NEW RIVER FORMED

fresh water all the summer and fall. The depression was deeper than any other on the range.

But the next week when Wilson again rode onto the range, he noticed there was more water in the pool than had been the week previous. Then next he saw the miniature lake had increased to a large lake and had overflowed the original depression and in addition had filled several others. This was about the middle of September of this year.

And from that start the stream has worked its way forward. It seemed that the coming of the water had some mysterious effect upon the underflow mentioned, for each additional depression, as soon as the river reached it, was immediately fed by underground springs, and the entire surface of the river is covered with bubbles, which break as they reach the surface. The water is clear and cool and is not muddy like the Platte, the Elkhorn and the Missouri.

Mr. Krueger is a gentleman of sterling worth and a prosperous business man. Quite a number of costly and useful presents were received by the happy couple with the congratulations and best wishes of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Krueger will reside in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—The Graphic.

COMPENSATION.

All Things Are to Be Had if One Will but Pay the Equivalent.

Life consists almost wholly of buying, selling, paying. There are no gifts, nothing that does not call for an equivalent. If we cannot pay for gifts in kind we must pay in gratitude or service or we shall rank as moral bankrupts.

If I would have a good situation I must pay for it not only in labor, but in promptness, intelligence, faithfulness and good manners. If I would have good service I must pay not only in money, but in consideration, recognition, appreciation, fairness. I can hold no one to me if I misuse him.

All things are to be had for the buying. Would you have friends? Then pay the price. The price of friendship is to be worthy of friendship. The price of glory is to do something glorious. The price of shame is to do something shameful.

Friendship, glory, honor, admiration, courage, infamy, contempt, hatred, are all in the market place for sale at a price. We are buying and selling these things constantly as we will. Even beauty is for sale. Plain women can gain beauty by cultivating grace, animation, pleasant speech, intelligence, helpfulness, courage or good will. Beauty is not in the features alone; it is in the soul also.

Good will buys good will, friendliness buys friendship, confidence begets confidence, service rewards service, and hate pays for hate, suspicion for suspicion, treachery for treachery, contempt for ingratitude, slovenliness, laziness and lying.

We plant a shrub, a rosebush, an orchard, with the expectation that they will pay us back. We build roads, mend harness and patch the roof with the same expectation. We will trust even these unconscious things to pay their debts.

Some of our investments are good and some are bad. The good qualities we acquire—moderation, industry, courtesy, order, patience, candor—are sound investments. Our evil institutions and habits are bad investments, involving us in losses. We become debtors to them, and they are exacting creditors, forcing payment in full in money and labor and sometimes in blood, agony, tears, humiliation or shame.—From "Balance: The Fundamental Verity," by Orlando J. Smith.

Not a Bit Like a Cat.

Lady Visitor—Your little girl seems to be very much taken with me, Mrs. Stepswell. Mrs. Stepswell—Yes, and she doesn't often take to strangers. You think Mrs. Kippur is real nice, don't you, Agnes? Agnes—You said she was a cat, mamma, but she doesn't look a bit like one.—Exchange.

Paying Trials.

Gaggsby—Jones is very wealthy, but he says his life is full of trials. Waggsby—Yes; that's what makes him wealthy. "How so?" "He's a lawyer."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Testimonial Monarch

for the... MALLEABLE
The 'Stay Satisfactory' Range

O'Neill, Nov. 22.—To Mr. Neil Brennan: After thoroughly testing the Monarch Malleable Range bought of you, I freely say there could be no better stove made for general purposes in the kitchen. It is the best baker and requires less fuel than any stove I ever used.
Mrs. Peter Donohoe.

Monarch Malleable Ranges require no more fuel, no more time and no more labor to do the work after ten or fifteen years' use than they do at first. The satisfaction they give is not alone for the first year of their use but continues the same year after year. Those contemplating buying a cook stove or range should see the Monarch before they buy.

We still have the biggest stock at the lowest prices of hardware, tinware, farm implements, wagons, buggies, lamps, fancy dishes, silverware, paints and oils.
