NEEDS OF THE NAVY.

DOCKS ARE NEEDED MORE THAN SHIPS.

What Secretary Long Has to Offer in His Annual Report -- A Suggestion That Steps Be Taken to Increase the Number of Enlisted Men-Other Needs.

Uncle Sam's Navy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.-The first report of Secretary of the Navy Long, has been made public. It recommends against the further enlargement of the navy proper, so far as snips are con-Secretary Long takes the ground that there are enough ships now in use and in building, and that what are needed more than anything else are the following: Docks Ammunition and munition.

Better equipment of yards.

Increase in enlisted men. The secretary recommends that congress authorize the construction of but one warship and a few torpedo boats and torpedo boat stroyers. But it is urged make plans for the maintenance of the navy in good form, a cost which is bound to constantly increase and which amounted in 1896 and 1897, fiscal years, to $17,514,231.13. Five battleships, one gunboat and seventeen torpedo boats are now building, all to be done the coming year, except the ships, which will be done the latter part of 1898. During the past year two ships, nine gunboats, a torpedo boat and one or two other vessels were added to the fleet.

The principal care of the department is in the maintenance of the service. Secretary Long has adopted the policy of placing ships in reserve in order to lessen the expense, and also on account of the lack of men. He urges that some means be provided to permit the stowage of the torpedo boats at the navy yards ready for immediate service, but in dry dock. As the navy grows, it will be proper to keep more and more of the vessels in reserve, but it is necessary to have them ready for instant use. The secretary's special plea, however, in his report, is for adequate dockage. There are nine government docks on the Atlantic coast, and two on the Pacific. But one is accessible for modern battleships, and that is in Puget Sound, twenty miles inland, and one side of which belongs to England. Moreover, it is 900 miles from San Francisco. Secretary Long, therefore, endorses the recommendation of a special board appointed to investigate the needs of the navy in a docking line. The board recommended the construction of steel, stone or concrete dock suitable for the largest naval vessels at the following points:

Norfolk. Port Royal. Mare Island. New Orleans These docks are recommended to answer the requirements of the seven strategetic divisions of the coast line of the United States which are. The northern, for which the dock at Puget sound will answer; the south Pacific, the gulf coast, the line from Cape Sable to Cape Henry; from Cape Henry to Sandy Hook; from Sandy Hook to Cape Cod, and from Cape Cod to the Bay of Fundy. There can easily be made a serviceable dock at Newport News which the Newport News company will build, and the International company of New York will build the dock there while the dock at Norfolk wharf needed at Port Royal. For the work of construction and repairs of this nature the department needs but to be enlarged and only a

The secretary recommeds that the government establish its own powder factory. The cost of ammunition for the entire list of naval vessels completed and yet in hand would amount to $6,621,985. The cost of ammunition for one battle ship is $383,197. The de-partment also recommends that arrangements be made for suitable mag-

In concluding his report the secretary, discussing an enlargement of the navy, says: "Our remoteness from foreign powers, the genius of our institutions and the devotion of our people to education, commerce and industry, rather than to any policy that involves military entanglements, make war to be thought only as a last resort in defense of our rights, and our military and naval establishments as a police force for the preservation of order and never for aggression. While all this is, therefore, an earnest of peace as the normal condition of our national life, there is no question of the necessity, the wisdom and the economy to the same end, of an effective navy, in view of the vast extent of our coast and the possibility of attack from the sea upon our great cities, where the concentration of population and property is enormous.

"The country is committeed to the increase of the navy by a declaration of our people and the action of their representatives. The very fact that we are capable of manufacturing armor and guns, powder and projectiles, and to construct ships which are equals of those built anywhere else, is in itself a source of great naval power and our present resources in this respect should not be impaired. We should preserve and maintain We should preserve and maintain these resources and the ability not only to continue the work already so well advanced, but to improve upon it as the science of naval construction, as it is sure to do, develops the new models and methods which at this age of progress so rapidly replace the best of today with the better of tomorrow.'

CUBA AND CURRENCY.

These Will Be the Leading Topics in the President's Message.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27 .- A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says: Cuba and the curreny will be the leading topics in the president's message. It is understood that the discussion of the Cuban situation will be comprehensive. It has already been explained what the state department has prepared in reply to the Spanish note regarding filibustering. Whether the president will incorporate the substance of this in his message or leave it to go in as part of the regular diplomatic correspondence may be determined later, but the message will define the Cuban policy of the administration affirmatively. Members of congress with whom the president has talked freely on the subject have almost without exception urged that this be done, and Mr. McKinley apparently has agreed with them.

The reason given for this course is apparaent. While a sincere hope is entertained that the Sagasta ministry may end the war at an early date, the possibility of its failure cannot be overlooked. In that event it is desir-able for the policy of this country to be known. A strong intimation is given that in the failure of an end to the present conditions in Cuba at an early date, no hesitation will be shown in the United States making known its position of ultimate intervention. Humanity and commerce may both be the ground for this action. The belief is that the Cuban problem will be solved without danger of war between Spain and the United States, and will be solved through the good offices of this country, but the expectation is that these good offices will be exerted within a reasonable time after congress meets and after the prospects of the insurgents accepting or rejecting autonomy are known beyond question. If Cuba is actually pacified and industry and trade are resumed that condition is expected to speak for itself. The refusal of a few insurgent leaders to lay down their arms and the continuance of a sort of bandit warfare would not be interpreted by the ad-ministration as the failure of autonomy. On the other hand, the continuance of the present conditions would hardly be accepted as evidence that the island is pacified.

Some misunderstanding is said to exist in Spanish official circles regard-ing the position of the administration when the decree of autonomy is gazetted. The administration would not under any circumstances agree to take autonomy. This would be making itself responsible for the colonial government of Cuba to the Spanish authorities. But the president's good offices are exerted to giving the policy of autonomy a fair trial. The message is expected to make this point clear beyond the possibility of misunder-standing. It is the confident belief that the president's discussion of the Cuban situation will tend to strengthen the feeling that the administration will be able to meet every phase of it in a manner to satisfy the conservative business interests of the country and discourage radical or participate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27 .- It is understood that the president in his message wil lsuggest to congress that it would be inadvisable at present to take action which would complicate the situation in Cuba. It is said that he will suggest that the passage of resolutions recognizing the belliger-ency or independence would be inexpedient while the measures of reform proposed by Spain and to be carried out by General Blanco are being intro-The release of the Competitor and other American prisoners will be referred to as gratifying and as relieving the United States from the necessity of intervention upon the ground of protection of American life

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 27.—A special from Anderson, Ind., to the Evening Post says: Chesterfield, Ind., was almost wiped off the map at an early hour this morning by the explosion of eighty quarts of nitro-glycerine, which had been brought overland from Montpelier and placed in an open filed Montpelier and placed in an open filed, a half mile from town. Marion Mansey and Sam McGuire were working at a gas well near by when the explosion occurred. Mansey was thrown fifty feet, but not fatally injured. Maguire was also thrown 100 feet in the air and badly lacerated, but will recover. James Gold's house, 300 yards distant, was torn to pieces. The explosion tore a hole in the ground down to the water line, and so far as is learned it was spontaneous.

A three-ton engine was torn to fragments and every living animal near it was killed instantly. The ilttle town of Chesterfield is a mass of ruins, every house was moved from its foundation, windows shattered, doors smashed in, every light put out and the plastering shaken from the walls. several people were shaken out of hed. At Dalesville, two miles away, and at Yorktown, five miles distant, the damage was almost as great. Many people were injured and it is a miracle that none were killed outright.
