The nearest thing to a freeze up came Monday night following the worst and windiest day of the season. The temperature tightened down during the night and covered exposed pools or vessels of water with a substantial layer of ice.

Dr. Will Mullen and wife were over from Bloomfield over Sunday, they coming over to attend the funeral of Jeremiah Holland. Dr. Mullen says Bloomfield is flourishing and making rapid strides forward. He is enjoying a good dental practice there.

Last week a gasoline engine and machinery for mixing bread was installed in St. Mary's academy. Mixing by hand the large quantities of bread needed for the convent was a tedious process and the machinery greatly reduces the amount of labor in this line.

Frank Biglin was in Omaha last week attending a course of lectures and instruction in embalming and also taking the examination to become a licensed embalmer. Yesterday he received his diploma, and now is a full-fledged undertaker. Frank has had considerable experience in this line assisting his father in his large undertaking business.

Theodore Piekenbrock, formerly in charge of the convent building here but who has been in Buffalo, N. Y., the past two years, arrived in the city Saturday last for a visit with his friends here. He was accompanied by his aged father, eighty-five years of age, who lives in Ohio.

Johnnie, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. James Davidson, punctured his left foot with a bullet from a rifle last Sunday. He was hunting along the river when the gun was accidentally discharged and the bullet struck his foot, passing clear through. He is getting along as well as could be expected.

At a meeting held Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church, the Y. P. C. E. elected officers for the next six months: President Dorothy Haley, vice-president Ira Finch, treasurer Bessie Jones, recording secretary Ida Schwinck, corresponding secretary Agnes Bentley, organist Lucile Meredith.

John Bradt, living six miles down the river, visited a few minutes in The Frontier sanctum Monday. Mr. Bradt is a staunch republican and says he has been watching affairs for over fifty years now and has observed that the history of the country under a republican administration has been one of prosperity. Mr. Bradt says that when he moved onto the farm he is occupying this spring his neighbors predicted he would not raise anything as the farm is considered one of the poorest in the county, but he has raised a crop of corn that will beat thirty bushels to the acre and that the owner of the place is so well pleased with the results that he is having corn cribs and granaries built to hold the products this year.

Recent improvements in the way of cement walks is a short strip from the Fidelity bank to Spittler & Poe's meat market. This completes a solid block along the south side of that street. The north side of the same street is also now completely spanned with a cement walk, the Hagerty corner being built last week. It also runs on the east side of Fourth street for a half a block, leaving only half a block of plank walks within the three blocks from the school house to Gallagher's corner.

Fred and Jesse Jelsma, co-partners doing business as Jelsma Bros., have begun suit for damages in district court against John McGrew. They claim to have leased the McGrew ranch near Stuart, consisting of some 1280 acres, and allege three causes of action in their petition, as follows: That on June 5, 1905, the defendant burned sixty tons of hay belonging to them valued at $240; on July 19, 1905, defendant burned fifteen tons of their hay, valued at $45; on May 5, 1906, defendant burned seventy tons of their hay valued at $280. They ask for judgments in these several amounts.

There will be services at the Episcopal church at 11 a. m. Sunday, October 14.

G. A. Stephens, president of the Moline Plow company, arrived in the city last evening and will spend a few days in this vicinity shooting chickens and quail.

Jeremiah Holland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Holland, well known people of this community, died in Chicago, where he had been practicing law, and the remains were brought here for burial, the funeral being held last Saturday. The deceased was thirty-two years of age and his untimely taking off is keenly felt by the relatives and friends. He had grown up here and was a bright, capable young man who had the confidence and esteem of all who knew him.

J. W. Van Kirk, two miles northeast of town, who has a large field of corn that has the reputation of being the best anywhere in this section of Nebraska. Some of the ears from this field have been exhibited in town. It is of the large, yellow kernel variety. The ears are very large and well filled and are no doubt as good as can be produced anywhere. This is Mr. Van Kirk's first season in the county and the season has not been by any means the best to give the greatest results. He did not, however, allow an unfavorable season to deter him from putting forth efforts to produce a good crop of corn. He kept constantly at it with the cultivator during the dry weather, going over his fields five times. The result is he has a crop that is estimated at better than sixty bushels to the acre.
