enthusiasts of romanticism, says Temple Bar.

In the year 1832 a little band of artists—true bohemians, long-haired, cadaverous—extravagantly dressed in all colors of the rainbow, encamped themselves in a desolate quarter of Paris.

One comes suddenly from the roar and turmoil of the streets into an oasis of solitude and silence; the ruins of an old church make the place a sort of sanctuary; the houses on each side, once imposing, are dilapidated and abandoned.

In one of these ample lodgings was found for those immoderate lovers of art to whom the consideration of personal well-being was quite unimportant—who were more than content to breakfast on an omelette and dine on a ballot.

One empty room of immense size, going rapidly to rack and ruin, seemed especially fitted for their needs and was soon turned into a temple of the arts.

Could the already tumble-down place have possibly been preserved to the present day, what a mine of wealth, what priceless treasures it would have brought to contain, for the impromptu decorations were undertaken by hands then quite unknown but bound to emerge into the full light of celebrity.

Perched upon ladders, a rose behind the ear, cigarette in mouth, the peintres romantiques produced masterpieces of genius. On narrow panels high above his head, Corot produced two exquisite views of Italy; below him Chassereau designed a Diana bathing, where was already indicated the almost savage grace and freedom of his later works; Camille Rogier covered the ceiling with oriental fancies; Marilhat, Celestin Nanteuil, Adolphe Leleux added their daring and picturesque contributions, and, brush in hand, these artists—themselves aspiring poets—recited verses from Hugo and Alfred de Musset as a fitting accompaniment to pictorial inspiration.

It was one of those scenes which merited Carlyle's fanciful description of the Stirling club, "A little flowery island of poetic intellect."

SAYINGS OF COL. NORTH.

He Wanted Some New Words for His Vocabulary.

The late Col. North, the nitrate king, had a ready, if somewhat rough style of wit peculiar to himself, says the London World.

The trap in which he was seated being on one occasion blocked in a crowded thoroughfare in immediate juxtaposition to a costermonger's cart laden with vegetables, the coachman, finding that the horse was about to help himself to the cargoes would have backed the animal out of harm's way.

"Let him graze," said the colonel "I want to hear the man swear!" The costermonger turning his head around at this moment, the colonel's wish was promptly gratified by an exceptionally choice and extensive selection of expletives.

"Bravo," said North, as he threw the man a coin that would more than have bought the whole cargo of vegetables. "I thought I was pretty well educated in your line myself, but hang me if you haven't taught me four new adjectives."

North, although fond of pictures, hated what one calls "doing galleries." Once, being pressed to go and see a picture after Rubens, he quickly replied: "After Rubens! Why, surely, Rubens was the brute they were after last year when you dragged me in here. Haven't they caught the old cuss yet?"

The colonel loved children, but was not widely keen on kissing babies miscellaneous. Once, being implored by a handsome lady to kiss an exceptionally unwholesome-looking infant, of which the mother stated herself to be the living image. "Well, here goes for the image," said North, and he forthwith imprinted a sounding kiss on the fair mother's cheek.

NEW YORK FOOD SUPPLY.

Enough on Hand to Withstand a Four-Months' Siege.

If the city of New York and the neighboring district were to be besieged or in some other way entirely cut off from the outside world, and therefore deprived of the food supplies which in normal times come in daily in large quantities, how long would it be before the pinch of hunger would be felt? That is a very hard question to answer, for the reason that there are such inequalities of purchasing capacity in New York society that some go hungry in times of greatest prosperity for lack of means, while the great majority eat more than is good for them.

Undoubtedly the number of those who always go hungry would be increased after two or three days of a siege, and then day by day this number would increase until the public authorities would feel compelled to take possession of the food supplies and distribute them among the people.

With the exception of milk and some other things the supply of meat, poultry, hardy vegetables and fruits would last for two months at the present rate of consumption. If all the supplies were taken charge of at the beginning of a siege—and this could easily be done—the food within New York could be made to last for four months at least.

The siege of Paris lasted only four months. Before two months had passed high and low, rich and poor, had learned what hunger was. And, as is well known, the French are the most thrifty and economical people in the world.

In the arrangement and disposition of food the Parisians are especially distinguished. But the food supply in New York could be made to last as long as the Paris siege lasted, and the people would still be comfortable.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Russians and Armenians.

The Russian people cared a great deal about the Bulgarians; they do not care at all about the Armenians. Englishmen are apt to be puzzled by this difference of attitude; they would find it more intelligible if they bore in mind the place that religion holds in the Russian mind.

The Bulgarians belonged to the same church—the Russian peasant does not trouble himself about "autocephalous" distinctions—the Armenians do not belong to the church at all.

They are monophysite heretics, and though the peasant probably thinks that it might be better that they should get their punishment from the orthodox czar, than from the Mussulman Turk, he is not greatly concerned that they should get it.

This is an example of indifference originating in religious diversity, just as the last war with Turkey was an example of sympathy originating in religious agreement; but it serves equally well to enforce the paramount part that religion plays in the formation of Russian popular opinion.

Saved by Sunshine.

A writer in the New York Ledger says: "I think the superb health of my family is to a great extent due to the habit we have of almost living in sunshine. Every bright day all the shutters are open, and the entire house gets the benefit of sunlight.

HOW TO FIND OUT.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys.

When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate, or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO. There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder, and every part of the urinary passages.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pains in passing it, or bad effects following the use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate.

The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists, price fifty cents and one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and pamphlet both sent free by mail. Mention THE FRONTIER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietors of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this offer.

What a Prominent Insurance Man Says. H. M. Blossom, senior member of H. M. Blossom & Co., 217 N. 3rd St. St. Louis writes: "I had been left with a very distressing cough, the result of influenza, which nothing seemed to relieve, until I took Ballard's Horehound Syrup. One bottle completely cured me. I sent one bottle to my sister who had a severe cough, and she experienced immediate relief."

I always recommended this syrup to my friends. John Cranston 908 Hampshire Street, Quincy, Ill., writes: "I have found Ballard's Horehound Syrup superior to any other cough medicine I have ever known. It never disappoints. Price 25 and 50 cents. Free sample bottles at P. C. Corrigan's."

Mr. Isaac Horner, proprietor of the Burton House, Burton, W. Va., and one of the most widely known men in the state, was cured of rheumatism after three years of suffering. He says: "I have not sufficient command of language to convey any idea of what I suffered. My physicians told me that nothing could be done for me, and my friends were fully convinced that nothing but death would relieve me of my suffering."

In June, 1894, Mr. Evans, then salesman for the Wheeling Drug Co., recommended Chamberlain's Pain Balm. At this time my foot and limb were swollen to more than double their normal size and it seemed to me my leg would burst, but soon after I began using the Pain Balm the swelling began to decrease, the pain to leave, and now I consider that I am entirely cured. For sale by P. C. Corrigan.

Marvelous Results. From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this abstract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding a gripe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results."

Trial bottles free at P. C. Corrigan's drug store. Regular size 50 cents and $1.00.

—realizes that the harvest time is close to-the-ware of hay; the best farming—the farming that pays—must contemplate something more than this; for there is a harvest time, and just in proportion as a crop is saved, successfully, speedily and economically, in just that proportion may be measured the season's profit or loss.
