Up to Date. BY F. H. LANCASTER. (Copyright, 1902, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) His letter began abruptly: "It's no use, mon ami, I love you. And when a man loves a woman, friendship is but as stones to a starving man."

He saw his arm go around her—that Jim's. of feminine attire and the rich tones of a deep masculine voice broke in upon his abstraction. As the pair approached, he heard the woman say: "How surprised everybody will be when they learn of our marriage."

The Iowa Cowboy. When the land was wild and the country new And the crop fields only, fenced around, When snakes were plenty, and horses few, And the pastures without mete or bound.

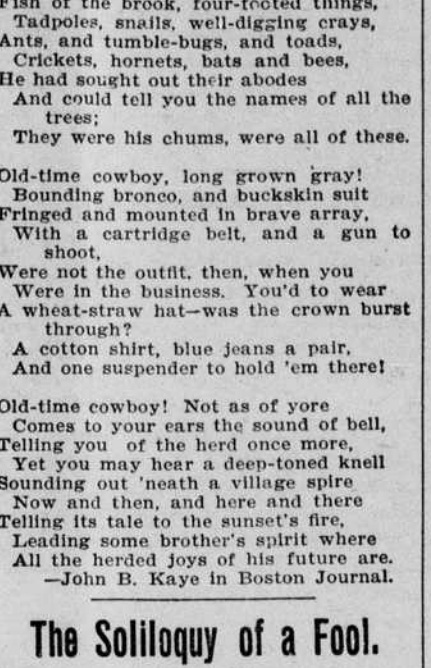

He saw his arm go around her—that Jim's.

The Soliloquy of a Fool. BY DAVID ABBOTT PIATT. It was an unsavory quarter, where the night hung heavy and dark over a narrow section of smoke-grimed, ill-dressed street, and the handsome, well-dressed young man, pacing moodily to and fro in the shadows of the warehouse at the end of the square, looked and felt just about as much out of place as he really was.

It was an unsavory quarter. No doubt she would be heart-broken, but time would heal the wound with the balm of forgetfulness. She was too proud, he knew, to do anything stupid, so he had no fear of exposure to embarrassing publicity.

my heart-beats and on my lips? Why? Because of that greasiest of all greasy altars—propriety. You have burned much incense upon it. Did it ever occur to you that it came high? "Well, when all is said, I love you. What are you going to do about it?"

He drew forth again that thin, type-written sheet.

would be no more plentiful than bread and would be quite as highly prized. "And, my friend, do not let Kipling lead you astray as regards brazen Baals and greasy altars. They have their uses and so long as they are confined to their own sphere they stand for good. For you will admit the truth of this trite saying: 'There is no virtue that may not be exaggerated become vice.' To overdue is the crime for which humanity stands convicted. The dumb brute alone knows how to let well enough alone. An ox could give Plato or Aristotle lessons in philosophy. Still we have been bitten by the bad bug, Ambition, and the fever is in our veins. We must go on or go down. 'No backward path,' through the highways of the world. Only to keep the face steadily toward the goal and stamp on so sturdily as we may—stamping alike over burrs and blossoms.

Infant Market in Hungary. The orphanage at Temesvar, in Hungary, holds an "infant market" once a month, at which all the children at the orphanage will be on view, and at which persons desirous of adopting one or more of them can inspect them and take their choice. The first of these markets passed off very successfully. Thirty children were on view—boys and girls between the ages of 1 and 10 years. Nineteen of them were adopted, five boys and fourteen girls. Most of them were adopted by fairly well-to-do people, and one foster-mother went straight to a lawyer's office and made her newly-adopted child heiress to her fortune of £20,000.—Pearson's Weekly.

Consumption The only kind of consumption to fear is "neglected consumption." People are learning that consumption is a curable disease. It is neglected consumption that is so often incurable. At the faintest suspicion of consumption get a bottle of Scott's Emulsion and begin regular doses. The use of Scott's Emulsion at once, has, in thousands of cases, turned the balance in favor of health. Neglected consumption does not exist where Scott's Emulsion is. Prompt use of Scott's Emulsion checks the disease while it can be checked.

He drew forth again that thin, type-written sheet.

Brutal, you will say. Yet it is the sesame of success. And, after all, while there are stars overhead why should be trouble ourselves about the silly snowdrops under foot? A misplaced tenderness is surely weakness even as misdirected strength becomes brutality. Well, as you perceive, I stand in need of beans and my thoughts do not come clearly. "Concerning that other matter you mention: You have evidently examined the situation more carefully than I have yet been able to do, so I rest upon your judgment in the wisest course to be pursued. "And this, I believe, answers yours of recent date. Nothing has happened since I saw you last, so I have no news save, that to judge from present appearances, I shall not be burning incense this afternoon upon that greasiest of altars."
