Many and curious are the legends of the kingfisher. One of these is to the effect that the bird was originally a plain gray in color, but upon being let loose from the ark flew toward the setting sun and had its back stained blue by the sky and its lower plumage scorched by the sun to gorgeous hues.
The dried body of the kingfisher was once used as charm against thunderbolts and months and it was hung up so that it might point with its bill to the wind's quarter.

The British empire has sixty-five leg-dislative bodies. In 1903 they passed about 1,900 acts and ordinances. Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 24.-Breaking away from the former party leaders, Nebraska republicans Wednesday declared in favor of new chieftains and principles which are in some respects a radical departure from past party declarations in that they demand a new deal in the levying of railroad taxes and for railroad regulation, and commit the party to the direct primary method of nominating officers.

Norris Brown was indorsed on the sixth ballot for United States senator. The battle was clean cut, the balloting abounding in dramatic incidents.

George L. Sheldon, of Nehawka, scored a success rivaling that of Brown. He was named for governor on the second ballot. His first vote was 400 and his second more than 600. He is scarcely 34 years of age.

Brown Gained Steadily.

Brown expected victory on the first ballot. He scored 401, while Rosewater got 2731/2; Millard got 461/2, with the rest of the candidates scattering. From the first the battle was between Brown and Rosewater. None of the other candidates was in the race with any prospect of success at any time.

Brown came to 406 on the second ballot, with Rosewater at 288. On the third Brown had 400 and Rosewater 288%. On the fourth ballot Brown scored 405, while Rosewater got 300 1/2. The fifth ballot showed Brown 407 saying:

Editor Rosewater's speech, following the address of Brown, who urged harmony, was dramatic in the extreme. For years he has been a candidate for the senatorship. He reminded the convention that he would have to bid farewell to all aspirations for office at Washington and return his office at Omaha. He said he would never demur to the verdict of a re-publican convention honestly expressed, and said he would support the entire ticket "if it is a clean one.

Prepared Platform Rejected.

After the temporary organization had been made permanent the convention voiced its disapproval of the platform drafted by a committe appointed in advance, and a new committee on resolu tions was selected.

The following were placed in nomination for United States senator:

Norris Brown, of Buffalo county; Edward Rosewater, of Douglas; Frank M. Currie, of Custer; Joseph H. Millard, of Douglas; George D. Meiklejohn, of

Nance; Lorenzo Crounse, of Douglas, and L. J. Evans, of Platte. The result of the first ballot was: Brown, 401; Rosewater, 273½; Currie, 55; Millard, 46½; Meiklejohr., 31; Crounse, 16; Evans, 21; Mickey, 1.
The vote for Governor Mickey was cast by Cuming county.

A Scare for Brown Forces. Brown gained four votes on the sec ond ballot, but fell to 400 on the third, and his supporters, who had counted confidently on his nomination on the second ballot, displayed alarm. The fourth ballot showed a gain of five for Brown and a greater gain for Rose-water. There was a mild attempt at a stampede for Currie, but it falled. Brown gained two more on the fifth. Attention was called to the fact that three counties were unrepresented or not voting, but the chair, in the face of a protest, ruled that it required 429 votes to nominate, an actual majority of the delegates entitled to seats in the convention.

The excitement, which had The excitement, which had been great, became intense with the beginning of the sixth ballot. There was practically no change until Nemaha county, which had been splitting its vote among three or four candidates, went solidly for Brown. Two or three other small counties followed.

With the announcement of the tellers that Brown had received 433 votes, four
