O'Neill, Neb., March 5, 1900.—Letters un-called for at the post office for the following persons: P. Hanes, G. L. Roberts, Jan Ballou, Herman Timmerman, T. H. O'Connell, Henry Cole, Harry Leggart, Gillie Whilly, Miss Martha Colwell. In calling for the above please say "advertised"; if not called for in two weeks will be sent to the dead letter office.—D. H. Cronin, Postmaster.

Mrs. Sarah Judd died at her home two miles north of Inman last Monday. The deceased was 82 years old and was one of the first settlers of Holt county. The funeral took place Wednesday, interment in Inman cemetery.

Dr. Wilkinson, the skilled oculist, of Omaha, specialist eye, ear, nose, throat and catarrh, and one of the best known men in Omaha and the state in his line of work, will be at the office of Dr. J. P. Gilligan, Monday, March 19.

Numerous names have been mentioned in connection with the mayoralty nomination but so far no one has had the bravery to announce his candidacy. But the chances are that candidates will be plentiful before election day arrives.

W. C. Fawkes was up from Belden the latter part of last week and the first of this seeking a ranch location. Mr. Fawkes contemplates moving back to old Holt provided he can secure a suitable location for the cattle business. One by one they return.

Cyril Erychleb resigned his position in J. P. Mann's last Wednesday and this morning left for a short visit with his best girl and other friends in the eastern part of the state. Rafe King has been employed by Mr. Mann to fill the vacancy in his corps of clerks.

P. W. Roberts of Page, for many years a reader of The Frontier, sends us a draft for seven years' subscription. Mr. Roberts moves this week to Sumas Wash., and says, "I don't think we can keep house without The Frontier." Thanks. We wish Mr. Roberts prosperity in the coast country.

Atkinson Pain Dealer: Sam Thompson, Frank Martin, Clarence Campbell, Charley Harding, Maud Gillespie, May Campbell, Tena Gatz and Coila Utley were in attendance at the fireman's ball here last Thursday evening, from the county seat. They took a portion of the cake home with them.

Just as the hurried business man was congratulating himself on being able to move about the city sans overcoat and felt boots along came a blast from the north with a good-sized snow storm and several degrees of freezing and he had to haul out his heavy garments and muffle himself up for another month's winter.

This is the way a western poet dilates upon a recent imaginary trip through the "enemy's country" in South Africa:

"As fast across the veldt we flew,
Our horses on the run,
Each kopje bore a Boer or two,
Each Boer he bore a gun."

Chambers Bugle: William Higgins an old man of eighty years, was found by a searching party in his shanty in the hills five or six miles from Bartlett in a most pitiable condition. He had no fuel and had not had a fire for two days. A small quantity of flour was the only thing eatable in the house. He was brought to town and cared for and is gaining strength rapidly.

"Well, that's just what I think. It's dreadful the way some girls do talk and carry on. Why, there's Miss Loose-tongue and a half dozen more I know who are perfectly shocking. I think that editor is just right in talking out this way." (Reads on.) "Hold on there! What's this he says! That smarty of an editor thinks he knows it all!" And the indignant lady casts the paper to the floor.

A. R. DeFluent, editor of the Journal Doylestown, Ohio, suffered for a number of years from rheumatism in his right shoulder and side. He says: "My right arm at time was entirely useless. I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and was surprised to receive relief almost immediately. The Pain Balm has been a constant companion of mine ever since and it never fails." For sale by P. C. Corrigan.

Cyril Erychleb has purchased a half interest in the general merchandise store of Joe Mann & Co., at Spencer, and will take charge of the business there about April 1. Joe Mann & Co. will engage in the mercantile business in Atkinson about that time. Cyril has been in the employ of J. P. Mann for about ten years and is competent and qualified to give the people of Spencer and Boyd county a first-class store. The Frontier wishes him success in his new venture.

Miss Florence Smith celebrated her twenty-second anniversary last evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Smith, who reside four miles south of town. About fifteen guests were present. Dancing and card playing was the order for the evening. A generous supply of delicious things was spread for supper at 12 o'clock. Miss Smith was the recipient of a watch and a number of other presents. It was pronounced a very enjoyable affair by those who attended.

Lish Graham, one of the boys who took his first lesson in the art preservation in O'Neill about twenty-one years ago and who has been a machine operator on the Boston Journal the past six years, arrived in O'Neill with his family last Thursday night and will make this county his future home. He will farm north of town about four miles and see if the bracing country air will bring back the bloom to his cheeks that he lost in the city that is famous for the quality of her baked beans.

We have saved many doctor bills since we began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in our home. We keep a bottle open all the time and whenever any of my family or myself begin to catch cold we begin to use the Cough Remedy, and as a result we never have to send away for a doctor and incur a large doctor bill, for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never fails to cure. It is certainly a medicine of great merit and worth.—D. S. Mearkle, General Merchant and Farmer, Mattie, Bedford county, Pa. For sale by P. C. Corrigan.

Chadron News: A little grizzley bearded Englishman, who claims to be as free from sin as Christ was when on earth, has been doing the evangelist act at the Alpha and Locket districts the past two or three weeks. He assured the News editor that he was absolutely free from sin, and that he possessed the power to assist and heal all saints of all manners of diseases just as Christ did. He carries a clipping from the Rushville Recorder to bear him out in his statements. He says he has been in the Rocky mountains for a great many years and has preached the gospel and chummed with Calamity Jane and other wild western characters in the early days.

The Frontier publishes a full page ad this week for L. C. Wade, the ranchman, who is going to sell off his stock. It is of such unusual occurrence for an O'Neill paper to have such a thing that we are inclined to remark about it. Mr. Wade has the right idea of advertising. He says that a matter of a few dollars in the cost of an advertisement amounts to nothing, as advertising extensively, if it only brings one good buyer more than otherwise would come, more than pays for the cost. The advertiser can learn something from the ranchman in the matter of advertising. A paper judiciously devoted to plain and straight forward statements of one who has something to sell captures public attention and makes business for the advertiser.

A heavy-handed, broadly-be whiskered homesteader from Boyd county was keeping vigilance on the O'Neill land office for several days not long ago. A smooth tongued chap came along to the homesteader as he was holding down his claim and making his continuous residence upon, and cultivation of, said land and threatened to contest the same, making such a talk that the homesteader thought he meant business, and he got so badly scared at the prospect of losing his claim that he put up $10 for the chap to shut up. The fellow left him and in a couple of months started the same game on the same homesteader. But the ten was not so easily plucked the next time and the man with the homestead stood him a round at the land office and won out. You can fool part of the people most all the time but you can't get a Boyd county homesteader more than once.

The organization of a company of Nebraska National Guards at O'Neill has been completed and officers elected and the credentials sent into the state officers. The company is organized with forty-nine men, including officers. The commissioned and non-commissioned officers are: C. E. Hall, captain; John Davidson, first lieutenant; Charles Harding, second lieutenant; John C. Olsen, first sergeant; Martin Cronin, second; Sam Thompson, third; Merrit Martin fourth and Sheridan Simmons fifth sergeants; Robert Williams, quarter master; Charles Cole, first; John Fallon, second; Otto Cleish, third and John Horrisky, jr., fourth, corporals; James Davis and George Henry musicians. The company has not yet been formally mustered in as state guards, but this ceremony will take place on a date to be named by the state mustering officer and will probably be done in the near future. The state officers will also appoint the company a place in the regiment and it is thought it will be designated Company M. Several members of the organization are "war scarred veterans" of the late Spanish unpleasantness and are pretty well up on military affairs. This will be the second time O'Neill has had a company of state guards, the former being Company F, which was organized during the term of Governor Crouse. There is no reason why our city can't have a good company of soldiers, and The Frontier believes the men in this organization will make it one of the best companies in the state.

At the meeting of the city council held Monday evening a committee was appointed to do a little prospecting in the matter of the electric light business. It seems that the council is figuring some on buying the incandescent plant and handling it as city property. The O'Neill Electric Light company is about to pass up and Manager Minnick is arranging to remove the arc plant and engine to Alliance, says he is negotiating the sale of the rest of the plant to Neligh parties and figures on leaving O'Neill in the dark. Just what the city council will do we cannot guess, but it is not likely they will purchase the plant. Mr. Minnick is under contract to furnish city streets lights till the first of May. It is rather a hard dose on some of the citizens who invested all the way from $25 to $100 for fixtures and chandeliers less than a year ago to have the plant close down and pull out of the city and a good many men are irate over the prospects. The Frontier doesn't like to see O'Neill without electric lights though our plant here has in some respects proved unsatisfactory. It looks like a backward step to be without lights, but owing to circumstances it doesn't appear to be a wise financial move on the part of the city to make such an investment.

Resolutions. O'Neill, Neb., Feb. 15 1900. Whereas, Ash Camp No. 160, Woodmen of the World, has with profound sorrow, learned that the angel of death has visited the home of Sovereign C. L. Davis, a most worthy and stalwart oak in the forest of woodcraft, and removed therefrom his amiable and promising son Claude L.; and Whereas, The utmost endeavors of Sovereign Davis are ever extended for the welfare and prosperity of this camp and he has been ever ready to prefer the hand of aid and the voice of sympathy to his brother sovereigns, and their dear ones in times of affliction and grief; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the heartfelt sympathy of this camp be extended to Sovereign Davis and his estimable family in this their hour of trial and affliction and that we devoutly commend them to the keeping and loving consolation of Him who reigns supreme Sovereign Commander in that eternal and ever-green forest where there are no partings and where Woodmen of the World hope for a final and eternal reunion.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of the camp, and a copy thereof be transmitted to Sovereign Davis and family and to each of the newspapers of O'Neill.
