A FEW WORDS WITH YOU

You have clothing to buy. We have clothing to sell. You want the best you can get for the money. We want your trade. Other people want it also—and they send you their catalogues and samples and you send your size and money. May be they will fit; may be they won't. If not, you can exchange, but you will then have to pay express three times instead of one; and that's expensive.

If you buy from us you will pay no more, and you will see what you are buying before you pay your money. Have you ever worn this brand of clothing:

There is none better in America. They fit well; they wear well; they are not expensive. You can buy a suit of us to suit your purse, whether it be fat or lean. As low as $5.75; as high as $18, and every suit worth one hundred cents on the dollar any place in the land.

Ladies' Suits

We sell ladies suits, too. Nice, new, nobby, stylish, well made, good fitting, strictly up to date Tailor Made suits. $8.50, $10, $12, $15—you can't possibly buy them cheaper any place, and you can fit them without paying express two or three times.

A nice line of ladies' summer jackets, dress skirts, under skirts and misses' and children's cotton dresses just received.

Choice cakes, fine home made bread (brown and white), pressed chicken, dressed chickens, boiled ham, pickles, fruit, salad and in fact everything for your Easter dinner can be obtained Saturday afternoon at the opera-house. Come early and have first choice.

Atkinson Republican: Dora, the 7-year old daughter of A. W. Sexton, living with Mrs. Oscar Deming, her sister, started last Saturday on horseback to go to her father's home, 25 miles northwest of Atkinson. She found her folks absent and started to return to her sister's, a distance of about 7 miles. She was obliged to cross the prairie where there were no houses. Darkness overtook her and when about two thirds of the way back her horse threw her, and the little one rambled around over the prairie during the entire night. Meantime her friends became alarmed about her protracted absence and a searching party with lanterns and improvised torches was organized to discover the whereabouts of the lost child. They soon found where her footprints made a meandering trail in the sand and also where she had twice crossed the Big Sandy, but their search was not further rewarded until daylight when they discovered her retreating from them, but they soon reached her. The little one said she had seen their lights and heard them call her, but she would not go to them, fearing they would laugh at her for being lost.

RAPE CASE DEVELOPS A NEW DEAL

The case in county court wherein Icy Munt of Stuart seeks redress of alleged wrongs and to wreak vengeance on the offenders has developed a new and somewhat unexpected phase. William Fuller, as heretofore stated in The Frontier, is now under $1,500 bond for appearance at the next term of district court to answer to the charge of rape. Last Thursday before Judge Selah another hearing involving the same woman and the same charge, but against another man, was had. Jacob Kraft was arrested on complaint of County Attorney Butler and hauled into court. The hearing hung on for the greater part of two days and resulted in the dismissal of the case, the defendant proving that the Munt girl perjured herself in the testimony. The defense proved that Kraft was at his home and had not seen the girl on the night she claimed he committed the crime. After taking of the testimony, Attorney Harrington, who was assisting County Attorney Butler, arose and stated that he was convinced that the Munt girl had not spoken the truth, he did not care to be connected with sending a man to the penitentiary against whom there was no evidence and therefore withdrew from the case. Mr. Butler took the same position, hence the case was dismissed.

Since the dismissal of Kraft, the county attorney has brought an action against Richard Johnson charging him with persuading, procuring and suborning "one Icy Munt, in the county of Holt and state of Nebraska, to willfully, falsely, knowingly and corruptly charge on" Jacob Kraft, late of the county of Holt and state of Nebraska, with having committed the crime of rape upon her person on or about the 28th day of December, 1899." It seems that the Munt girl made a statement to Mr. Butler to the effect that Johnson had persuaded her into making the charges she did against Kraft, the point being to force some money out of Kraft and Johnson to have a share in it. What truth, if any, in these allegations we do not know. They are the charges on which Johnson will have a preliminary hearing next Saturday. Meanwhile he is under $500 bond. The parties all belong at Stuart.

The levees on both sides of the Mississippi are of sufficient extent that if they were built in a straight line they would be about 1,300 miles long. Long enough to stretch the greater part of the distance between New York and New Orleans. They would form a bank of earth about 10 feet wide at the base, eight feet wide at the top and 13 or 14 feet high. These levees would lose its water to the water in comparison with them and they have cost any millions of dollars.

The Boers have given the English troops a few hard blows the past two weeks and those in Great Britain who thought the war about over are beginning to realize that it has just got fairly started.

The Seeds That Never Grow.

(Read by Mr. Shattuc of Ohio, in lower house April 9.)

I nearly hate the thought of spring, With its delightful sun, For well I know the mail will bring, A pack from Washington; A little package, duly franked, No postage stamps to show, And it contains those little seeds— The kind that never grow.

Our good and zealous Congressman, Remindful of our vote, Upon his memorandum's page, Puts down a little note, And when the proper time arrives For us to wield the hoe, He sendeth us the little seeds— The ones that never grow.

There's squashes with enticing names, And cabbages, I wot, So large that you would think that one Would shade a garden spot; So with the pack from Washington You amble forth to sow, With many a drop of sweat, the seeds— That never care to grow.

How often have I plied the rake; How oft I've lounged about, With eyes alert to catch the first Signs of the coming sprout; In vain, in vain, my hopes have fled, My heart has fled with woe, Above the seeds from Washington— The seeds that never grow.

But yet each year my hopes revive, As spring reclothes the tree, And to my homestead surely comes The package marked "M. C." And, foolish like, again I wield The sprinkler and the hoe, And, like a fool, plant the seeds— That never care to grow.

For 'tis in a country, The new building of a New York cremation company was opened recently with an entertainment in the apartment which will be used as a chapel. The exercises began with prayer, followed by singing, recitations and performances on the banjo, mandolin and xylophone. Then came a lecture on liquid air and a colation was served before the audience dispersed.

Call and see the Dutch Girl disc, she is a beauty and worth her weight in gold. O. F. Biglin.
