CANAIGRE CULTIVATION.

Can This Valuable Product be Successfully Cultivated in Nebraska?

The Commercial club and Secretary Utt, says the On tha Bee, have set to work with determination to discover whether another product as valuable as chicory and sugar beets may not be added to the list of Nebraska crops. This is canaigre-pronounced "kah-nah-gray," and meaning the plant commonly known as sourdockbids fair to revolutionize the industry of leather tanning.

It is believed that the product can be raised on the arid plains in the western part of the state, as it is now being grown upon the deserts of New Mexico. If this should be found to be be the case, land in western Nebraska would be as desirable as in the other parts, since there is considerable profit in the crop. An account of the plant and its possibilities was published in the Bee last Sunday. The matter of investigating whether canaigre could be raised in this state was taken up by the Commercial club some time ago, but was dropped with-out much progress being made. One result was discovered, however, and that was that the plant flourished on Cut Off island, a resident there having raised a crop. The matter was again brought up before the Comercial club by Secretary Utt at the last meeting of that body and he was instruced to write to the University of Nebraska, requesting that experiments be made with the plant. In pursuance of these instructions Secretary Utt has sent the following communication to Chancellor MacLean:

"OMAHA, Nov. 30.—George E. Mac-Lean, Chancellor University of Nebraska, Lincoln-Dear Sir: This club has considered the cultivation of can-aigre in Nebraska. The conclusion is that it should be done the coming scason in an experimental way and that there is a fair possibility of success. There is some evidence that the plants can be raised in this state; the roots are planted and harvested about the same as sweet potatoes, according to the information at hand. It is stated the cost is $20 per acre, the produce is twenty tons per acre, the value $75 per ton; the figures seem incredible. "It is further stated that the plant contains 40 per cent of tannic acid. The demonstration of our ability to produce canaigre would be beyond computation in value to our state, for many reasons; our farmers to be prosperous must have diversity of crops: chicory and sugar beets are of great value and will produce great results, but the benefits do not compare with those arising from the successful raising of canaigre.

The time is fast approaching when sheep and cattle will be slaughtered in this state by the millions: the hides of cattle are taken by sections where tan bark is available; it has been demonstrated that the tan bark cannot be hauled to the hides, so that our hides may be made into sole leather in Tennessee and shipped to Massachusetts and the manufactured shoe worn later in Omaha, where the animal was slaughtered.

"This is all a question of tannic acid; in addition to the large percent-age of tannic acid in the roots of canaigre it is claimed it will make more desirable leather than tan bark; also that the hides remain in the solution only twelve hours, while it requires three months where the tan bar: is used. So it appears that the material for tanning hides would be cheaper in Nebraska, than elsewhere, if the plant c...n be raised, and as hides are cheaper here, Omana would have the cheapest leather of any point in the world. This being true, tanneries would be in operation and following leather in making articles that are used in the west.

DURRANT INNOCENT.

THAT IS WHAT JUDGE MERRI-MAN THINKS.

Thinks Durrant Innocent.

Court's Orders are Carried Out.

the Closest Investigation Before the LITTLE ROCK. Ark., Dec. 11.-Judge E. M. Merriman, of Little Rock who was personally acquainted with and once represented J. E. Blanther, alias Forbes, as an attorney in this city, insists that Blanther, and not Durrant, murdered Blanche Lamont and Minnine Williams in San Francisco and that the execution of Durrant will therefore be a judicial murder. A few days ago the story was sent out from Atlanta. Ga., that Blanther was in that city at the time the girls were murdered. Judge Merriman couts this idea. He today made the following statement: "Since the publication of the card through the Associated Press in which I stated that I believed in the innoence of Theodore Durrant and the guilt of Blanther, alias Forbes, I have received many communications sup-porting either side of the question. Now, as the supreme court of California has refused to interfere and Dur-rant must hang, still having an abiding faith in his innocence, 1 feel that the public ought to have an insight into the facts that have arrayed themselves before me and convinced me that a judicial murder is about to be committed

'First, there can be no question but that the written confession is in the handwriting of Blanther. for no effort has been made to contradict this presumption and examination by experts established it.

"Second. Blanther confesses that he murdered Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams.

"Third, the entire evidence in the conviction of Durrant has been cir-cumstantial and the only positive statement that has ever hinged on the case is Blanther's confession that he and not Durrant did the deed for which Durrant's young life is about to be forfeited.

"Fourth, Blanther being dead, my lips may reveal the fact that he had told me during his troubles here that the name of Forbes was but an alias; that he had assumed 'for reasons best known to himself. and that his life had been an eventful one.' This coup-led with the statement of his second wife, Agnes Cameron, in public print, convinces he that he spoke the truth. "Fifth, the trial of Durrant seems to have been a forced one by some power 'behind the scenes,' the prose-cuting attorney being notably bitter in the conduct of the same and yet failing to establish a single fact by direct and positive truth.

"Sixth, the theory of the state that Blanche Lamont was murdered on the night of April 3, 1895. is, and has been throughout the whole trial, an unwarranted assumption. There is no proof that the girls were murdered in Emmanuel church, and a more rea-sonable assumption would be that they were murdered elsewhere and their bodies carried to the church as 'part of the program.

'Seventh, as to the Atlanta dispatch that Blanther was seen in that city between April 12 and April 15, 1895, this may be all true and he may have had all that arranged for his purchasing agency to believe that, but does anybody know or has anybody ever ventured to say when he left Atlanta? Ten days intervened between April 3 and 13, at which latter date Williams' body discover ed. Within that period of time Blanther might have been seen in Atlanta. and also have been in San Francisco to do his bloody work, and even had a day or two to spare if he was work ing under a preconcerted plan and stimulated by reward for prompt and immediate action, as has been intimated by a man named 'Austin.' Eighth, the theory of the state without anything upon which to base it, is that one of the girls was killed on April 3, the other on April 13. Blanther says he killed them both at the same time, which is a more reasonable presumption when the whole case is founded upon presumption. "If Blanther was at Atlanta at the time indicated, he probably went there with a perfected plan to return at once to San Francisco as soon as he established the premises upon which to base an alibi, folowing the advice of some party in whose employ he was to consummate the dastardly det). He could have left Atlanta April 4 and been in San Francisco in time to murder the two girls.

THE PACIFIC ROAD.

Senators Thurston and Gear Talk on the Subject.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 .- In the senate the resolution of the Pacific rallroad committee, asking informa-tion regarding the sale of the Kansas Pacific, was passed, which gave Sen-ator Gear of Iowa and Senator Thurston of Nebraska an opportunity to make short speeches congratulating the country upon the settlement of the Pacific railroad question.

Mr. Gear, chairman of the Pacific railroad committee, said that too much credit could not be given the present administration for the admir-able manner in which it had handled and disposed of the Pacific railroad matters.

Mr. Harris facetiously congratulated his friend from Iowa (Mr. Gear) and his friend from Nebraska (Mr. Thurston) upon the change which had come over them since the consideration of the Pacific railroad question last spring

Mr. Gear responded that so far as he was concerned, no change had been experienced and that he was just as much opposed to government owner-ship of railroads as ever. Mr. Thurston congratulated the country upon the result of the administration's efforts regarding the Pa-cific railroads. He expressed the opin-ion that the prosperous business con-ditions brought to the country by the advent of the present administration had so improved the main line of the Union Bacific that the main line of the Union Pacific that it would probably now earn dividends upon the full amount of the large purchase price vaid for it.

Mr. Harris incuired whether Mr. Thurston thought that the same condition would correspondingly improve the Kansas Pacific branch.

Mr. Thurston said that it was hardly to be expected that a branch line would be affected in the same manner as a great trans-continental road. He said that he noticed in the president's message that the administration is committed to the policy of purchasing the Kansas Pacific branch unless a better bid was offered. He did not believe in government ownership of railroads, and he was of the opinion that the experiment of such ownership, if it was to be tried, might better be tried with some other than the Kansas Pacific railroad. He suggested to the Pacific railroads committee that the authority asked for by the president to buy in the road be coupled with full power to resell.

Western Weather Stations.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 .- The members of the house committee on agri-culture have had a conference with Secretary Wilson respecting the needs of the agricultural department and have been informed that the secretary desires increased appropriations for weather stations in the west and in the vicinity of the great lakes. The establishment of additional forecast stations, the secretary thinks, would be greatly to the benefit of the fruit industry of California, which suffers considerably when there are not proper warnings of approaching storms while on the lakes extra stations are needed for the protection of the maritime stations.

Another branch of the service which requires more money is that of the microscopic division which inspects meats designed for export. The force now available is inadequate, the secretary says.

To Prevent Overloading Cars.

H. S. Mann, secretary of the state humane society, has become interested in the movement at South Omaha to prevent the overloading of cars and the consequent crulety to animals. He is considering the advisability of organizing a branch of the humane soclety at South Omaha, and along with him are working Col. J. L. Martin, of the Rock Island, and W. S. Wittten, of the stock yards company. It is also proposed to exercise supervision over the way in which stock is handled at the stock yards, but the primary motive of the movement appears to be to prevent the stock shippers who have eretofore been overloading and thus saving considerable money out of the car load rates of the railways from longer garnering of the elusive sheckel in that inhumane way.
