SUPERVISOR CONVENTION.

Notice is hereby given that the republican supervisor convention for the Second supervisor district is called to meet in Mineola school house on Saturday, Sept. 30, 1899, at 2 o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of placing in nomination a candidate for supervisor and transacting such other business as may come before the meeting.
H. HODGKIN, Chairman.

Bryan stumped Nebraska, or a portion of it, for Cleveland in 1892 and said the salvation of the American people was in the adoption of a free trade policy by this government. His candidate was elected and woeeful want, starving people and workless men filled the country. Thousands of fortunes were lost and all business stagnated. In 1896 he stumped the country for himself and proclaimed to the poor people throughout these United States that unless he was elected and his free silver hobby saddled onto the people everything would go to hades, or some other foreign port, and we would all be subjects for the poor house and a paupers grave. Well, he was defeated, and were his predictions verified? No! No sooner had that champion of American industries, William McKinley, secured control of the ship of state than business revived; money circulated once again freely through the channels that knew it prior to democracy's ascent to the chair of state and peace and plenty was supreme. Now Bryan is again stumping the country repairing his fences for the purpose of securing a renomination and, as to be expected, he has a new hobby. It is now an imperialism, an issue that was grasped by him in the vain hope that it might possibly bridge the chasm that separates him from the white house. Vaulting ambition has sounded the political death knell or many a politician and so it will be with Bryan, a leader without a following. A man who was a false prophet in '92 and again in '96 is not one that the people have much confidence in and Mr. Bryan will awake some morning to a realization of that fact.

With a good strong pull together republicans can elect the entire ticket.

The pops in Ewing township are disgusted with the actions of young Kay, their candidate for clerk of the district court, and many of them claim that Skirving will receive fifty majority in the township.

KINKAID'S NOMINATION.

Ord Quiz: The republicans made no mistake in their choice. Judge Kinkaid is a man most eminently qualified for the place and will be a credit to the district and the state when he goes to Washington to represent us.

Hastings Tribune: The republicans of that district should be congratulated upon their good judgment and excellent choice as Mr. Kinkaid enjoys the honor of being a candidate who is not only well qualified in every respect but is most highly esteemed by all who know him regardless of party politics.

Callaway Courier. In nominating Judge Moses P. Kinkaid for congress the republicans brought out a Moses who will lead the people of the Sixth district out of the populist wilderness in which they have been wandering the past eight years. Our Moses, unlike his namesake of old, will not only catch a glimpse of the promised land, but will land there square on his feet on November the seventh.

WATTERSON'S VIEWS.

The following is a clipping from a lengthy article published in the Louisville Courier Journal, the leading democratic newspaper of the south:

"Anti expansion is anti democracy. The democratic party of Jefferson and Jackson was ever the apostle of national expansion. Manifest destiny was its rallying cry. That idea is none the less living and vital to day than it was fifty, sixty, eighty years ago.

"All these new territorial acquisitions are with us to stay. They came to us unbidden. They were sent to us by that mysterious power to which we owe all that we are, all that we have. Who shall say it nay? He that does this—and the more surely if he be a party leader—pronounces his own political damnation.

"The activities of the Atlantic are being gradually but certainly transferred to the Pacific. We are there already. Shall we sieze upon the means of confirming our power which God has given us, or shall we let them go, and later on, at infinite cost, be obliged to fight to recover them?"

"No party ever threw itself across the pathway of its country's greatness and glory and lived to tell the tale, and no party ever can or will or ought."

LUCIEN STEBBINS AGAIN.

Lucien Stebbins is heard from again. The distinction of being the populist middle-of-the-road congressman has fallen on William Neville, and there being also a democratic nominee and no chance for himself, he has concluded not to run but to help the campaign along as best he can from the vantage ground of a private citizen. He writes as follows to the North Platte Telegraph.

"As we have two middle-of-the-road candidates for congress in the Sixth Congressional district the public will excuse me for not running and making a third candidate from North Platte, and I will devote my attention to those who are running.

"M. C. Harrington is the nominee of the democratic party, the party to which Bryan belongs, and he cannot be expected to lay down to a will-o-the-wisp on a confusion ticket, that Bryan never recognizes excepting for use. Mr. Harrington will undoubtedly maintain his own self respect, and the consideration he owes to the men who nominated him by remaining on the ticket.

"Wm. Neville was a gold standard democrat under Mr. Cleveland, and as a reward for his fidelity to his principles Mr. Cleveland gave him an appointment in the North Platte land office. This position Mr. Neville filled just as long as it lasted. When his term run out Mr. Neville stepped out of the land office into the peoples party as district judge, where he was just as good a populist as he had been a gold standard democrat. Out of these two terms of office Mr. Neville had drawn $33,000 and blown it in for his own amusement. From that day to this he has wanted all the offices he could see and has telegraphed for all that he could hear from. He went to the congressional convention a fusionist, after he got the nomination in his convention he turned middle-of-the-roader, he never lets anything pass him. He said Harrington word that if he would lay down he, Neville, would see to it that Bryan was elected, but the Harrington people couldn't see anything in that position.

"Neville now lays back on his haunches and says that Bryan has got to see to it that he is elected or be himself defeated for the presidency.

"Stay with your party, Mr. Harrington. Neville, fusion and Bryan will be defeated. The only thing for a populist to do in this election is to vote either the democratic or republican ticket. Surely no man who respects himself can vote for Neville. As an expert political trader Neville beats Judas Iscariot. Had Neville lived in Judas Iscariot's time, Judas would never have been heard of. Neville would have traded Christ for the whole Roman Empire.

"Not any of these fusionists can live without office. Allen must still have office, his office boys and progeny must have pie. Holcomb wrote a farewell message as long as a picket rope and as wide as four cowhides, not a word in it that will ever be remembered or repeated. Holcomb must still have office, there is no other man in the state of Nebraska that can possibly be judge. These reform statesmen they hold on to the teat until they dry up and fall off dead like wood-ticks. The sainted Edmisten, he traveled a distance equal to one and one fourth times around the world, inspecting coal oil and working politics on rail-passes, but he charged the mileage up to the state and collected the money. Edmisten is re-instated as chairman of the peoples' independent party state committee. He will prepare the corpse and lay it away.

"Brother pops, two years ago I told you what you were coming to. You then laughed at me, you can now laugh at yourselves. In the near future I will pour a little more of the oil of consolation into you on the subject of our county ticket."

The office of county clerk is a clerical one and should be filled by a man who writes a legible hand and that man is Lieutenant J. W. Wertz.

Judge Benson can read his title clear to the office of county judge. He will make an officer of whom the people can well feel proud of and one who will not allow his personal feelings to influence him in deciding a case.

The insulting sturs and insinuations cast by the cellar rat at the republican candidates is liable to rebound like a boomerang and smote some of the pop candidates in the solar plexus or some equally as tender portion of their anatomy.

"Where is your badge, and why are you not out with the crowd?" remarked a prominent pop last Monday to a gentleman who in '93 was a very ardent Bryan shouter. "McKinley is good enough for me" he replied, and the Bryan shouter ducked his head and walked away. There are hundreds of men in Holt county who think the same way and they will loyally support the administration by voting for Judge Kinkaid and the entire republican ticket.

THE MADSTONE SELDOM FAILS

Wonderful Properties Claimed for a Memphis Possession.
From the St. Louis Post Dispatch: There is in the house of Mrs. J. B. Beebe, of 73 Dunlap street, Memphis, Tenn., a wonderful madstone, which for 75 years has enjoyed the reputation of performing wonderful cures of hydrophobia. Mrs. John Shelton, the sister of Mrs. Beebe, is the owner of the stone. It was willed to her by her father, a minister in the Christian church, to whom it was presented by a poor German woman in his parish. The pastor made good use of it for more than half a century. In all those years only two persons treated with the stone failed to recover. One of these had let the wound go unattended for over nine days; the other was a farmer, too busy with his crop to permit of the applications which were considered necessary. Mrs. Shelton lost her father twenty years ago. She has used the madstone constantly since and has never either lost a case or made a charge for treating. People come from far and near to be treated. In many instances dumb brutes that have been bitten by rabid dogs have died, while people bitten by the same dogs have recovered, showing conclusively that the animals were mad. The stone is broken in several pieces and has something the appearance of a piece of coral. It is porous and absorbs the poison when applied to the wound. It was broken by being gnawed by a valuable dog. The dog was being treated for hydrophobia. He had been bitten and the stone was bound to his wound. He not only gnawed the stone off, but tried to chew it into bits. The stone is applied by being first put in hot water for a few minutes. Then it is taken out and placed, as hot as can be borne, upon the wound. This is repeated hourly for twelve hours. If there is more than one wound the treatment is extended to twenty-four hours.

Lottery Scheme for Spain.

Under the auspices of the Spanish government a great lottery scheme will be launched in Madrid August 1, the receipts of which, minus the prizes, will be turned over to the government for its most pressing needs. It is thought that by September the salaries of civil and military servants recently suspended can then be made good. Circulars are being sent out all over Europe, and it is expected that 500,000,000 pesetas, or about $100,000,000, will be netted by the government. There are five capital prizes of 500,000 pesetas each. The lottery is now new in Spain, but Spanish lottery has never been popular in other states of Europe, investors preferring to take their chances with the Dutch or Prussian lotteries. The Spanish lottery in 1897 brought the treasury 3,000,000 pesetas, in the same year the Portuguese lottery gained 1,750,000 milreis (nearly $2,000,000). The lottery is authorized in other countries of Europe. In Italy last year the government gained 62,000,000 lire ($12,400,000), showing that the poor lazzarone was not without his savings. In Holland the official lotteries gained $300,000; in Denmark the winnings amounted to about half a million more. But the Prussian lottery, which is annually operated under the direct authority of the state, is the most popular. There are a number of prizes of 500,000 marks every year, and in 1897 the receipts of the treasurer amounted to over 100,000,000 marks.—New York Times.

Not Infallible.

Harriet Martineau, the English author, was shrewd and practical, and had what men are pleased to call a "masculine intellect." But she was not always correct in her deductions, a fact illustrated by the following anecdote, told in her "Memoirs" by Sir Charles Murray, who was then the English consul-general in Egypt: One afternoon we met at the villa of my old friend, S. W. Larking, on the banks of the Mahamoudieh canal. In the course of our stroll through the garden we came to a small gate, the pattern of which was new to Miss Martineau, who was walking in front. She stopped, and looking at the gate in an attitude of intense admiration, exclaimed: "How truly Oriental! What wonderful taste these easterners have in design!" She went on, and as Larking and I followed through the gate, he whispered to me, "I got it out last week from Birmingham."

Advantage of Being a Kaiser.

"Waterlandlose Gesellin," fellows without a country," the phrase used by the kaiser to designate the social democrats a few years ago, has been adjudged libelous by a Prussian court if used by a less exalted person. The phrase was applied in the late election by a conservative candidate to some electors who voted for his Polish opponent, and he has been condemned to pay for it.

Life of a Queen Bee.

The life of the queen bee is from three to four years; that of the drone is not easily estimated, as it dies from violence, while the worker lives from three to six months. Bees have been known to occupy one hive for 46 consecutive seasons.

Explosive Power of Water.

It has been demonstrated that the explosive power of a sphere of water only one inch in diameter is sufficient to burst a brass vessel having a resisting power of 27,000 pounds.

Fine Figure
Many women lose their girlish forms after they become mothers. This is due to neglect. The figure can be preserved beyond question if the expectant mother will constantly use during the whole period of pregnancy. The earlier its use is begun, the more perfectly will the shape be preserved.
Mother's Friend
Mother's Friend not only softens and relaxes the muscles during the great strain before birth, but helps the skin to contract naturally afterward. It keeps unsightly wrinkles away, and the muscles underneath retain their pliability.
Mother's Friend is that famous external liniment which banishes morning sickness and nervousness during pregnancy; shortens labor and makes it nearly painless; builds up the patient's constitutional strength, so that she emerges from the ordeal without danger. The little one, too, shows the effects of Mother's Friend by its robustness and vigor.
Sold at drug stores for $1 a bottle.
