Contentment. Being Satisfied with One's Lot Is a Noble State of Mind. Contentment is a precious possession. You who have this jewel care for it carefully. Let no storms darken its beauty for a moment. Add to it day by day the precious stones of meekness and quietness. Be thankful for the gift of making others happy. Contentment in a circle is like the brilliant sun shedding its light serenely on all around. Oh! for the mind that can pass by the splendors of this life and yet not covet them; the rosy-cheeked girl in modest gown and shabby bonnet who can look at her well-dressed neighbor without an aching, envious heart. Oh! for the spirit of the man who, beholding his friend ride by in a splendid carriage, can still go calmly back to his plow or hoe without a bitter thought. Such a one is truly as far above the sneers and laughter of the unthinking as is heaven above earth. Contentment is that quality of some minds that makes the possessor happy in spite of reverses or misfortune. Do not worry; it does no good and merely renders you more discontented and unhappy. It wears on your nerves, makes you angry and cross, and leaves you in a state of nervous prostration, so that when real trouble comes it finds you unable to manfully cope with it. If by strong ambition and hard work on your part you cannot better your condition in life, be satisfied with your lot and let your smile of contentment make some sunshine in the lives of your less favored friends.—Mrs. W. H. Crandall of Stanton, Ala., in Pennsylvania Grit.

PROSPECTUS OF THE

New York Family Story Paper

FOR 1902

Founded in 1873, the New York Family Story Paper enters its twentieth year with a consciousness that its past record as the family paper of the whole country is the best guarantee of its future performance. It contains something of interest to the whole household, from its oldest to its youngest members; and while its stories are of more absorbing interest and thrilling incidents than the average tale published in the monthly magazines, yet its columns are kept scrupulously free of anything that might offend the most fastidious.
