A lot of Clipper "miners" will line up at O'Neill about election time.

The public has little faith in the life-long monopolist who suddenly turns trust buster.

A grand jury will be called to investigate the Norfolk asylum scandal. Now stand from under.

Hearst supporters in the south are referred to a "boll-weevil democrats," that being about the meanest thing in the vocabulary of the cotton planters.

Judge Westover hasn't the nomination for congress just yet. It is currently rumored that the Hon. Art Mullen of O'Neill has a bee buzzing in that direction.

Members of the republican county central committee should bear in mind the committee meeting in O'Neill, Saturday, the 28th. The committee is called to meet at one o'clock.

Yellow Journalist Hart professes to be an anti-monopolist, but in the conduct of his own business is the champion of the rankest kind of monopoly. He will not employ a printer who does not "carry a card."

The Fullerton Post publishes a large portrait of Hon. George D. Meiklejohn. "Gentleman George" wants to get into the United States senatorial game and has spread his announcement broadcast to that effect. Entries in this race will close about August 22.

A democratic paper in Michigan, the Jackson Hustler, laments the serious predicament of its party this way: "The movement to make Mr. Bryan the nominee in 1908 is distressing to a true democrat. It indicates the poverty of the democratic party in the matter of leadership."

A statement made by the secretary of the interior showing the allotment of funds under the provisions of the national irrigation act, says that the sum of $41,000,000 derivable from the sale of public lands is available for this purpose. Work will be continued as begun in fifteen western states.

An Ohio sheriff is going to undertake the job of arresting John D. Rockefeller when he lands at New York, returning from Europe. A criminal information has been filed in an Ohio court charging John D., as head of the Standard, with violating the anti-trust laws. It will be a feather in the cap of the sheriff that lands him.

A statement issued by the department of commerce and labor says the foreign commerce of the United States in the fiscal year just closed aggregated $2,970,000,000. If the trade with Porto Rico and Hawaii, which was included in our foreign commerce prior to their annexation, were added, the total would materially exceed $3,000,000,000. Both imports and exports exceeded those of any earlier year. The total imports were $1,226,000,000 and exports $1,744,000,000.

Demogogs wrecked populism. Political shysters took up the cry of reform from selfish motives that they might win place, power and wealth. There is an example in this for republicans. Certain lines of reform being worked out by the party are attracting the demogogs as a means of working themselves into office. Now is the time to turn down the "grand stander" and place in nomination men who have been consistent republicans and friends to the common welfare all their lives.

Figures compiled by the bureau of statistics show that the export trade in canned beef alone decreased more than 50 per cent during the month of June as compared with that month in 1905, and there was a falling off in exports of more than $500,000 in the aggregate. As it was, much of the product exported went to fill contracts made before the disclosure of packing house conditions.

Congressman Kinkaid will undoubtedly be the nominee of the republicans of the Sixth district to succeed himself. The judge has been in congress about long enough now to be thoroughly familiar with the duties of the office and his record for efficiency, hard work and "doing things" during his two terms entitles him to a renomination if ever one was entitled to it. Besides his popularity with the masses makes him pretty nearly the only republican with a cinch on the election.

The first step for the enforcement of the new railroad rate law has been taken by the interstate commerce commission, which has ordered an expert to appraise and fix a value on every railroad in the United States, that the commission may determine whether any rate is reasonable and just. Prof. Henry C. Adams of the university of Michigan and statistician for the interstate commerce commission, has been invited to enter the employ of the commission, to devise a universal system of bookkeeping for all the railroads, and to appraise their value. It is expected the new system will be in operation by July 1, 1907, and the railroads will be required to observe a fiscal year corresponding to that of the government.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT.

"Tom Taggart, campaign manager for Alton B. Parker in the last presidential election," says the Alliance Times, "is in the clutches of the law charged with being a professional gambler. He may be all right on some games but the political game was too much for him."

The Norfolk Press thinks that "republicans of Nebraska may as well make up their minds that they cannot elect a ticket nominated by a convention manipulated in the interests of the railroads. No candidate can hope to win who is not known to be free from railroad control, and who is not absolutely in favor of wiping out the pass evil, in favor of wiping out the discriminations against the smaller towns in freight rates, and in favor of a direct primary law that will effectually wipe out caucus rule and give every voter a chance to express his choice in the selection of candidates. These things must come about and if republican politicians block the way they must take the consequences."

Lincoln Journal: After thirty years of fighting between rival towns in Knox county over county seat and county division the voters in 1900 picked up the bone of contention and placed it out on a farm at the center of the county. A village called Center has here grown up to modest proportions. With progress of years there has arisen a demand for a new, commodious court house and the proposition is for its erection at a cost of $20,000. This has roused all the latent rivalry and heartburnings of old feuds into rampant activity. Once more propositions and counter propositions for county division fill the summer atmosphere. The difficulty presented is the same one observed by the sympathetic small boy who burst into tears on being shown a picture of Daniel in the lion's den, exclaiming: "There isn't enough of Daniel to go round, the little lion in the corner won't get any." There isn't enough of Knox to go around and give every aspirant for a county seat some county to go with it.

Somebody suggests that what this state needs in the way of legislation more than anything else at present, is the enactment of better laws for the collection of debts; not laws that will allow creditors to take the life or the necessities of life from the debtor, but laws that will afford protection against the dead beat who under our present system are becoming too awfully numerous for the good of both creditors and debtors. On this the Auburn Granger remarks: "We quite agree with the man and must add that our laws relative to collection of debts are quite generally such as will encourage the debtor to dishonesty, discourage the creditor in his efforts to be only just and fair, while they flee to the lawyers who laugh and grow fat."

The people of Nebraska, the men who do the work, and producers, the farmers, says the Gage County Democrat, are much less disturbed over the aggression of the corporations than are the professional barn stormers, who depend upon activity in stirring up things political. The fact is that there would be no attempt of the railroads to control things, if it had not been for the politicians who organized a trust and called upon the railroads to assist them in carrying out their plans. This was largely accomplished through the distribution of passes. These passes were distributed by men who now have a spasm of reform, and who are holding up their hands in holy horror at the idea of corporation control. It is usually the case that as soon as the corporation gets through with a man or refuse to be held up by him longer, that he states evidence, and is a bitter foe of corporate monopoly. That is about the picture that the people are now called to look upon just now.

An eastern editor, right at the center of the manufacturing industries, indulges a little tariff talk. He says: "The panic that followed the election of Cleveland did not wait until the anti-tariff people had done something. The fact that republican dissent had made democratic victory possible was sufficient. As soon as it was known that the democrats had won every man whose business could be affected by tariff changes, either for better or worse, began to shorten sail. Manufacturers ceased or cut down their forces to scant necessity. They could not afford to be caught with large stocks on hand if the tariff were to be reduced. Merchants ceased buying goods which could be affected. Shipment ceased and railroad managers cut out trains and discharged train crews. Bankers hesitated to lend on warehouse receipts, for fear the collateral might shrink in value. Notes based on merchandise were called in and enterprise was checked. Millions of men and women were thrown out of employment and the whole nation suffered during the four lean years."

Gilligan For Senator.

Atkinson Graphic: The Graphic takes pleasure in announcing that J. P. Gilligan of O'Neill, who so ably represented the 13th senatorial district in the last state assembly, will be a candidate for renomination.

Burwell Tribune: Dr. J. P. Gilligan of O'Neill has announced his candidacy for renomination for state senator for his district by the republican convention. Mr. Gilligan served his constituency well and truly in the last legislature and is deserving of renomination and reelection. He was one of the best men in the senate during the last session and was always on the people's side of every question. He is able, fearless and in every other way worthy.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY 5¢

The Immensity of It.

Lincoln Star: In neither this nor any other country, from the time when nations first were founded, has last year's bumper crops ever been paralleled. They are paralleled now in the July crop report, which partly reveals and in part promises an equally inconceivable mass of perishable wealth.

Corn promises a crop only 4 million bushels behind last year's huge record of 2,708,000,000 bushels, says the New York World. Potatoes, oats and barley are likely to be somewhat below last year, but wheat, much of which is already harvested, may go beyond the record by 30 million bushels. This mere excess alone would fill a bin 400 feet in height covering the Madison Square Garden block.

The four great farm crops of corn, hay, wheat and oats, named in the order of their gross value, will probably be worth this year some $2,750,000,000. All the gold dug in all the world in the 414 years since Columbus found the new continent would buy but four such crops.
