The town of Page, we are told, is all "torn up" over a saloon proposition. There was a tie at the annual spring election between a candidate for village trustee representing the element favorable to having a saloon and the candidate representing the other side. Lots were cast to settle who should hold office and the lot fell for the candidate favorable to the saloon advocates. This made the village board three for and two against an application for saloon license. The license was granted to a saloon man at Ewing and now the board is up against a remonstrance, and it is said things are getting pretty warm down around Page.

H. N. Bradstreet walked into The Frontier sanctum yesterday, which was about as big a surprise as we have encountered lately, as we supposed Brad was still at Hoodriver, Oregon, whither he went two years ago. He tells us he is back to the green sod of Nebraska and making his home at Spencer. We are always glad to have the western prodigals return, and Brad is a "bully" good fellow to have as a citizen.

The agricultural editor runs across this poultry item in an exchange: A Waukomis, Oklahoma, farmer has developed a breed of hens that ought to prove popular. For a number of years he had been annoyed by a neighbor's hens scratching in his garden, so he set about devising a strain of hens that would stay at home and not annoy the neighbors. He says he succeeded. The new breed of fowls has legs of uneven length. The right leg is about six inches long and the left leg four. Owing to this inequality in underpinning a hen is unable to take steps of equal length. When she endeavors to wonder any distance from the coop she walks in a circle and soon finds herself back at her own door. Furthermore, there can be no scratching by hens with mismatched legs. When a hen stands on the short leg the long one is put out of business, and when she stands on the long one the short one can't reach the ground.

The city council met in adjourned session Monday evening to pass upon a number of resolutions condemning several strips of sidewalks and calling for the construction of cement walks. These resolutions appear elsewhere in this issue. They were adopted unanimously. A petition was presented to the council from the residents of east Douglas street asking that the water mains be extended from Sixth to Tenth street along Douglas, and also that the street be graded. Action on the petition was deferred until an investigation of the water mains out toward the old Chioory factory could be made to ascertain if there was a pipe there which could be used on the extension asked for on Douglas street.

The Frontier is handed a copy of the Fontanelle, Ia., Observer containing the following items concerning a former O'Neill citizen: "Mr. E. W. Adams is receiving the congratulations of many friends on his good fortune in his canvass for nomination for clerk of the district court. He received a fine vote in nearly every precinct and in the county received a majority of eleven over both competitors. He is the only majority candidate where three were running, in the county. We take pleasure in assuring the electors that their confidence is worthily bestowed, and that the nominee will prove a capable officer and a gentleman always." Mr. Adams, it will be remembered, was county attorney of this county some years ago.

J. C. Addison, one of the early settlers in the Minneola country, was in town the latter part of last week. Mr. Addison is enthusiastic over present conditions and future prospects for Holt county. He complimented O'Neill on the improvements she is taking on and says a greater change for the better is noted in the town this year than in any previous year during the quarter of a century he has been coming here. The same advancement, he says, is noted in the country. At every farm between here and his place, twenty odd miles distant, some improvement is noted. Land in his community that ten or twelve years ago could not be sold at any price is now demanding $20 and $25 an acre. Mr.

Addison thinks the abundance of rain of late years has not only produced plenty of vegetation but has enriched the soil. His own material possessions have been growing with the prosperity of the country. He has three quarters of fine land, a well improved farm and plenty of stock.

We, the undersigned merchants of O'Neill agree to close our stores at 7 o'clock p. m. each night in the week except Saturday nights commencing Monday, June 18. Signed: P. J. McManus, J. P. Cole, F. C. Gatz, L. Pfund, T. V. Golden, John Horiskey.

At the township meeting for Grattan last Saturday the township affairs were found to be in striking contrast with that of a year ago. The committee in charge of the property received as part liquidation of the Pat Hanley shortage report that the quarter section of land had been disposed of for $3,200. This gave the township a good balance, as the treasurer's books show all outstanding warrants either paid or money on hand to pay, sufficient funds on hand to pay for a road grader authorized purchased at a cost of $1,000 and leave a balance in the treasury of over $1,000. A committee was appointed to settle with the treasurer and partially completed the work at the meeting. The road grader purchased is now here and will be given a test as soon as the firm's representative putting it out arrives to superintend the same. The township officials, in getting the grader, design to do some much needed work on the roads, among which that will receive early attention being those south of the Elkhorn river leading to O'Neill, which are extremely needy of repairs. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the chairman.
