Lead in Railway Mileage.
The Australian colonies have a greater railway mileage, in proportion to population, than any other part of the world.

Badly Out of Tune.
Piano tuners have their trials along with the rest of humanity, and the experience of a Philadelphia tuner, the other day, goes to prove it. He was sent into a suburb to tune a piano, which he found practically as good as new. He put the instrument in proper shape, and felt well satisfied with his work until a day or two later he received a note from the owner, saying the piano had not been properly tuned. Thereupon he made another journey, tested every note, and found no fault. He told the lady so. "Yes," she said, "it does seem all right when you play on it, doesn't it? But as soon as I begin to sing it gets all out of tune again."

Stone Slingers of the Nile.
When the wheat is growing in the fields near the banks of the Nile, Egypt, great quantities of birds of every kind pounce down upon the tender grain and would soon destroy the whole crop were it not for the watchful "stone slingers." These are men who stand all day perched on little platforms here and there throughout the fields with slings and pebbles, shooting any bird that comes within reach. The work of a stone slinger is a regular profession in Egypt, though a poorly paid one, it being thought that simply standing all day is not very hard labor. It is only for a few weeks twice a year that the stone slinger can find employment.

Says Women Should Study Alone.
Prof. Ludwig Stieda, probably the most famous anatomist in Germany, recently published a powerful protest against the movement among the professors of medical faculties in German universities for permitting women to attend medical lectures in the same classroom with men. He expresses the opinion that the presence of women must have an injurious effect both on the professors and on the women themselves. Prof. Stieda will not exclude women from medical study, but it is absolutely necessary, he says that they be instructed in anatomy in separate classrooms.

French Soldiers of Fortune.
Gen. O'Connor, who seems to be bent on carving out for France a new colony in Morocco, made his military debut in the corps of guides, which distinguished itself in the battles before Metz in the Franco-Prussian war. During the second siege of Paris, brought about by the commune, he was aide-de-camp to Gen. De Galliffet, who was the first minister of war under the recent Waldeck-Rousseau administration. He has also campaigned in Tunis and commanded the cavalry in Tonquin.

Conan Doyle's Summer Plans.
Among the notable cottagers at Montauk Point, L. I., this summer will be Sir A. Conan Doyle, the famous author who created "Sherlock Holmes." Dr. Doyle has rented the Third house, where he contemplates securing that quiet and seclusion so essential to successful literary production. The season will be occupied in writing a new detective story.

Priest and Painter.
Rev. A. B. Shields, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, Boston, is an artist as well as a priest. He earned enough money painting the past winter to afford a summer in the galleries of the old world, and sails for Europe to paint in the national gallery of London, in the Louvre and Luxembourg galleries during his vacation season.

DON'T BE DUPED

There have been placed upon the market several cheap reprints of an obsolete edition of "Webster's Dictionary." They are being offered under various names at a low price.

By Worthless reprints are very misleading; for instance, they are advertised to be the substantial equivalent of a higher-priced book, when in reality, so far as we know and believe, they are all, from A to Z.

Reprint Dictionaries, phototype copies of a book of over fifty years ago, which in its day was sold for about $3.00, and which was much superior in paper, print, and binding to these imitations, being then a work of some merit instead of one

Long Since Obsolete. The supplement of 10,000 so-called "new words," which some of these books are advertised to contain, was compiled by a gentleman who died over forty years ago, and was published before his death. Other minor additions are probably of more or less value.

The Webster's Unabridged Dictionary published by our house is the only meritorious one of that name familiar to this generation. It contains over 2000 pages, with illustrations on nearly every page, and bears our imprint on the title page. It is protected by copyright from cheap imitation.

Valuable as this work is, we have at vast expense published a thoroughly revised successor, known throughout the world as Webster's International Dictionary. As a dictionary lasts a lifetime you should
