"Kearney has a citizen named Schwartztraub," says the Fremont Tribune, "who should be introduced to John Trommershauser of Ewing."

Editor Coombs came in from Spencer Tuesday evening and departed Wednesday morning for Oakdale, where he went to attend memorial exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Pfunder and child Fred is now located at Norfolk where he has a good position in the insane asylum.

A number of O'Neill people went to Chambers yesterday to attend memorial services. Deputy County Treasurer Donahoe went over to make the oration.

Governor Poynter won the injunction case against Dr. Lang of the Beatrice institute for feeble minded hands down Holt county pops had better take note.

Mrs. Mary Golden and her sister, Mrs. Ann Fitzsimmons, left for Chicago Sunday morning, being called there by the serious illness of their brother, Patrick Clear, formerly of this city.

Yesterday was memorial day. The old veterans of the O'Neill post did not make there usual demonstrations. The only thing done was to march to the graveyards and decorate the tombs of dead soldiers.

A. Anderson of Genoa, Nebraska county, was in the city Monday and secured a quarter section of land located in the southwest part of the county. Mr. Anderson will move to Holt county next year and engage in the business of raising cattle, which is an ever growing industry in southern Holt.

The prohibitionists of Holt county are hereby called to meet in convention at the court-house in O'Neill on Tuesday, June 12, at 10 o'clock, to elect delegates to the state convention to meet at Lincoln July 10 and to transact any other business that may legally come before the convention.

T. M. Elder, county chairman.

Nebraska pops have raised their voices time and again against government by injunction. But it is noted that a pop will get an injunction order from the court just as quick as the next fellow. Attorney General Smyth asking Judge Dickinson to enjoin the Omaha ice trust and Dr. Lang seeking an injunction to hold his job are illustrative of the point in question.

The state apportionment of school money for May gives Holt county $4,566.35. This is an increase of $1,225.35 over the December apportionment and $843.45 larger than the May apportionment a year ago. While the May apportionment for this year is large it falls short a little over $200 of the amount in May, 1898, which was the largest ever apportioned to Holt county.

Last week Willie O'Connor received a letter from Tom Kearney, who will be remembered by many of our old residents, he having lived here in early days and left some ten years ago. He is now in the regular army, a sergeant in company —, Twenty-fourth infantry, stationed in the Philippines. He says this is his second enlistment, having served with the regulars during the Cuban campaign.

Kenneth Wilcox, who returned from Michigan two weeks ago, is in charge of the Ward store since Charley Millard went to the hills.

Work on St. Mary's convent is being pushed forward rapidly. John Hunt has the contract for the brick work and has seven bricklayers at work. He expects to have the brickwork completed by August 15.

A procession of twenty hog growers from the northeast country filed into the Elkhorn Valley bank Tuesday and passed checks over the counter for coin up in the thousands in payment for an admirable bunch of swine.

R. H. Mills tells us that he has one city well completed and is now at work on the second. It was not necessary to go as deep as at first anticipated, plenty of water being had at a depth of fifty-one feet. On the hill where they are now at work Mr. Mills says he expects to have to go down about eighty feet.

We visited Neil Brennan's park in the northeast part of the city last Monday and was delighted at the beauty and grandeur thereof. It is indeed beautiful and shows that much labor and care have been bestowed upon the grounds. A large variety of trees are growing, among them pine, cedar, cottonwood, ash, boxelder, maple and walnut, and all are thriving. Its well worth a visit to anyone wishing to view an ideal park.

At their meeting last Saturday evening the school board elected the following teachers: Anna Hopkins, Alice Cronin, Tillie Mullen, Maggie Hurley, Tess O'Sullivan, Maud Gillispie. Miss Greeley of Atkinson was elected assistant principal. The board took seventeen ballots for principal, but were unable to elect and so adjourned until next Saturday night. Robert Marsh was re-elected janitor.

Alta Heywood's bi-chloride of iron will cure everything (including the blues). He treats the entire system through the eye and ear. Throats examined while you laugh. No pain, except in the side. You yell, but it don't hurt. You cry, but it's from laughing. Heywood is supported by a company of artists, all the best in their line. Not a dull moment, but a merry-go-round of fun. To appear here on the evening of June 6.

Prof. E. H. Wheilan left last Friday for Lincoln, where he will study law at the state university as soon as the term for next year opens up. During the summer vacation he expects to prepare for the university work by reading law in the office of one of Lincoln's leading exponents of Blackstone. Ed is a bright young man and The Frontier predicts for him a successful career in his studies and a brilliant expounder of law after having obtained a sheepskin.

A group of O'Neill ladies were chatting the other evening about numerous things dear to the feminine heart when one of them, who had probably seen thirty summers and winters without number, remarked: "Say, girls, I am so glad that an old married man has been appointed census enumerator for O'Neill—for it would be perfectly horrid if some young man had the position and we would have to tell him our age. Well, I wouldn't, that's all!" The rest of the party acquiesced in her statement and with much tittering dispersed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed F. Gallagher, J. F. Gallagher and James O'Donnell went up to Atkinson Wednesday, where and when Mr. O'Donnell and Charles Brook had a live pigeon shoot for $25 a side. The shoot was very interesting, resulting in a tie, each contestant killing twenty-one birds out of twenty-five.

After the live bird contest they shot blue rocks, twenty-five each, and here the O'Neillite came out ahead, the score standing eighteen to fourteen. The same gentlemen will have another live bird shoot in the near future in this city.

Tomorrow the count of the people in the United States will begin in all parts of the country and will end in the cities two weeks later and in the rest of the country before the close of the month. The people are to be counted at their places of residence, but as many persons and families will be away from their homes during June there is some danger that such persons will not be counted. If they are not counted, the locality in which they live will be misrepresented to that extent, and in some cases this misrepresentation may be enough to affect the representation in congress from which they come. The various states may require re-districting and it is probable Nebraska will be divided into seven districts instead of six. Hence it is important that a full count be had. In all cases of contemplated absence the head of the family should communicate with the census supervisor in their district, who for this district is John T. Mallue of Kearney. The census office requests this and also that he leave information regarding the answers to the questions which are to be asked with some responsible neighbor who will agree to see that it reaches the enumerator on his rounds. Such information might better be left as a memorandum in writing, as in that case it is less likely to be overlooked. The questions to which answers are desired apply primarily to the population, but also to all farms and manufacturing establishments. By taking this trouble the absent citizen will do justice to his locality and his state and materially aid the census office in the performance of its duties.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Any one who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the inflicting is demonaic enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism, and hundreds bear testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. For sale by P. C. Corrigan.

Era: A learned Culbertsonite by the name of John Doe could never agree with his wife which was proper, "got-ton" or "got." The argument lasted almost daily for years, but at last the wife, who was champion of the latter term, won a signal victory in the argument. Mr. Doe was in "McCook recent" and wired his wife: "Have gotten tickets for the opera tonight; meet me there." The telegraph operator rendered this into: "Have got ten tickets," etc. Mrs. Doe was delighted with the opportunity to entertain her friends, and accordingly made up a party of eight besides herself and met John at the rendezvous with great cordiality and delight. He soon found that he was expected to pay the freight, which he did with as much abandon as possible. But he no longer says "got-ton" for "got."

While at the Elkhorn depot last Friday morning we observed a weary Willie board the train and swing himself to his favorite berth just a above the wheel truck while the train was going at the rate of ten miles an hour. The wading tourists, who are afraid of water and work, have by constant practice become expert at boarding trains, and to one who never saw this feat of athletics it would appear quite impossible. The gentleman of much travel grasps the rod that extends from length to length on either side of the car and with the grace of a dancing maiden swings to the timbers of the truck, and there is as safe as the bondholder who reclines on soft cushions in the Pullman above him. Railroad boys say "boarding the bumps" is not a difficult feat, but few of them like to try it.

Tuesday was the thirty-fourth anniversary of Rev. E. Grant Hutchinsen, pastor of the Methodist church of this city. By secret conniving and pre-arrangement Mrs. E. Atchinson planned with a score and a half of friends to perpetrate a surprise on the pastor and when he had settled in an easy chair for the evening was aroused by an invading party who came to remind him of advancing years. The evening was pleasantly spent in a social way and the guests were regaled, before the party broke up, with summer refreshments. Just the older members of the pastor's church were present. They presented Rev. Hutchinsen with a rocking chair, the presentation being made by J. S. Coppoc accompanied with a few appropriate remarks, to which Rev. Hutchinsen responded in expressing his gratitude to those who had remembered him on that occasion.

The Division of Animal Pathology of the Experiment station at the University of Nebraska is perfecting its plans for the coming year's campaign against hog cholera. As is well known this division has been very active in inaugurating experiments with this disease. One of the experiments under contemplation is the taking up of certain counties in which hog cholera exists and having experts there to note the mortality in the entire county and to aid the officials of the county in eradicating the disease both by sanitary and popular methods and by the use of serum. It is hoped that if certain counties will take up this idea of assisting this division a great deal of good can be done, both in ascertaining how virulent the disease has been in the county and by reducing the per cent of mortality in the county. In other words, it is a kind of quarantine system, or stamping-out process, and it is hoped by this method that the farmers can guard against this disease to a large extent. The plans are not as yet fully matured but will be perfected before the work is begun.

KITTIE MATHEWS WINS FAME IN DARKEST ARKANSAS

(Arkansas Daily Gazette)

When the play of "Ingomar" was put on at the Capital theater on the night of February 8 last, under the direction and management of Dr. W. D. Mathews, by the Daughters of the Southern Confederacy and for the confederate monument building fund inaugurated by the Gazette three years ago, it will be remembered that the local players scored a surprising hit. The perfectness of the rendition and the talent displayed was a revelation in amateur work. Not only was the play a success from an artistic standpoint, but financially as well, some $600 being netted, and the hearts of our people warmed to all who had a hand in achieving such a pronounced success. Dr. Mathews being a northern man, son of a federal soldier and publisher of a republican newspaper, evinced so liberal a spirit in the matter that the occasion will always be remembered as one of the pleasant epochs in our city's history. With his son Harry and daughter Kittie as a nucleus a splendid company was formed, and it is often wished that other work would be attempted.

In the play of "Ingomar" Miss Kittie as "Parthenia" was easily the star, and by her perfect conception of the character, splendid acting and delivery, she won the hearts of the entire audience. Since then she has enjoyed general popularity, and has often appeared at social and private gatherings in recitation.

That her freely given assistance to the cause of raising the monument fund is duly appreciated is proven by an incident that occurred yesterday evening at Dr. Mathew's residence. It was intended that this suburban part of the program should take place at Dr. Moran's lecture Friday evening, just after Miss Kittie had recited that difficult tragic creation of "Hagar," but the necessary article had not been received from the manufacturers in St. Louis as had been expected. So a delegation of confederate veterans, members of Department Commander V. Y. Cook's staff, headed by the colonel himself and also accompanied by Col. Bob Newell, an ex federal officer, called at the home of Dr. Mathews, at 1518 West Ninth street, and offered a complete surprise to Miss Kittie and her parents. At the close of a social visit Col. Cook remarked that he couldn't talk much but had issued orders to Gen. Green to give Miss Kittie a good talking to, for she deserved it.

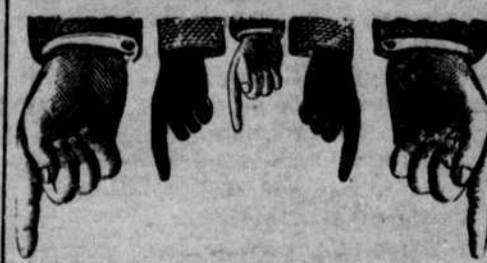

Gen. Green, with a cheery voice and a benignant smile, said:

"Miss Kittie: Meeting you here in your home is a pleasure. Col. Cook says I must make a speech, and to you. If I were forty years younger and your father and mother were in some other part of the house I know I could make an eloquent speech. However, it is a pleasure to obey the orders of my superior, wondrously to convey to you the assurance of the fact that the confederate veterans of Arkansas love you as one of their own—as a daughter, indeed. In your splendid and artistic work in the character of 'Parthenia' a few months ago and last night as 'Hagar' you have been helping to build a monument to the memory of the confederate dead. The old confederates living have been building in their hearts a monument to Miss Kittie, whom they now wish through me to thank from the heart's depths, and at the same time to exhibit in a manner more endurable their appreciation. In behalf of Col. Cook and the members of the staff I hand you this token, and with it goes our sincere wishes for your future happiness, health and prosperity in all things."

The basket which Gen. Green handed to Miss Kittie contained a handsome and original badge or jewel, and it is no wonder that the recipient could only murmur her thanks in a voice made husky with tears.

This pin is an odd affair, expressing a beautiful sentiment. It is made of gold. There are two flags crossed—one the confederate stars and bars, the other the stars and stripes. Beneath the flags, joining the staffs, is fligree scroll work, and between the flags is a handsome solitary diamond. The enamel work on the flags forming the stars and stripes and bars is beautiful. On the reverse is engraved, "Miss Kittie Mathews, by the Arkansas Division U. C. V." All in all it is the finest emblematic medalion we have seen in a long while. Well may Miss Mathews feel proud of it and well may the donors feel proud, too, in making so estimable a young lady happy; and she surely is, for when she telephoned the Gazette to thank her good friends for this evidence of esteem her voice proved as much, for it bespoke a heart overflowing with joy and thanks.

We understand Miss Kittie goes to Chicago next month to enter a school of oratory, and we know that she will wear the two flags with pride, and gloriously
