A coster stopped outside a chemist's whop with a rather recalcitrant moke.
"Mister," said the pearly one, "can you give that 'ere animal sumfink to make 'm gee-whiz? 'E won't move for nuts." The man of poisons smiled, went inside, and brought out a large bottle of liquid ammonia. He withdrew the stopper and placed the neck of the vessel underneath the tired one's nasal organ. One long, deep sniff, and one gasp of twenty ass-power, then off galloped Neddy, as though his satanic majesty was after him with a thick stick. The coster, in stupefaction, gazed at the rapidly retreating form of his asinine friend, then anxiously in-quired of the chemist: "Say, cockie, is that 'ere stuff expensive?" "No." responded the gentleman designated by that facetious title. "Then git a move on yer, an' give us two sniffs. I've got to catch that 'ere moke!"—Birmingham

In one of the chief watchmaking establishments in Zurich there is to seen a remarkable curiosity in the way of watch or clock making. The time-piece is in the form of a ball, which moves imperceptibly down an inclined surface, without rolling. The length of this inclined surface, which is sixteen inches long, is accomplished from top to bottom in twenty-four hours. Then the "ball" only needs lifting to the top again. This extraordinary timepiece has no spring, and therefore needs no winding. The "hands" are kept in mo-tion by the sliding along an inclined plane,-London Globe.

J. Pierpont Morgan was an active agure at the annual convention of the New York Protestant Episcopal diocese recently. The day was a trifle cool, and Mr. Morgan wore an overcoat worth $100. When the session came to an end Mr. Morgan left in a hurry and did not discover until an hour or so later that he had carried off some other man's coat—a rather shabby-looking affair it was, too. The only thing he could find in the pockets was a well-chewed toothpick. The owner has not yet claimed the property.

Chief Justice Lore of Delaware, who has taken such a decided stand against lynching, is opposed to capital punishment. "I would not take life for the commission of crime," he says, "but would put the criminal under such restraint as would protect the people and give him the full measure of his day to work out such pentices and reference. work out such penitence and reforma-tion as all good influences might pro-duce. An impressive figure is that of John Sparks, the present democratic governor of Nevada. He is over six feet tall, has gray hair and mustache and a ruddy complexion, and, with the heart of a lion, is one of the most retiring and mild-mannered men. A Texan by birth, he drove cattle for many years from that state to the northwest. Now he is rated at over a million, his property in-cluding cattle, land, mining and bank

The royal family of Sweden is a thrifty one. It has a civil list of very nearly a haif million dollars from Norway and Sweden, and in addition the king has a little more than $82,000 a year from the fund voted to King Carl XIV. and his successors. At the same time his majesty has palaces both in the city and country, in Sweden and Norway, and he owns stock in many undertakings.

Bishop Leighton Coleman of the Epis-copal diocese of Delaware has just concluded one of his annual tramping tours. This time he walked something over 200 miles through the mountains of Virginia and North Carolina, and returns considerably improved in physicial condition. He traveled incognito, attired in rough garb and had a number of amusing experiences, being generally taken for a genuine tramp.

Before long a motor car will be run ning on the so-called roads in Uganda.

Mr. George Wilson, the deputy commissioner of that protectorate, who is on his way back from England to Africa, is taking with him a 25-horse power motor, which he intends to make use of on his tours of inspection throughout Uganda. There are now nearly 600 miles of roads in that country good enough to run a motor on.

At a political meeting in New York last week a Tammany man named Delancy was one of the orators. A pair of burglars in New York broke into a barber shop and found, besides other things, a first-class violin. One of the cracksmen being musically inclined, paused in his professional duties long enough to play. A policeman interrupted the midnight sonata, and the distressing details of the sequel were given before a police judge.

"And now," whispered the lover, as he caught her in his arms, "what shall we do about the rope ladder? We shouldn't leave it hanging there." "Don't worry about it," replied the damsel. "Papa said he would pull it up again, so we couldn't get back."

TO ENFORCE LAW.

Commissioner May Seize Supply of II licit Vinegar in Retailer's Hands.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 26.-The Nebraska law provides that vinegar shall be sold for what it is, be it malt, eider or grain, and only absolutely forbids the sale of colored goods. Infractions of the pure food law have become so common under the lenient policy of the food commission that it has been decided to prosecute all retailers who are found with illicit goods their stores on and after November 15. Heretofore the theory has been that the retailer is innocent, and the non-resident wholesaler has been beyond the reach of the law, so off-color goods have merely been condemned and ordered returned to the shipper.

Taking advantage of this leniency s wholesalers from without the state have continued to pour in bad goods at cheaper prices than the Nebraska wholesaler, who does not dare to break the law, could meet. As a protection to home concerns the rule has been laid down that retailers will be held responsible for what they have in stock after the date mentioned and "no excuses go," is the motto adopted at the food commissioner's headquarters

Food Commissioner Thompson has so notified the officers of the State Retail Grocers' association, that its members may be placed on their guard.

ANCIENT HERO DUG UP.

Discovery Made While Digging in the Sand Hills.

Decatur, Neb., Oct. 26.—The news has reached here of the discovery of a skele-ton, which may prove an archeological find of considerable value, in a sandhill upon the M'ssouri river, a few days ago, made by a party of farmers while digging sand for plastering puposes.

The appearance of the remains indicate they are quite ancient and those of an Indian, for on the breast bones lay a stone pipe, some black flint arrow heads an old fashioned stone tomahawk, what appeared to be blood stains on the blade. Ornaments, which had been worn in the nose and ears, were also found, denoting the Indian had once been a fearless warrior of some ancient tribe, at least 200 years ago. The skull was fractured on one side, showing he had been struck in battle with some blunt instrument.

A little farther down the river Charles Noyes of this city dug out of a high bank a petrified buffalo's head intact, the horns especially well preserved.

GETS LIFE SENTENCE.

Ending of a Famous Case by Judge Harrington's Decision Today.

O'Neil, Neb., Oct. 26 .- The last chapter in the case of State of Nebraska against Fred M. Hans came to a close today when Judge Harrington over-ruled motion for a new trial and sen-tenced the murderer to life imprison-This case has been one of the most sensational in the annals of the state. On April 8, 1901, Fred M. Hans of Omaha shot and killed David O. Luse of Brown county. Hans claimed he shot in self defense while attempting to arrest Luse on the charge of horse killing. The coroner's jury with the evidence at hand exonerated Hans Luse was a prominent man in several raternal orders, and some were not atisfied with the verdict. The pre-iding county attorney refused to their demand to investigate the case. Much time was lost that year and until a change in officials occurred. The new county attorney promptly called a grand jury, and as a result of their investigation indicted Hans for mur-der in the second degree. The evidence brought against Hans by the state, the clothing, door and boards containing the bullet marks of the bullets that passed through Luse's body strongly contradicted the defendant's story of the killing. The state was represented by the best legal talent and in the course of the case made eloquent addresses to the jury.

Tecumseh, Neb., Oct. 27 .- Mrs. Oliver Davison, sr., of this city is suffering with very severe burns of the hands, arms and face, the results of an accident with an overloaded heating stove. The family had just moved into a new home on First street, and when the accident occurred Mrs. Davison was attempting to build a fire in the heating stove in the parior. During the moving period the stove had been stuffed full of paper and trash. She lighted the waste from below, but it did not seem to burn well. She opened the stove door and proceeded to stir the fire when a draught from below blew the fire out of the door all over the woman and the air was filled with smoke and burning particles. Mrs Davison's face was quite severely burned and the hair on one side of her head was singed off. The hands were thoroughly scorched and her clothing caught fire. She maintained her presence of mind and tore the portions of ence of mind and tore the portions of her garments off which were on and prevented more serious injury.

Prisoners Sprung Steel Door and Re moved Brick From the Wall. Columbus, Neb., Oct. 27.—There was a wholesale delivery of the inmates of the jail while the jailer, Ed Rossiter, was up-town. The prisoners sprung the heavy stel door leading to the corridor and removed the brick from the wall. Those who escaped were: George Reubenthaler, awaiting trial for assault with intent to kill; James Hamlin, horse stealing, and John Schultz and James Wilson, who were serving a thirty-day sentence for petty larceny. James Church, an inmate, refused to leave the jail and was found there when the escape was discovered. He has but a couple of days more to serve. He will say little of how the prisoners managed to do the work. This is the second ail delivery within two months. Sheriff Byrnes has offered a reward of $25 each for Reubenthaler and Hamlin. Reubenthaler is a German and speaks no English.

Was Performed Successfully Upon a Sufferer From Consumption.

Auburn, Neb., Oct. 27 .- Dr. Hamilton of Omaha performed a very delicate and successful operation on Clarence Wilkinson, son of Robert G. Wilkinson. He was assisted by Drs. Boal, Dillon and Tyler of this city. Young Wilkinson has been a sufferer from consumption for years. He spent several years in Colorado. Last fall he returned home, and has seemed much better for the last two months. However, it was found that the cavity of the lung on one side was filled with some kind of a fluid. An incision was made in one side, about two inches of one rib removed and about two gallons of fluid taken from the lung cavity. He is now resting easy. It was discovered that one lung was entirely gone, but the other one was found to be healthy. Both physicians and friends hope for his entire recovery.

St. Louis Circuit Attorney Formally Out for the Governorship.

St. Joseph. Mo., Oct. 27,-Joseph W. Folk made the speech which formally places him in the race for the democratic nomination for governor to a crowd that packed Tootle's opera house. It was the climax of a busy day for Mr. Folk and the most enthusiastic meting held in the state this year. Concerning the governorship Folk said:

Concerning the governorship Mr. Folk said:

A great deal has been said about the governorship. This is an honor any man might covet and no man refuse. I have been asked my position. I have no hesitancy in saying that if my party sees fit to name me I should be recreant to my duty were I to do otherwise than accept.

I do not claim to have done anything to entitle me to this position. Nor would I take it as a reward for my humble endeavors to bring about a better condition in municipal and state affairs. I have in the place of trust assigned to me tried to do my duty to my city and state. How well I have succeeded I cannot say, but I have done my best and the most any man can do is his best. I want no compensation for doing my duty other than the approval of the people. The governorship offers tremendous opportunities for the accomplishment of public good, yet if the party bestows that honor upon another I shall not complain and shall give him my loyal support.

I will not resign the office I have been assigned to for the purpose of electioneering for another. Neither will I neglect the duties of that office going around seeking a higher position. Of necessity my time will be so occupied with official work yet unfinished, but which I hope to have completed early next year, that I will hove little opportunity to make

FIVE SENATORS HAVE? HAND IN HUGE FRAUD

Millions of Acres of Valuable Land Stolen From the Goverment.

LIKE STAR ROUTE DEALS

Arrests of Influential and Wealthy People Are Looked For-Members of Both Houses of Congress Are Involved.

Washington, Oct. 26 .- Trouble rivaling anything known in Washington since the days of the "star route" plunder have been discovered in the government land office by Secretary Hitchcock. Five United States sen-ators, several members of the lower house and a number of olucials in the department are declared to be pucated in frauds that have resulted in the loss to the government of millions of acres of puotic domain in Calitornia, Washington, Oregon, Montana and other western states.

For several months the investigation has been going on under the personal supervision of secretary Hitencock, but such secrecy has ne observed that even Commissioner Richards or the land orfice has been kept in utter ignorance of its progress. It is not said that the commissioner himself is under suspicion, but many minor officials will be caught in the net.

Senators Involved in Conspiracy. The part of the United States senators and congressmen in the gigantic conspiracy has been to secure the pointment of men in the ring registers and receivers of land offices and to shield them when their rascality was unearthed.

The investigation has been in charge of A. B. Pugh, attorney for the interior department. Pugh has been on the Pacific coast for several months, being assisted by secret service detectives from the treasury department. He has made preliminary reports to his superfor showing that certain federal land offices in the western states are com-pletely under the control of the "timber grabbers," who make false entries for millions of acres and grant immense tracts to stool pigeons of lumber com-

Pugh and Secret Service Detective Burns are on the way to Washington to report to Secretary Hitchcock. They have sent word that evidence in their possession will justify the arrest of at least a score of men in California, Oregon, Minnesota and this city.

Minneapolis Man Furnishes Money. The full extent of the conspiracy has not been revealed, but from present information it appears that most of the stealings have been done by one gang, operating in half a dozen states and with accomplices in the interior depart-ment. One man living in Minneapolis, who is said to be one of the largest owners of timber land, is supposed to have furnished the money to carry on the fraud.

Several months ago, when Secretary Hitchcock became aware of the organization of the timber land conspiracy, he gave orders for the wholesale withdrawal of public lands on the Pacific coast, ostensibly for the creation of forest reserves. Millions of acres were withdrawn, and thus kept from the vilidrawn, and thus kept from the clutches of the theives pending the in-vestigation. As soon as the evidence is in his hands Secretary Hitchcock will begin criminal prosecutions.

Whether the position and political influence of the senators and repre-sentatives involved will be sufficient to protect them from prosecution remains to be seen. Some of them, it is alleged, actually profited by the land frauds and are actively interested in the ring, which had ramifications in the states of California, Oregon, Washin Ington and other western states. Secretary Hitchcock hopes not only to send the ringleaders of the ring to prison, but to restore to the govern-ment millions of acres of valuable timber land which have been secured by

TRUANT LONG IN JAIL

Boy Comes Out of Prison a Stranger to the World.

New York, Oct. 26.—After spending nine years in the house of refuge at the Elmira reformatory and at Sing Sing prison, apparently for a mere violation of rules, James Daley, 20 years old, spent yesterday learning things city boys of half his age know already. Daley came here

According to his own account Daley up to 1894 lived with his family in this city. His father sent him to school and because he often played truant arranged to have him sent to the house of refuge as an incorrigible. In his two years there the boy's family visited him only twice. One night he joined a bread throwing fight in the dining room. For this he was transferred to the Elmira reformatory. He never heard from his family after that,

After three years at Elmira he got into a quarrel with one of the guards, who caught him chewing tobacco. Instead of reporting him the guard tried to make Instead of him stop by choking him. SELLING OUT EARLY.

Tammany Said to Have a Deal With the Chicago Packers.

New York, Oct. 26.—Anticipating the in-auguration of George B. McClellan as mayor and the return of Tammany to full power in this city, privileges already have been disposed of for cash considerations. Of the great fund now in the treasury of Tammany to be used as needed in the present campaign, it is declared that $50,-000 was contributed by the Chicago pack-ers, for which a return has been promised in concessions denied by the present ad-ministration of New York city. This, it is said, will mean, if carried out, the crushing of the interest of the independent butchers.

The preliminary negotiations, according to report, were carried on in this city, but the deal was concluded in Chicago, to which city the representative of Tammany went a little more than a fortnight ago, carrying full authority to act.

What the packers are said to be pur chasing in New York is the trade now enjoyed by thousands of retail independent butchers, including what is known as the "kosher" trade. It is said the packers bargained for the privilege of conducting the general slaughtering business, and at First avenue and Forty-fifth street an immense abattoir is to be erected.

While a mob was forming to lynch him, McClure drove to-Marion and gave himself up. He has been secreted by the authorities, who fear mob violence.

McClure separated from his wife a year ago. She refused to live with him, and returned with her children to hills her father's home. McClure hired a rig at Elwood and drove to the farm of Mrs. McClure's father. He found the children playing in the front yard and induced them with candy to take a ride with him. He drove a mile up the road, carried the children to a fence corner and shot them with a revolver. The older one was found dead a few minutes later, and the younger was dying, a piece of the candy still being in his mouth. The alarm was given, and from all surrounding towns armed pur-suers started. McClure succeeded in reaching the Marion jail without being caught.

To the jail turnkey McClure admitted the killing of his two children, and said he had shot them because his wife had left him and refused to see him. Said

"When she refused to see me I dethe road to a little clump of small trees. My children were asleep in the buggy. When I stopped the jolt awoke my little boy Dee. He looked up at me and said:

"'Papa, what are you going to do?'
"I put my hand over his eyes and took my revolver from my pocket and shot him in the forehead, killing him instantly. The shot awoke Homer, and I took him by the shoulder and fired a shot into his head. They both fell to the bottom of the buggy. I drove the horse to the side of the road and lifted both bodies out and laid them on withered grass. I then drove directly to Marion and gave myself up.

"The neighbors will lynch me when they find out what I have done. I do not care what you do with me. I am ready to die, and expect to hang for this crime. All that I ask is to see my dear little ones buried."

Deputy Sheriff Williams took Mc-Clure to Indianapolis, it is said.
