Up in Dawes they seem to be overburdened with the potato crop. An item from Chadron says: "Every other business is at a standstill, while all ablebodied persons who can be pressed into the service are trying to save the potatoes from the freeze up. Never before in this county have they frozen in the ground in October, but many thousands of bushels are already lost. It is no unusual thing this year for the farmers to have from three to four thousand bushels apiece and laborers to dig are scarce. Such wonderful averages of all kinds of small grain have been had in this country that attention has been detracted from potatoes, which are the biggest thing here. It is almost impossible in this big stock season, to get cars to ship away anything like half of the potatoes here."

The Frontier is pained to learn this morning of the death of Police Judge O. E. Davidson, which occurred last night. Judge Davidson has passed off the stage very suddenly. Less than a week ago he was in apparent health and vigor. The slight accident a few days ago of scraping a piece of skin from one of his legs resulted in blood poisoning. It at once resulted seriously and it was apparent the judge could not recover. Arrangements for the funeral have not yet been made.

President Treney of the State Banking association, in an able address before the association's annual meeting at Lincoln, said: "All the criminals in christendom do not injure the profession of banking as much as the banker himself who goes wrong. The banks of Nebraska were never in better condition. The number on the hospital list is remarkably few and they are fast getting into line. There has not been a national bank failure in the state since Nov. 4, 1898. With in the past year there has been but one bank failure, the Elkhorn Valley of O'Neill, due to dishonest officials."

"A neighboring newspaper man's gasoline engine busted the other day. The paper was somewhat delayed. The editor being away the devil explained the accident as follows: 'When we started to run this edition off the engine gave way, allowing the guildderluffe to fall and break as it struck the plunkerflopfer. This, of course, as anyone who knows anything about a benzine choochoo will readily understand, left the gang plank with only the fliplap to support it, which also dropped and broke off the whapperchoke. This loosened the fluking between the ramrod and the fiber snatcher, which also caused trouble. The report that the trouble was caused by over indulgence in Peruna by ourself is a tissue of falsehoods, the peeled appearance of our right eye being caused by our going into the hatchway of the ashpun in our anxiety to start it and pulling the coupling pin after the slap bung was broken, which caused the dingus to rise up and welt us in the optic.'

Three good work horses, new wide tired wagon and good harness, for sale or exchange for land; also driving team, buggy and harness if desired. 17-3 E. H. Benedict, O'Neill, Neb.

Graduates From Naval School.

The Frontier is in receipt of a letter from Emil Zimmerman, who is in the United States hospital service. He says he has graduated from the naval school of instruction for nurses at Norfolk, Va., and has been stationed at Newport, R. I., where he is in charge of the surgical ward of the naval hospital. With the letter is also a long clipping from a Norfolk newspaper concerning the graduation of Emil's class and speaks of it as "one of the most interesting events in the history of the school for nurses." The Norfolk paper further says: "These men, or rather lads, who are being trained for the stern duty of caring for the awful consequences of bursting shell and shattering projectiles, must needs know how to take a mangled human being, with speed and without pain to the operating table below the decks, slinging him by ropes through small hatches and they must know how to keep him from dying on the way. "They are taught also the art of caring for the wounded on the battle field, nor is their training in the more usual art of snatching men from death in the hospital wards neglected. "The drill of the class that graduated this morning showed their military qualifications as well as their surgical ability. 'First aid' bandages are applied by them as readily as they can change the sheets on a bed without disturbing the patient. They can strap a man to the "Ames board" and sling him between hatches with the same celerity as they can bear him, wounded from a battlefield, as their mimic warfare drill demonstrated also."

Any of the graduates of this school are in the line of promotion, and Emil's O'Neill friends will not be surprised to hear of him reaching the position of naval surgeon.

National Sunday School Convention.

The twelfth annual conference of the American Sunday School Union held in Minneapolis Oct. 17 to 22, has been the most helpful and inspiring of any. The Minneapolis Tribune claims upward of 500 delegates were present.
 Warner L. Carver of Boston in the opening address touched the key note to this great interdenominational work when he stated that there were yet 14,000,000 children in the United States without Sunday school and that this greatest of all Sunday school missions has at present 112,000 Sunday schools containing 5,000,000 children under its care, and that in the 81 years of its existence has distributed $10,000,000 worth of religious reading matter through its missionaries of whom there are at present 209.
 General Superintendent F. G. Ensign of Chicago stated that 36 years ago this society asked him to take charge of this work in the northwest giving him 7 missionaries and plenty of discouragement to begin with, that it had grown until there are at present 72 in the field, but the work is only begun for 500 are needed to do the work properly.
 Many things of vital importance calculated to strengthen the missionary—spiritually, mentally, and physically were set forth by able men.
 Nebraska was represented by ten men, which should have been fifty, considering there is 170,000 youth in the state who have no bible instruction.

The International Live Stock Show opens this year under conditions more favorable than ever. The Coliseum, a handsome new structure built for this purpose, will be completed and used for the first time. The display of live stock is to be so complete that it promises to even excel the perfection of former years.
 Professor Herbert W. Munford of Illinois is quoted in the following short but pithy comment on the International: "It is at the International that breeders and buyers mingle to mutual advantage. The breeder becomes better informed as to approved market types, and thus the international becomes a potent factor in giving direction to the breeder's efforts to live stock improvement."
 Low rates over the North-Western line from all points west will be announced soon.

High School Notes.

On account of the rain last Saturday, the foot ball game was postponed until Monday of last week. In a grand game replete with awe inspiring center rushes, nerve thrilling end runs and hair raising tackles the gridiron athletes from the Neligh High school went down in defeat before the sturdy O'Neill eleven. The Neligh players outweighed their opponents ten pounds per man and in the first half of the game this superior weight told in their favor. They advanced the ball steadily up the field until within a few yards of O'Neill's goal, when our boys, cheered on by throngs of hoarse-voiced rooters, rallied bravely and held them for downs. When the first half closed, the score was 0 to 0, the ball was within one yard of O'Neill's in the latter's hands. In the second half by a series of mass plays on tackle and center together with end runs and grass bucks, O'Neill succeeded in pushing the ball across Neligh's goal line, making the score 5 to 0 in favor of the home team.

The athletic association wishes to publicly thank those persons who assisted in making the reception Monday evening a success. The event was the first social gathering of the association and was thoroughly enjoyed. The prominent feature of the entertainment was the program, consisting of music and literary productions, followed by impromptu speeches by Supt. Dwyer and members of the foot ball teams.

The High School orchestra, now consisting of four members, is making arrangements to increase its number. This organization is the means of bringing about a decided change for the better in the order of literary programs.

In 1805 the world had not a single steamship on the ocean, a single mile of railway on land, a single span of telegraph upon the continent or a single foot of cable beneath the ocean. In 1905 it had 18,000 steam vessels, 500,000 miles of railway and more than 1,000,000 miles of land telegraph, while the very continents are bound together in instantaneous communication by more than 200,000 miles of ocean cables, and the number of telephone messages sent aggregates 6,000,000,000 annually, and one-half of them in the United States alone.
