> There seems to be a feeling among the members of the different township and school boards throughout the western part of the county that the board of supervisors should employ an expert to check up the different funds and put them on a footing so that they will know just where they are at. A good many of them have not had an accounting for years and it has been impossible with many to tell in what financial condition their districts are in, and we think the taxpayers of the county will gladly be burdeded by a reasonable amount to be paid as a fee to an expert to thoroughly check up every school district and township in the county.

A large number of the business men of Atkinson met with a committee representing the South Fork and the Green Valley Independent Telephone companies at the office of Havens & Stilson, last Tuesday afternoon, to discuss the advisability of establishing an independent telephone exchange in our city. Dr. McDonald was made chairman of the meeting and Dell Akin secretary. The prevailing opinion seemed to favor the building of thelexchange, for the reason that the several independent country lines that have built into Atkinson have no medium of exchange, unless they contract with the Inter-State Telephone Co-, which is a part of the Bell system, and that they refuse to do. This forces the business men and patrons of the different lines to be inconvenienced with several phones which is undersirable and expensive. The following committee was appointed to make further invesigations and report at some future time fixed by the chairman, M. Campbell, J. E. Brook, Will Schultz, W. B. Arganbright, Dell Akin.-The Graphic.

"The Bridge" Born of Sorrow.

"My poem entitled 'The Bridge,' said Longfellow, "was written in sorrow, which made me feel for the loneliness of others. I was a widower at the time, and I used sometimes to go over the bridge to Boston evenings to meet friends and return near midnight by the same way. The way was silent, save here and there a belated footstep. The sea rose or fell among the wooden piers, and there was a great furnace on the Brighton hills whose red light was reflected by the waves. It was on such a late, solitary walk that the spirit of the poem came upon me. The bridge has been greatly altered, but the place of it is the same."

> What a "Hurricane" Is. "Hurricane" is the old Spanish name for a West Indies cyclone, but it is used by modern meteorologists to designate a long continued wind of extreme violence. In Beaumont's scale the different winds are classed as "light," "gentle," "fresh" and "strong" breezes. The next is a "stiff" breeze, then a "strong" wind and then we strike the "gales." The "gales" run through three or four classes, the last merging into the "hurricane."

WINDS AND DRAFTS. The Former Are Beneficial, but the

By a draft is meant the currents of air in an inclosed space. Our forefathers attributed nearly all the evils that beset them to drafts, and they would not have slept in uncurtained beds for anything. Of course their windows and doors were shaky, and houses stood far apart, so drafts were nearly inevitable. But the modern scientific world tries to deny drafts altogether and calls them winds, which are harmless and even healthy to a certain

Any one who cares to find out the difference between a wind and a draft can do so in any apartment which has windows on different sides of the house. Let him open a window on a windy day on the side of the house toward which the wind blows. The air which comes in is quite harmless if the person exposed to it be dressed in warm clothes, and little children may take the air in a room thus ventilated. But let him open a window past which the wind blows, and it will be found that the air in the room is moved by a number of currents, all of which strive to reach the opening. It is the passing wind which sucks up the air in the room and draws it out, and this causes draft.

The effect upon sensitive persons is immediately felt, like the forerunner of pain to come. A draft will always be felt as colder than the wind. Very dangerous drafts are those that are produced in railway cars by the rapid motion of the train. It is not wind that gets into the carriages, but the air of the car which is sucked out. A lighted match held to the chink of the window will prove this, as the flame will be drawn toward the window, not blown from it.
