For Congressman Sixth District,
HON. M. P. KINKAID.

Mickey, McGilton, Kinkaid. A good trio to follow.

Democratic assimilation of populism goes merrily on. They will have swallowed the entire party in another year, providing their digestive organs hold out.

For the first time in twelve years populists are not scrambling for congressional nomination in this district. Reason—They all realize defeat awaits them in November.

A Hooker county mercantile company goes by the title of the "Sand Hills Commercial Co. Sand is evidently a necessary qualification for the transaction of business in that section.

With such men as Kinkaid, McCarthy, Burkett, Hinshaw and Morris in congress, Nebraska will command the attention and respect of the national congress that the good old state is entitled to.

The fusionists nominated W. H. Thompson, of Grand Island, for governor. Billie is not a giant in stature although they call him the little giant—but he will be a good deal smaller when the voters of Nebraska get through with him next November.

Judging from the published reports of the populist state convention, M. F. Harrington was the biggest man in it. Mr. Harrington was nominated for governor, the populists insisting that he make the race, but M. F. declined. He has a good eye and could plainly read the handwriting on the wall.

While W. M. Robertson did not receive the nomination and therefore will not be the next governor of Nebraska, he has reason to be proud of the support given him by the republicans of the Elkhorn valley. Mr. Robertson and the delegations supporting him made a gallant fight, and when they seen it was impossible to win out went solidly to Mickey, making his nomination possible. The Holt county delegation were loyal and enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Robertson and stayed with him as long as he was a candidate. After his withdrawal they plumped their fifteen votes to Mickey. The nominee is a sound, conservative business man, possessing the qualifications to make a good governor. Hurrah for Mickey.

KINKAID FOR CONGRESS.

Three times and in will be the case with Judge Kinkaid. This will be the third time he has made the race for congress in this district and this time he is going to be successful.—Shelton Clipper.

Moses P. Kinkaid of Holt county has been nominated for representative in congress by the republicans of the Sixth district. A fair judgment of the conditions would indicate that he has more than an even chance of election.—Neligh Leader.

Out in the Sixth district the republicans nominated M. P. Kinkaid, of O'Neill, on the 17th ballot. Kinkaid has twice made an effort to win out in the race for congress from that district, but he will win in a walk next fall.—Hastings Tribune.

The fusionists of the Sixth Nebraska district thought two years ago when they defeated M. P. Kinkaid for the second time that they had him down for good, but he bobs up again serenely and is ready to give their nominee the race of his life.—Shelton Clipper.

After a struggle lasting two days, at which 177 ballots were cast, Judge M. P. Kinkaid was again nominated for congress by the republicans of this district. No better choice could have been made, as the judge is undoubtedly the strongest candidate in the field.—Spencer Advocate.

Judge Kinkaid, the republican nominee for congress in this district, is a clean, able man in every respect, and worthy of the support of every good citizen. Where he is best known he is most highly esteemed for his probity and worth which is a recommendation any man should be proud of.—Lexington Pioneer.

After nearly two hundred ballots at Crawford Hon. M. P. Kinkaid won out and will be the next congressman from the Big Sixth. The result of the convention gives general satisfaction throughout the district and republicans are jubilant that the day when the Big Sixth shall be redeemed from calamity is near at hand.—Butte Gazette.

Judge Moses P. Kinkaid, of O'Neill, was nominated for Congress in the big sixth district convention held at Crawford last Friday on the 17th ballot. There were six candidates. Judge Kinkaid is an able campaigner and a man of ability and integrity, and it is believed that this republican year will result in the election of a solid delegation in Congress from Nebraska.—Wayne Herald.

When it is considered that the Sixth congressional district comprises nearly one-half the state of Nebraska, the gathering of delegates at Crawford last week was a remarkable one. Of the two hundred and seven delegates to the convention nearly all were present. This indicates the great interest evinced by the Republicans this year and augurs well for success at the polls.—Sidney Telegraph.

Quite an interesting time was experienced in the republican congressional convention of the Sixth district at Crawford last week. While the struggle was long drawn out the work was done in a spirit of good nature and free from jobs, and a good test as to the strength and popularity of the several candidates then in the field. It was just and fitting that the nomination was given to Moses P. Kinkaid, of O'Neill, a man who can and will represent this district as it should be.—Valentine Republican.

That Judge Moses P. Kinkaid will be elected congressman from the "big sixth" goes without saying. It is of no avail to keep a populist or a democrat or a demo-popocrat in a republican congress, and from a political view the loss has even been greater. The nomination of Judge Kinkaid at Crawford, made unanimous, as it was, by those who supported other contestants for the nomination, shows the compactness of the republican party structure in the district and the people of the district would rather be represented than mis-represented in the future.—Sidney Republican.

Hon. Moses P. Kinkaid, of O'Neill, has been named by the republicans to make the congressional race in the Sixth district. The strife was a long one, 177 ballots being taken by the delegates ere a choice was made. Mr. Kinkaid has been a judge of the fifteenth judicial district for a number of years and twice before has been a candidate for congress, in 1900 being defeated by only 209 votes. This fall the republicans promise to change things as they have been making steady gains over the fusionists of the district ever since 1896, when the latter won by 4,500 majority.—Humboldt Leader.

On the one hundred and seventy-seventh ballot at Crawford Friday of last week, Hon. Moses P. Kinkaid was nominated for Congressman from this district. The candidates besides Judge Kinkaid were, F. M. Currie of Custer, Judge Grimes of Lincoln, A. E. Cady of Howard and Frank E. Beeman of Buffalo county. This is the third nomination of Mr. Kinkaid to this position having twice before made the campaign and acquired a solid acquaintance throughout the district, we bespeak for him his election by a good majority and the "Big Sixth" again be represented in Congress by a Republican.—Brewster News.

Judge M. P. Kinkaid will for the third time lead the republican forces in this district and it is confidently expected that he will lead them to victory. His previous campaigns under less favorable circumstances have given him acquaintance and the respect of the whole district. That he is capable and entirely trustworthy cannot be questioned even by his political opponents, and he will receive the united support of the republicans in this section of the big Sixth. Judge Grimes made a good race and was close to winning out. Nearly two hundred ballots were taken at Crawford before a nomination was reached.—Gering Courier.

The republicans of the Sixth Nebraska district labored hard and earnestly at Crawford last week in their endeavor to find the candidate best fitted for the task of leading them out of the wilderness of populism in which they have floundered for many years. Out of the host of excellent names presented, that of Judge M. P. Kinkaid of O'Neill was selected. The time is most propitious for the election of a republican congressman, not only in the Sixth, but in every district in the state. Having made the canvas twice, Judge Kinkaid should enjoy an acquaintance which will add strength to his partisan advantage and render his election sure.—St. Paul Republican.

M. P. Kinkaid was nominated and is now the republican candidate for congress in the sixth district. The fight in the convention was long and hotly contested, Judge Grimes and F. M. Currie, being his principal opponents in the convention. It is an honor to have one of its citizens chosen as a representative of one of the principal parties to lead the campaign in this district which comprises half the area of Nebraska, and upon his return a very fitting and appropriate reception was tendered him to which Mr. Kinkaid responded in a kindly and appreciative manner. This is the third time he has been thus honored by his party and again we congratulate our townsman upon his nomination.—Holt County Independent.

After a long fight Hon. M. P. Kinkaid, of O'Neill, was nominated for Congress for this district, at Crawford, last Friday, 177 ballots were required to settle the contest. Six candidates were before the convention with strength in the order named. M. P. Kinkaid, of O'Neill, F. M. Currie, of Sargent, H. M. Grimes, of North Platte, Frank Beeman, of Kearney, Geo. B. Darr, of Lexington, and A. E. Cady, of St. Paul. In the nomination of Mr. Kinkaid the convention made a wise selection and we believe he will be elected. He is an able man and will make the big Sixth a representative who will be a credit to the district. There are several candidates among the fusionists, the most prominent being Judge Westover. Mr. Westover has many friends as a candidate for Congress, but if nominated Kinkaid will beat him easily.—Bassett Leader.

The republicans of the Sixth congressional district in convention assembled at Crawford June 12th, on the 17th ballot nominated Judge Kinkaid, of O'Neill, for congress. His nomination was made unanimous. In bestowing the honor upon M. P. Kinkaid the party has only shown its loyalty to a man deserving it, but has voiced the sentiment of the masses in the Big Sixth. When there was no hope of electing a republican for its representative he bore the banner of republicanism into the stronghold of fusion and reduced their majorities wonderfully. It is very evident the intelligent voters of this district are becoming tired of a representative that does nothing to represent and his election is being conceded by many prominent politicians who have heretofore affiliated with the opposing forces. We know him to be the right man in the right place.—Hooker County Tribune.

While the choice of republicans throughout Cheyenne county was for Judge Grimes almost to a man, the politicians were not all for him as they should have been in convention, but the nomination of Judge Kinkaid will be generally satisfactory it is believed and that republicans will be loyal is not to be questioned. Cheyenne county is naturally and logically republican. Judge Kinkaid is a stalwart, true republican, a man of undoubted integrity and unimpeachable honor. He was nominated fairly and honestly, and republicans everywhere will be as loyal and true to his interests as where his delegates in convention, not one of whom wavered or failed to vote for him. Judge Grimes was loyally supported by the delegates from Lincoln, Keith, Deuel, Kimball, Sherman and Banner counties with one half the delegation from Cheyenne, who made a gallant fight, but could not break the forces of Kinkaid or Currie.—Bayard Transcript.

After a record-breaking convention at Crawford, Hon. M. P. Kinkaid was named as the Republican nominee for congress in the Sixth district. The action of the convention will be ratified by the Republicans throughout the district and after the battle of the ballots the Big Sixth will be represented in congress by a Republican after twelve long years of popocratic regime. Judge Kinkaid is thoroughly qualified for the distinction that has been conferred upon him for the third time by the Republicans of this congressional district. A man of ability and unsullied character, he will go before the people in high favor and a model candidate. He is thoroughly in touch with his district and while more of a worker than an orator he would command respect in our national congress and labor earnestly for the welfare of his district without there being any doubt as to his integrity or suspicion of his honesty.—Sidney Telegraph.

At 4 o'clock last Friday, the next congressman from the Big Sixth, Judge M. P. Kinkaid, received the unanimous nomination at Crawford, at the hands of the republican convention. It took 177 ballots to land him, but the very best of feeling was evident in the convention from the first ballot to the last and now that Judge Kinkaid has proven himself the strongest man before the convention he will have the undivided support of all the republican forces and we believe none will be more loyal than the candidates defeated in convention. Never were the people of the Sixth district as tired of misrepresentation as they are now. Never were the prospects any more encouraging for a republican candidate than they are now. Judge Kinkaid, the republican standard bearer in this district, is a man known by all the people for his character and splendid qualifications. Let the people all rejoice for they have Moses who will lead them out from under the bondage of populism.—Chadron Journal.

Judge Kinkaid, of O'Neill, received the nomination in the "Big Sixth" on the 17th ballot. This makes the third time for Kinkaid to be nominated, twice he has been defeated in what has been the strongest part of the fusion camp in the state. Up there where sand burs, Russian thistles and populists grow spontaneously among the hills, it was a hard place to hope for success, but when the gentle rain forced the sand burs and Russian thistles to give away to good crops of commercial grains and the cattle of the ten thousand hills touched a profitable market, the populist gave way to a saner man. It is some satisfaction to feel that the able man twice defeated under the adverse circumstances of those times will now be the one to lead his party to a victory and the "big sixth" as well as the beautiful third will be represented in congress by men who can be in accord with President Roosevelt.—Wayne Republican.

While we did not help to nominate Judge Kinkaid, but urged the nomination of Senator Currie instead, we have no hesitancy in given him our loyal support for the high position to which he aspires. We think in Custer county, if not in others, Mr. Currie would have been the stronger candidate. But in his old judicial district the Judge is very popular, and is doubtless stronger than any other man that could have been selected in that territory. For twelve years he was district judge, and was elected twice to that position when the populists had a majority. While he is not a fluent speaker he is regarded as able. He bears a high reputation for honesty, sobriety and manliness in all his walks. He has that diplomacy and persistency in his make up that will make him a successful worker in national legislation. Two years ago he carried Custer county by 34 majority, when Bryan carried the county over McKinley by 11. We predict for him 150 to 200 majority in Custer county next November.—Broken Bow Republican.

The republican convention in session at Crawford, after 177 ballots, nominated Hon. Moses P. Kinkaid for congress. Judge Kinkaid is well known to the voters of the Big Sixth as he has twice before made the race, having been defeated two years ago by the narrow majority of 209 votes. Since then the drift in the sentiment has been steadily towards the republican party and there is little doubt but that Judge Kinkaid's third attempt will prove the charm and result in his triumphant election. There were strong men before the convention. Such men as Cady, Grimes and Currie, rank among the favorite sons of Nebraska and are able, shrewd campaigners. That Judge Kinkaid should win from such a field of determined opponents attests his popularity and hold upon the republican of the district. Judge Kinkaid bears the confidence and esteem of the voters of the district regardless of party, and we confidently anticipate a handsome majority for him in November and the permanent redemption of the Sixth district from the confusion of populism.—Cozad Tribune.

The Crawford convention held the banner as champion long distance convention as to number of ballots taken just four days. Now comes the Fourth district convention at Beatrice, with a record of three hundred and forty-three ballots. The conventions are very similar in many instances and in the final outcome. Kinkaid, in the Sixth, had been the previous party candidate and made almost a winning campaign, when but few had hopes of winning a victory from an adverse majority. He was opposed by a number of new aspirants who had been induced to enter the race owing to the almost certainty that the republican candidate will win the election. The same is true in the Fourth district. E. H. Hinshaw, who was nominated on the 343 ballot, was a candidate for his party when the outcome was discouraging, and was pitted in the convention against six other candidates who were convinced that this is a good year for republicans. Both results are very satisfactory to the party at large. It is also convincing that right will prevail, but it takes a lot of ballots sometimes to help it along.—Alliance Times.
