Perry's Latest Railroad Rumble.

Omaha Bee, Friday, Dec 14: Mr. A. O. Perry of Atkinson, well known as a railroad promoter, is in town in the interest of his new enterprise—a railroad running from Callaway, in Custer county, to Gandy, in Logan county, a distance of thirty-five miles. About three years ago Mr. Perry conceived the idea of running a railroad from his home in Atkinson to the new town site of Perry, on the notherly bank of Niobrara river, in Boyd county. He promoted the enterprise to the point where it was ready for the ties and rails and then his Chicago contractor fell down on him and brought everything to a standstill.

The old A. & N. R. R. company was succeeded by the more pretentious enterprise—the Dakota, Nebraska & Southern Railroad company and Perry's anticipations were high for the speedy accomplishment of his scheme. He had a large interest in the enterprise, which he recently unloaded, and severed his connection with the proposed road. He has now organized the Wade Construction company and has a railroad of his own. Mr. Perry says there is a full corps of surveyors in the field and that he will have trains running over the new line in early spring.

Philip Sullivan arrived in O'Neill from Anaconda, Mont., last week to spend the Christmas holidays with his parents north of this city. Phil has a good position in the head office of the Anaconda Mining Co., and looks as if he was enjoying his share of McKinley's prosperous times. He says all the Holt county boys in the west are well and prosperous.

The Century's Last Christmas.

Making an appeal for a simpler Christmas Edward Bok, in the December Ladies' Home Journal, considers this Christmas—because it is the last of the century—a good time to change about and go back to simpler Christmas of earlier days. "Why not respond a little to our natural selves—the selves that were given to us as children?" he asks. "In other words, why not be simpler, and be true to ourselves? Why not give a true remembrance to our children to carry them through their lives—the remembrance that comes of true giving. Not the giving that we feel, for some reason, we should or ought to practice. Not the giving that is measured by what the gift costs. Not the giving that comes of any artificial or conventional motive. But the giving that comes of great gladness: the giving prompted by real loving kindness: the giving of sincerity: the giving of the heart. It makes no difference how simple may be the giving. It need not be a gift: even a few written words will suffice. I believe that there are certain things needed to evoke the biggest power of Christmas: its rarest gladness. It shines brightest and best, and discloses most where material expression of it is wanted. It tells its best and sweetest secrets where love is found. It grants its highest endowments to hearts that are simple and true and gladden the lives of others. The material surroundings matter not. Upon such a Christmas the Master of the feast bestows the dearest, most abiding influences that can come into the human heart.

Columbia Calendar for 1901.

The 1901 edition of the Columbia desk calendar has made its appearance. This unique and useful compilation has been issued annually for the last sixteen years and has come to be regarded as an indispensable article in many business offices and homes. The new edition preserves the leading characteristics of its predecessors but shows marked improvement as regards presswork and binding. In a prefatory note publishers state that from time to time they have been urged to change the general character of the calendar—to make it a comic calendar, or more historical, or

The Big Sixth.

Yes, big in territory and with about the same number of votes as the other districts in the state, yet never able to hold together and get what she is justly entitled to, writes Editor Armstrong of the Butte Gazette.

While other districts are getting to the front in the senatorial race and pushing to the front their favorite sons, and some that are not so favorable, the Big Elephant of the northwest quietly watches the struggle, apparently never dreaming that by taking a hand in the game and bunching her strength she would be able to wield an influence, command respect and stand an equal chance with the other districts when the pie was cut.

Delegates from this district go to the annual state convention with about as much idea of what they are going for as a jack-rabbit, and like an old fashioned blunderbuss they shoot in all directions. Other districts attend with a well defined purpose, work in unison and land man or measure. We of the Sixth can do the same by using only an ordinary amount of head-work and common sense.

In this connection the Gazette wishes to mention Hon. M. P. Kinkaid as a man who would make a firstclass United States senator, and one who would reflect credit not only upon his district but upon the whole state. And as Messrs. Rosewater, Thompson, Hinchshaw, Hainer, Richard, Meiklejohn, Crounce, et al.—all good men—have not got a copper-lined sinch on the vote of the next legislature we urge upon the republican papers of the Big Sixth to get in line for Kinkaid.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will serve a 6 o'clock dinner at Hotel Evans, Thursday, December 27. Roast turkey with dressing and cranberry sauce; mashed potatoes with gravy, salad, jellies, pies, cake, doughnuts and coffee; 25 cents. Everybody invited.

astronomical or otherwise, different, but they have always thought it best to retain the old-time form with the contents subordinate to the original thought and independent judgment of the contributors who sent in the material for the page heads. The calendar is being distributed by the American Bicycle Co., Columbia Sales Department, Hartford, Conn. It will be sent to any address for five 2-cent stamps.
