WERE ALL REMEMBERED.

A Kentucky Man Who Has Erected Monuments to His Kin and Animals. In a well-appointed home in Mayfield, surrounded by all the comforts of life, lives Col. Henry Woolridge, one of the country's oldest citizens and the "last of his race," says the Louisville Post. When in the flush of young manhood he was reckoned the champion deer, bear and fox hunter in the Purchase, and many were the trophies he carried home from his numerous hunting expeditions. His room is a veritable hunter's paradise, filled with highly prized specimens of torest and stream. At the age of 81 he loves to call his friends about him and tell of his early prowess as exhibited in marsh, canebrake, river bottom and mountain fastness. Col. Woolridge is eccentric in one particular-his fondness for his brothers, kin, favorite dogs, horses and game in marble. In a little inclosure in the Mayfield cemetery, not over eighteen by thirty-six. he has had erected seventeen handsomely chiseled granite statues. Four are monuments erected to the memory of his brothers, John H., W. F., Alfred N. and William. Two are to perpetuate the memory of beloved nieces, two are representatives of the colonel's favorite foxhounds, Towhead and Bob. In front of these marble likenesses are a fox, a deer, a bear, a panther and near, with head thrown back, as if scenting the fox chase or bear-hunt afar, stands a life-size image in stone of the good old man's bluegrass hunting stallion, Dick. All these are lifesize. There is also a large sarcophagus at the back of the burial lot, surmounted by a pedestal bust of the owner, and just in front of the vault is an equestrian statue of Col. Woolridge, made of Michigan granite. A perfect reproduction of the old woodsman's favorite rifle, in bas-relief, hangs over the door of the stone resting place for the dead. This work is the best that a lavish expenditure of money could secure. And now the owner of these has long been ready for the final summons. He has for several years had in his bedroom an elegant rosewood casket and a burial robe. He Was Known by Everybody- He Knew All the Notables.

Shakespeare's London was a small city of from 150,000 to 200,000 souls, or about the size of Providence or Minneapolis at the present time, says the Atlantic. In cities of such size everybody of the slightest eminence is known all over town, and such persons are sure to be more or less acquainted with one another; it is a very rare exception when it is not so. Before his thirtieth year Shakespeare was well known in London as an actor, a writer of plays and the manager of a prominent theater. In that year Spenser, in his "Colin Clout's Come Home Again," alluding to Shakespeare under the name of Aetion, or "eaglelike." paid him this compliment:

"And there, though last, not least, is Action;

"Palladis Tamia," a very interesting contribution to literary history. The author, who had been an instructor in rhetoric in the University of Oxford, was then living in London, near the Globe theater. In this book Meres tells his readers that "the sweet, witty soul of Ovid lives in mellifluous and honey-tongued Shakespeare; witness his Venus and Adonis, his Lucrece, his sugared sonnets among his private friends," etc. To suppose that such a man as this in a town the size of Minneapolis, connected with a principal theater, writer of the most popular plays of the day, a poet whom men were already coupling with Homer and Pindar-to suppose that such a man was not known to all the educated people of the town is simply absurd. There were probably few men, women or children in London, between 1595 and 1610, who did not know who Shakespeare was when he passed them

1.000,000 People. "5 Drops" is the name of a powerful remedy which is guaranteed to cure rheumatism, neuraliga, catarrh, asth-ma, la grippe and kindred ailments. The company is entirely safe in making the guarantee, because every month they receive thousands of grateful letters from those who were sufferers, but have never received one complaint. The effect of "5 Drops" is felt at once. James Williams of Legent, Ill., writes on November 12, 1897: "My vife has been suffering two years with rheumatism. She used about one bottle of 'S Drops,' and can now go without her crutches." To more extensively adver-tise the merits of this remedy the producers will for the next thirty days send out 100,000 of their sample bottles of this positive cure for 25 cents a bottle by mail prepaid. Large bottle, 300 doses, $1 (for thirty days 3 bottles $2.50). Those suffering should write to the Swanson Rheumatic Cure company, 167-169 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., and take advantage of this generous offer. The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.
