GEN'L OFFICIAL DIRECTORY CRISPI AND OUIDA SHRIEKINGS NOVELIST'S FIRST EFFORTS.

the Says There Is a Reign of Terror

The government of Francesco Crispi has sent the country back sixty years, says Ouida in the Contemporary Review. By him and through him all the old instruments of torture are in use. Spies fill the cities, detectives scour the fields, informers listen to all speech, public and private; literary clubs and co-operative societies are arbitrarily dissolved; packed juries condemn; venal judges sentence; military courts imprison civilians; civil courts judge homicidal officers; time serving prefects deny the franchise to all independent thinkers and manipulate the electoral lists to suit their governments; lads as they come singing through the country lanes are arrested if the song is of liberty; little children writing in chalk on the town wall are sent to prison for forty-five days. There is a reign of terror from Alps to Etna, and the police, armed to the teeth, swarm everywhere and the prisons are crowded with innocent citizens. The country has gone back to the darkest and worst days of Austria and papal tyranny and the name of the tyrant is ostensibly Humbert of Savoy; in reality, Francesco Crispi. Meanwhile there is no check, whatever or the caprices and coercion of his rule. It is already stated that to procure funds, nominally for Africa, actually for the elections, confiscated church property, now state property, is to be largely and without the consent of parliament illegally sold. To any one who cares for liberty and believes it to be the sole moral hygiene of a nation the state of Italy at the present time is painful and humiliating. Equally so to any unbiased English thinker is the attitude of the sading English newspapere upon Italian aftairs, which they coatinuously and systematically conceal or distort. It is difficult, well-nigh impossible to make the most intelligent Englishman comprehend Italian public life. He is misled by the surface semblance of his own institutions of monarchy, parliament and electorate and he does not comprehend the enormous unlikeness of all these to his own caused by character and custom.

AERIAL TRAVEL. Limitations Which Surround Animals in

Their Flight

It is evident that not one of these would-be flying machine men has ever seriously undertaken to solve the problem mentally, says the Pittsburg Dispatch. There is but one way of getting through the air by mechanical action, and that is by cleavage. There are really only two forms of cleavage, the one as represented by wing action as applied by insects and birds, the other a rotary action as represented by the screw of a steamer. To the application of the wing principle there is a limit set by natural law, just as in animal forms there is a limit set to either bi pedal or quadrupedal construction. There is, perhaps, no form of cleavage that represents the expenditure of force more economically than wing action as manifested in the flight of a wild goose. Here is an exceptionally large avoirdupois for the wing area, but the bird cannot carry any additional weight. In the birds of prey, the body is lighter in proportion to wing surface—a light, compact frame, but immense muscular action, capable of carrying for a short and there is not a winged creature on the earth weighing fifty pounds that can mount into the air and cleave as a true flyer. Why do not the ostrich, the great auk, the emu and other congeners of these bird tribes properly fly, since they are equipped with cleavers as are other birds of flight? Walkers and swimmers, as well as fivers, are all, by natural law, limited within certain restrictions, and it is remarkable that these inventors have not learned this. as it is a fact of the utmost importance, and one which, in a careful analysis, must early disclose itself.

To Make Grape Frest Salad.

To make mest delicious as well as healthful salad use a good ripe grape-fruit and crisp, fresh head of lettuce. Wash the lettuce and let it stand in cold water till needed, then shake out the leaves and arrange them in the salad bowl. Cut the grape-fruit in half and with a spoon take out all the pulp, taking care to preserve the juice. Arrange the pulp in the lettuce leaves and make a firessing of oil and the juice. To every three tablespoonfuls of this oil allow half a teaspoonful of pepper. Put all these ingredients in a bowl and dissolve the salt and pepper in the oil, then rub the spoon with a dose of garlic and stir in the juice of the fruit until emulsion is formed. Pour it over the lettuce and pulp and serve at ence.

About one teaspoonful of jules should be sufficient for three of oil, but it a not possible to lay down any exact rule. Vigorous stirring is essential, and 🛎 soon as a whitish compound is formed the dressing is ready for use.—Philadelphia Record.

Cheese Crackers.

A dainty morsel for the hungry helf hour before bedtime is "cheese crackers." Spread thin zephyrettes or salted crackers with a little butter and sprinkle lightly with grated Parmesan cheese. Place on a dish in the oven long enough to brown them slightly. These will keep for several days.

Mr. Barrie's "Recollections of a School master Written at an Rarly Ac-

Having regard to Mr. J. rie's visit to Dumfries academy, the Courier and Herald of that place prints some extracts from the novelst's early contributions to a school magazine called the Clown, which he and some friends started. Young Barrie writes some "Reckolections" in the asumed role of a "skoolmas-ter" whose spelling is Artemus-Wardian. In his second installment he complains that the editor "spelt sum of the wurds in my last rec-kollections rong," and he adds: "Althe, of coars, I maik jew allowance for your eddukation not being equal to mine. I hop you will be more cairful." Resuming the "Reckollec-tions," he writes: "I alwais open the school with prair, as I think it a verry good thing to do, and I got two skollars by it. Now, my skollars have generally verry durty faces. Well, one day in the middle of my prair won of the boys crept in belo the tabel, and when he was there anuther boy cam in at the door with a cleen face. This was too mutch for the boy in belo the tabel, and, just as I had finished saying 'And may they crie from the botom of their harts -.' he shouted out 'Lord Almichti, there's Jock Smith wi' his face washed!"

Here is an instance of how effectively the lad could reproduce a conversation. Relating a railway journey the schoolmaster says:

"On my rode we passed the river ye.' A gentleman asked me, 'What river is that?' "I was meditatin', so I answered abruptly, 'Aye.'

"The gentleman repeated his question, and I, thinkin' he had not heard me, again replied 'Aye.'

"'Could-you-tell - me-what -river-that-is?' he roared into my "l again answered 'Aye."

"Sir, said he, 'I sea you want to insult me! "I couldn't comprehend what he said till another person in the trane informed me that he thoat that I meant 'eh' when I said 'aye.'" Here is another example well worth giving:

"The minister of the town was sed to be a good preacher, and so I went to heer him on the furst Sabboth of the munth. I went early, and their wer only one person there who I saw was a nelder. I sed to him, When does service begin?" "The man staired.

"When does service begin?' 1

"To my surprise the elder ex-simed: 'What abomnabul impurtclaimed: nense. Pray, sur, do you know oor respecktit ministir?' " 'Me no him? No,' sed L

" 'Then get oot o' this,' he replied. You impurnant skoundral git oot o' this; an' if I see you here agen I'll kick you oot mysel!'

"Of course I was grately astonished at the man, not noing anythink I had sed about the minister; but it struck me at wonce that the minister's name was Service!"

Admiral de Horsey and the Sentry. When Admiral de Horsey, who some years ago had command of the British fleet in the Pacific, was the admiral of the North Atlantic squadron, he was one evening dining on shore at Port Royal, Jamaica. On distance a load of from eight to twelve returning to his flag-ship alone after dinner, his way to the boat led across the barrack square. A black sentry, of one of the West India regiments, halted him at the gate with, "Who goes dar?" Great was the admiral's annoyance to find he had neglected to get the pass-word before leaving the ship. "That's all right," he said carelessly, hoping to overcome the man's scruples by indifference; "you know who I am." "Dunno nobody, sar," replied the nigger, pompously; "you can't go in dar." "Why, I'm Admiral de Horsey." "Well, you can't go in, I don't care if you's Admiral de Donkey."-Argonaut Learned by Experience.

A certain judge in Chicago, who rather prides himself on his vast and varied knowledge of law, was compelled not long ago to listen to a case that had been appealed from a justice of the peace. The young practitioner who appeared for the appellant was long and tedious; he brought in all the elementary text-books and quoted the fundamental propositions of law. At last, the judge thought it was time to make an effort to hurry him up. "Can't we assume," he said, blandly, "that the court knows a little law itself?" "That's the very answered the young man, "I don't want to let it defeat me twice."— had arrived was asked by his jailer if he had any favor to ask. "I have, argonaut."

A Relative in Need.

Half a century ago, when "subjects" were bought by the surgeons, a poor man, writes James Payn, fell dead in Fleet street. Without a moment's hesitation, a young fellow who was passing threw himself on his knees beside the corpse, exclaiming: "My father, my dear father!" A crowd gathered round, their sympathy was excited, and money was subscribed to enable the pious youth to take away his father's body in a hackney coach. He did so, and took it to a surgeon, who gave him a hun-dred dollars for it.

Poor Little Thing.

"What's the matter, Molly?" asked Colonel Yerger of his little 6-year-old daughter. "Pa, my mocking bird is dead." "Well, never mind, Molly, I'll buy you another one." "I am calm enough now, but when I saw that poor little dead bird I could have cried like a child," said Molly. -Texas Siftings.
