The Alliance Times says: Kinkaid has made a good record in our national legislative body and we believe he will be renominated without opposition. This district has been served faithfully and well, and he has been the author of several important measures, and his experience in congress makes him more valuable.

The senatorial boom of John L. Webster has been launched. John L. possesses the ability to represent the great state of Nebraska with distinction in the national hall of congress, but his political ambition has been swatted so often during the past dozen years that it is almost safe to bet that he will not be able to get onto the home stretch in this race.

Fremont Tribune: Congressman, McCarthy, who came to Nebraska recently, has returned to his post of duty at Washington. He is quoted as saying upon his return to the capital that he didn't anticipate any serious opposition to his renomination. Whether this is a correct diagnosis of the situation or not, it ought to be the prevailing condition. What will it profit the people of the Third district to trade horses when the one they are now working has become used to the harness and to the load, and is getting better prepared for service every day? What good reason is there for wasting the four years or six another will need to get "city broke"—and then swap again?

Mr. W. A. Brown died April 7, at half past one after a long and painful illness. Wesley A. Brown was born in Cleveland, Ohio, May 23, 1845, enlisted in the First Regiment of United States Sharpshooters, Feb. 14, 1862, was discharged because of disability, Aug. 20, the same year; was mustered into the Grand Army of the Republic May 11, 1893, where he continued till discharged by death, April 7, 1906. On July 3, 1874, Wesley A. Brown and Sarah S. Jones were married in Princeton, Missouri. There were born to them four sons and six daughters, all of whom, except one daughter, remain and their widowed mother to mourn the loss of a kind husband and father. The widow, three sons and five daughters were joined by fifteen Old Soldiers and a large concourse of sympathizing people in the funeral services at the M. E. church April 9, conducted by Rev. B. Blain. The burial was in the cemetery at Page, Nebraska.—The Reporter.

Obituary.

Died, at his home eight miles south of O'Neill, on Saturday, April 14, 1906, Charles Shoemaker, aged 35 years, of cerebral meningitis.

Deceased was born in Iowa on January 7, 1871, and was a little over thirty-five years of age at the time of his death. About twenty years ago the family moved to this county and since then deceased was among our most honored citizens. In 1894 he was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Cavanaugh, who died February 20, 1906, after an illness of but ten days of pneumonia.

No man in Holt county was more highly thought of by his acquaintances than Charles Shoemaker, and his sudden death after an illness of but ten days was a shock to the entire community. By his industry and thrift he had succeeded in gathering a fairly good share of this world's goods and was in a position to enjoy the fruits of his persistent endeavor and early struggles when the grim destroyer entered his home and claimed him for his own. By death three children, aged eleven, ten and two years are orphaned, but they will be tenderly cared for by his father and sisters.

The funeral was held Monday morning from the Catholic church and was one of the largest seen in this city for some time, interment in the Catholic cemetery.

Card of Thanks.

To those who extended their sympathy and assistance in the hour of trial and bereavement in the loss of our beloved son and brother we wish in this way to express our sincere gratitude. J. F. Shoemaker and Family.

Last Hope Vanished.

When leading physicians said that W. M. Smithart of Pekin, Ia., had incurable consumption, his last hope vanished; but Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds kept him out of his grave. He says: "This great specific completely cured me and saved my life. Since then, I have used it for over ten years and consider it a marvelous throat and lung cure." Strictly scientific cure for coughs, sore throats or colds; sure preventive of pneumonia. Guaranteed, 50c and $1 bottles at Corrigan's drug store. Trial bottle free.

SEEDING PROBLEMS

Some Interesting and Instructive Information on an Important Western Crop.

By Chas. H. Thornton, Publisher
Duluth Commercial Record.

Owing to the low prices prevailing for flaxseed last fall there seems to be a tendency to cut it out, and in this the writer believes a mistake will be made.

The comparatively low prices at which the last crop was marketed were not due to the size of the crop itself, but to the fact that the accumulated reserves carried forward from the large crops of 1902 and 1903, which had been artificially held off the market, were released, and did more than anything else to depress the price. These reserves, with the crop of 1906, amounted to about 10,000,000 bushels more than the country's annual consumption, but with export sales and an enlarged domestic demand the entire load has been well absorbed, and by the time we can harvest another crop will be pretty well out of the way. The world's situation on flax is very strong, stronger than at any time since 1901, and with nothing in sight to make it weak.

Europe's principal sources of supply, Argentine and India, are both short in their crops; Argentine with a shortage of 23 per cent compared with 1905, and with barely 50 per cent of the crop of 1904; the Indian crop is just being harvested, and it is known that the drought at seeding time worked material damage to the crop. The final crop figures, which will be published next month, will show a great shortage compared with 1905, and this in turn was only 60 per cent of the 1904 crop. Argentine will not start shipping on another crop until next January, and India will not harvest another crop until March of 1907.

Aside from the foreign situation, the domestic outlook, of itself, is strong enough. Consumption is increasing materially every year, and last year's crop would have been barely sufficient to supply domestic demands. It will be remembered that the crop of 1905 was exceptional in its large average yield per acre, and it does not seem possible that its average yield can be again duplicated this year. The area in 1905 was much more than it would have been were it not that the spring season was so exceptionally favorable to a large area of everything. With the rapid settlement of the far western part of North Dakota, the large new breakings of the past three or four years are no longer available for flax, and the trade will hereafter depend on the product raised from smaller fields, the twenty, forty or eighty-acre fields of scattered farms.

The writer has followed statistics on flaxseed since it first became a prominent crop in the Northwest and is firmly of the opinion that the 1906 fall prices for seed will be higher than they have been before in five years and much higher than at present. Should an accident of any kind occur to any considerable part of this year's American crop the world's statistical situation is acute enough to bring about extravagant prices.

It is a well recognized fact that flax cannot be grown continuously on the same field owing to the disease known as flax wilt. It can, however, be grown continuously on the same farm by so rotating the crop as to bring flax on each field but once in seven to ten years.

Flax requires a good soil, as it is not a strong feeder, and it does very well following corn or a grass crop. It is no harder on the land than is any grain crop. In fact, there is no more fertility removed by a crop of flax than by a crop of wheat, oats or barley. Flax is undoubtedly a valuable crop as a small portion of the total grain crop raised. The average yield in money value per acre has been in the past larger for flax than for wheat. It also has the advantage of requiring a shorter time to mature than other grain crops, thus making it possible to sow flax considerably later in the spring, which is quite often an advantage.

For Weak Digestion. No medicine can replace food, but Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will help you to digest your food. It is not the quantity of food taken that gives strength and vigor to the system, but the amount digested and assimilated. If troubles with a weak digestion, don't fail to give these tablets a trial. Thousands have been benefited by their use. They only cost a quarter. For sale by Corrigan.

Cheated Death. Kidney trouble often ends fatally, but by choosing the right medicine E. H. Wolfe of Beargrove, Ia., cheated death. He says: "Two years ago I had kidney trouble which caused me great pain, suffering and anxiety, but I took Electric Bitters, which effected a complete cure. I have also found them of great benefit in general debility and nerve trouble, and keep them constantly on hand since, as I find they have no equal." Corrigan guarantees them at 50c.
