MORE WOMEN, LESS MEN.

A Condition of Affairs Existing Throughout the Civilized World.

One of the curiosities disclosed by recent census statistics is the fact that. as a rule, and barring exceptional circumstances, the male population is falling farther and farther behind the female. Thus in the last British census, says the Providence Journal, the excess of women and girls over men and boys in Great Britain was found to be about 900,000, or 200,000 more than ten years ago. The German census places the number of females about 600,000 above that of males in the Kingdom of Prussia, which is nearly three times the excess of twenty years ago. In the whole German empire there are 1,000,-000 more females than males. In Sweden and Norway the "weaker" sex is in the majority by 250,000, in Austria-Hungary by about 600,000, in Denmark by 60,000, and in fact in every European country women and girls outnumber men and boys. The conspicuous exceptions elsewhere are the United States, Canada and Australia, in each of which the males are in the majority, though, comparatively speaking, not largely so. These exceptions, however, are evidently owing to immigration, which naturally brings more men than women. Had there been no immigration, it is probable that each of these three countries would have shown the same excess of women which is found everywhere else in the civilized world. Thus although in the United States as a whole the excess of males is about 1,200,000 by estimate, in New England, whither the tide of immigration has not flowed strongly in recent years, there is a large preponderance of women. In less civilized countries, however, where women are lightly esteemed, it is quite otherwise. In India there are 6,000,000 more men than women, and in China, too, the males largely preponderate. So we may conclude that as a rule the higher civilization is the more favorable to the increase of the female sex, but we may well question whether this result is a wholesome one. An excess of women in a country must have an unfavorable influence on the marriage rate and so, of course, on the birth rate; and, besides it may lead to moral consequences of a grave nature. Yet it seems natural for women to multiply faster than men; and the means that are taken to produce a contrary result in the less civilized countries are such as civilization could not countenance WILLIAM L. SCOTT. His Sale of $20,000,000 Railroad Stock

In business matters Mr. Scott was quick in his conclusions, sound in judgment, and inexhaustible in resources, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. The public remembers yet the sale by William H. Vanderbilt of $20,000.000 worth of stock in the New York Central at 120. This sale was made by William L. Scott.

Vanderbilt, harassed and worried in the management of the property, vexed by public criticism and uncer-tain about his health, expressed in the presence of Scott a wish to be rid of the property.

A Clever Trick.

It certainly looks like it, but there is really no trick about it. Anybody can try it who has lame back and weak kidneys, malaria or nervous troubles.

We mean he can cure himself right away by taking Electric Bitters. This medicine tones up the whole system, acts as a stimulent to the liver and kidneys, is a blood purifier and nerve tonic. It cures constipation, headache, fainting spells, sleeplessness and melancholy. It is purely vegetable, a mild laxative, and restores the system to its natural vigor. Try Electric Bitters and be convinced that they are a miracle worker. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents a bottle at P. C. Corrigau's drug store.

To Go As Freight.

Those were hustling days on the western rivers, fifty years ago, when emigrants from the east flocked to the prairies of the west. Some of the emigrants being poor paid in part for their passage by helping to "wood the boat;' the bank at the wood landings and throwing it on the boat. A writer tells of an impecunious Irishman who did not wish to pay full fare nor carry wood. He boarded a western steamer at a landing and asked the fare to St. Louis. Being tolo he then asked:

"What do you charge for one hundred and fifty pounds of freight." Upon learning the price, a small amount. he said:

"I'll go as freight."

"All right," replied the captain; kill or cure. By vartue of his oath he "put him down in the hold and lay has done neither, and then axes his some flour barrels on him so that he won't roll about if we have heavy weather.'

The Sanchez estate mass weighs 252 pounds, and the Fort Washington sincerely mourned by a Duncan mass 971 pounds. The greatest dispersion is sixty-six miles.

Wholesale Punishment.

It is not generally known that Henry VIII. hanged no fewer than 72,000 robbers, thieves and vagabonds, and that "Good Queen Bess," doubtless tendents recently found the following affected by her royal father's ferocious example, was in the latter part of her reign responsible for the slaughter of 300 or 400 criminals yearly. Turning to the year 1596, for example, we find that in the county of Somerset alone 40 persons were executed, 35 burned in the hand and 37 severely whipped.

the transaction was concluded. Then came Mr. Scott's demand for his commission of $500,000. Vanderbilt demurred: $500,000 was a big sum of money for such work. Mr. Scott insisted that it was a bargain made openly and seriously, and carried to a conclusion. Still Vanderbilt objected that it was too big a commission.

"What was it worth?" asked Mr. Scott.

"Oh," said Mr. Vanderbilt, "$200.-000."

.Very well, then, let me have the $200,000." said the gentleman from Pennsylvania, and the matter was settled. Had Mr. Scott insisted there is little doubt the $500,000 would have been forthcoming. As it was, the commission was as easily earned as any money Mr. Scott ever made.

A Perfumed Caravan.

Every one knows how subtle, penetrating, and permanent is the rich perfume of attar of roses. The larger part of the world's supply of this delicious scent is made in Persia, where there are many hundreds of acres devoted to the cultivation of roses for this purpose.

At certain seasons of the year long caravans of donkeys, laden with the attar, and under guard of soldiers to protect the rich booty from attack by robbers, journey from central Persia to the little port of Bushire. whence it is exported to Bombay. Other donkey trains simlarly escorted proceed to ports on the Caspian sea, whence the attar is conveyed to Turkey and Russia, which, after Hindostan, are the largest consumers of the costly luxury. When the wind is in the right direction the approach of one of these caravans is announced by the scent long before it can be seen, and the line of its progress can be traced by the odor for days after it has passed by .---Harper's Young People.

HISTORIC QUEBEC.

Parts of it Suggestive of Scenes in the Old World.

From Quebec a correspondent writes to the Paris Messonger: "Ici on parle francais" might be written on the portals of this quaint and picturesque old city. Strolling in lower Quebec, you might easily fancy yourself in Amiens or Dieppe. In the upper town there is more English, but everywhere an amusing mixture. On the same card you will read "Maison a louer," "House to let:" on one side of the door "Pas d'admission sans affaires" and on the other "No admittance except on business." This bilingual necessity causes a little extra painting and printing. Each railway crossing must be marked likewise, "Traverse du chemin de fer" and every official "notice" must be printed also in full as an "Avis." The blending is often curious, as when two adjoining shops have their announcements one in French and the other in English. Along the Grande Alle, running right across the Plains of Abraham, you might be in Brussels or Paris, only that Clifton terrace seems to recall you to Kensington. American travelers for whom Europe is too distant are advised to go to Quebec, there to find a bit of the mediaeval old world transplated to the new, but still embalmed in its ancient religious sentimentalism, upon which the rush and roar of modern unrest produce as little effect as the Atlantic breakers on the blood purifier and nerve tonic.
