

FIFTY PERISH IN A COLLISION

Passengers on Immigrant Train Burned in Fire Which Followed the Crash.

MISTAKE OVER ORDERS

Eight Persons Killed When Boiler Bursts in Engine on the Southern Pacific's Sunset Express.

CAUSE OF THREE WRECKS IN A DAY.

- Baltimore & Ohio immigrant train misunderstood orders; head-on collision.
- Southern Pacific Sunset express—Explosion of boiler on engine.
- Missouri Pacific fast mail—Broken on rail.
- Michigan Central freight—Engine hits depot.

Valparaiso, Ind., Nov. 14.—Fifty out of 167 immigrants who on were on westbound Baltimore and Ohio immigrant train which collided with a freight train this morning at Woodville, ten miles north of here, are missing, and it is believed their bodies were consumed in the fire which destroyed six coaches of the immigrant train.

Forty injured were taken to Chicago on a special train and placed in Mercy hospital.

The accident, it is declared, was the result of misdirection by the train dispatcher. He ordered the westbound train held at Chicago Junction, Ind., to allow the eastbound passenger to pass.

The passenger train was running in two sections, but the conductor on the westbound train was not notified of this. When the section had passed he therefore pulled out and started for Chicago on the main track. The collision followed.

The trains came together at full speed and the impact wrecked both. A number of the passengers on the immigrant train were hurled down a ten-foot embankment and immediately caught fire.

The fireman on the freight train was killed and the other trainmen badly hurt. Physicians were summoned from this city and neighboring towns.

Slain in Slumber.

The passengers were asleep when the accident occurred, and many were killed while they slept. The scenes that followed were heartrending. A number were caught in the wreckage and unable to release themselves before the flames reached them and were consumed.

The cries of the dying filled the air. Those who were not badly hurt tried to save others, but were not successful, as the flames drove them back.

Eight Are Killed.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 14.—Two men were killed, another fatally injured, and many passengers were more or less shaken up and cut by broken glass in an accident to the Southern Pacific Sunset express, southbound, at Sargent's station, eighty-seven miles south of San Francisco, last night.

Five tramps riding on the first car were killed.

The accident was caused by the explosion of the engine boiler.

Engine Hits Depot; One Dead.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 14.—One man killed and several injured, three badly, today when a Michigan Central freight engine cut away and crashed into the Third street depot, tearing down a large section of the structure.

The dead: GEORGE R. BOOTH, of Detroit, parcel agent.

The severely injured: Donald Thomson, assistant district superintendent of the Pullman company; Earl S. McEuen, cashier of the Pullman office, and Bert Maner, of Detroit, a conductor.

The engine was switching in the yards a mile from the station when the crew saw a passenger train approaching behind. The men thought a collision was about to occur and jumped.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 14.—Two coaches and the engine on the Missouri Pacific fast mail train from Kansas City were thrown from the track by a broken rail and turned over near Eureka, Mo., last night. Eleven passengers were injured. The most seriously hurt are St. Louis men G. A. Brown, Charles Mueller, Anthony Apke and Rev. Manly I. Braker.

WOMAN NEED NOT OBEY

Des Moines Minister, Who Has Wed 1,000 Couples, Preaches Sermon to Them and Gives Advice.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 14.—The Central Church of Christ of which Rev. H. O. Breeden has been pastor for eighteen years, was crowded last night with couples he had married during this time. They came on invitation, for it was his farewell sermon. It is estimated that 400 of the 1,000 couples he had united were present to hear him preach on "Is Marriage a Failure?" He answered this in the negative and also said he had always omitted from the ceremony the word "obey."

"Why should she obey a poor, weak, backboneless sort of creature, because he is known in charity as a man? The real man will not need remind his wife of the word obey."

"If marriage is a failure, in the great number of cases the husband makes it so because of the absence of old time civility. He must be a business man during the sacred moments at home. Let him be considerate and thoughtful, and above all let him treat the woman as his wife and not as a housekeeper, and he will seldom have reason for complaint. The man who confides his business troubles to his wife instead of trying to shoulder the entire load himself will seldom be ruined by her extravagance."

Rev. Philip Ideman, of Paris, Ill., who has been called as Dr. Breeden's successor, will take up his new duties on January 1.

MUST PAY SPECIFIED DUTY

The Supreme Court Rules in the Figured Cotton Cloth Case.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 14.—In deciding the case of the United States vs. George Riggs & Co., of New York, today the supreme court of the United States held that figured cotton cloth imported from foreign countries must pay a specified duty under a paragraph of the Dingley tariff law in addition to the ad valorem duty required. The decision has been awaited with interest by importers and manufacturers all over the country.

RICH GIRL SMUGGLES FOR THE SPORT OF IT

Dashes Across the Frontier in an Auto Ahead of the Officers.

Geneva, Nov. 14.—The customs authorities on the Franco-Swiss frontier are in despair concerning Mlle. Marthe Rey, a pretty woman, who has adopted wholesale smuggling as a pastime. Mlle. Rey, who is only 24 years of age, and wealthy, lives at Drye, a frontier village, in a charming villa left her by her father, who was reputed to be a French millionaire.

Tiring of home life, Mlle. Rey decided that smuggling was the most exciting diversion she could buy. Tobacco, saccharin, and snuff were very dear in Haute Savoie, and very cheap in Geneva.

It was easy to fill her 40-horse-power motor car with contraband in Switzerland and then dash across the frontier, selling it at enhanced prices, and giving the proceeds to the poor.

DEATH TAKES AWAY HEAVIEST GENERAL UNCLE SAM EVER HAD

Maj. Gen. William Rufus Shafter Succumbs to Pneumonia in California—His Career.

Bakersfield, Cal., Nov. 14.—Major General William R. Shafter, the biggest general the American army ever had, died at noon today after a short illness.

Pneumonia was the cause. The end came peacefully and the famous old veteran lapsed into unconsciousness only a few minutes before he expired.

A bulletin issued earlier in the day stated that there was no hope of prolonging life for more than a few hours.

William Rufus Shafter was born in Galesburg, Mich., October 16, 1835. He taught school for three years prior to 1861, when he entered the union army as first lieutenant in the Seventh Michigan infantry.

In January, 1867, he entered the regular army with rank as lieutenant colonel. The same year he was given a congressional medal of honor for gallant conduct at the battle of Fair Oaks, Va.

When the war with Spain broke out he was made a major general of volunteers and went to Cuba in command of all the American forces. He conducted the operations ending in the capitulation of General Seno's army and the surrender of Santiago in July, 1898.

He retired June 30, 1901.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 14.—It is Governor Hoch again. The plurality is something like 2,000, with eight counties to hear from, which will not change the result.

BARRICADED MANIAC OUSTED BY SULPHUR

Fumes and Cayenne Pepper Fill His Stronghold and He Surrenders.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 14.—Smoke of cayenne pepper and sulphur forced the barricaded man who had barricaded himself in the attic of his home at Coraopolis and dined the police, after all other means to compel him to come forth had failed. John Ritchey, aged 39, who is thought to have gone insane, had fired four shots at his wife earlier in the day and made threats against others. His wife ran screaming from the house and gave the alarm.

The police and 100 citizens gathered about the Ritchey home, but the demented man, barricaded in the attic, defied them all.

PLAN TO RID SOUTH OF ITS BAD NEGROES

Quarantine Conference Plunges Into the Race Problem the Very First Thing.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 14.—The second annual session of the southern immigration and quarantine conference was called to order here today. The purpose of the conference is to bring about a more equitable distribution of the immigrants from foreign shores. The idle negro class causes apprehension in the minds of the immigrants.

This operates against the south receiving what it thinks its proper share of laborers from abroad.

Various plans are suggested for ridding the south of its worthless negroes and the race question was nearly injected into the discussion.

SETS FIRE TO HERSELF

Five-Year-Old Gladys Musser Enveloped in Flames When Mother Returns.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 14.—Left alone in the kitchen, Gladys, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Musser, of Rivers Junction, Ia., last night set fire to her own clothes.

When the child's mother appeared the little one was enveloped in flames and received injuries from which she died.

WOMAN IS NAILED TO KITCHEN SINK

Fearful Atrocity Marks Climax of Carnival of Crime in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Pa., Nov. 14.—Pittsburg terrorized and likened to mining camp or frontier town, is the tone of all this morning's issues of the papers.

With three murders and a number of robberies, accompanied by violence, and an attempt at crucifixion in twenty-four hours, added to a large number of misdemeanors that have occurred during the past two weeks, there has been such a public demand for extra police, that Mayor Guthrie has put on a number of extra men without legal provision for their compensation, trusting to the effect of the public clamor upon the select and common councils for favorable action as to pay.

The crucifixion case was brought to light by the screams of a woman in a tenement house on Forbes street.

Neighbors rushed in and found Mrs. Jean Mitchell, aged 19, in her kitchen huddled in a kneeling position on the floor with both hands nailed to the draining board of the sink and with blood running down her arms.

Nailed With a Hatchet.

Alongside lay a hatchet, the weapon which had driven two nails into her, and which was then used to draw them out.

The woman became unconscious and was taken to a hospital. When she recovered she said when she entered her flat somebody struck her on the back of the head. She felt herself drawn toward the sink, her hands pressed down against the board and the nails driven in.

The police are looking for William Neely, known as William Mitchell, and the husband of the woman.

INSULT COST THREE LIVES.

Oshtemo, Mich., Nov. 14.—Bert Seely, under suspicion in connection with the murder of Edw. Egan, in Westhaven township last Wednesday, was found dead in bed today. Lying beside him was his young wife, also dead.

They were found by Seely's brother.

In a Suicide Pact.

It is thought the couple committed suicide. There was no evidence of a struggle in the bedroom and on a stand near the bed was a glass with a spoon and a white tablet near it.

Edgar was shot dead in a road near home last Thursday. In the course of their investigation the officers found that Edgar and Seely had quarreled a number of times.

Wife Tells Police.

Seely was suspected by the officers, and yesterday they secured from his wife a statement that there had been a long-time secret enmity between the men, as the result of an imputation of Edgar's against Mrs. Seely.

Seely and Mrs. Seely were to have been witnesses today at the inquest into Edgar's murder, and it was when he went to their home to discuss the inquest that Seely's brother found the corpses.

NEEDLE KILLS SWEETHEART.

Scranton, Pa., Nov. 14.—Stabbed to the heart by a hatpin in the hands of an unknown young woman, Thomas Dougherty, of Dunmore, expired in the state hospital here.

He refused to tell the name of the woman who killed him or to give any reason for her act.

Mary Burke is under arrest upon orders of Coroner Stein. Dougherty called on her Saturday night and in his dying moments admitted that his slayer was a woman on whom he had called.

The hatpin penetrated the man's heart after passing through the fifth rib, showing the woman stabbed him with great force.

After a day spent in the investigation the local police and County Detective Phillips decided to withdraw the warrant for the arrest of Katie Burke, the girl who was suspected of having caused Dougherty's death. She says that she had been mending her brother's clothing with a long needle, used herabout in mending miners' heavy outer clothing, and that on going down town in the evening she stuck the needle in the bosom of her dress. Dougherty, who had been her sweetheart, hailed her and asked her to take a walk with him. He attempted to embrace her and the point of the needle that was in her dress caught in his vest, while the "eye" or blunt end rested against her corset. In the embrace the needle was forced into his body through the fifth rib and into the cavity between the pericardium and the heart. Hemorrhages resulted that caused death.

This is the first trip abroad that the new royal pair of Norway has made since its acquisition to the throne.

New York, Nov. 14.—The grievance committee representing the engineers and firemen on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and the New York Central met here today to discuss the wages and hours situations.

Similar committees representing the engineers and firemen of the Erie have been in session for several days.

Grand Master Hannah, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, said today the poll of the Erie firemen as to a strike has resulted in an almost unanimous vote in favor of a strike so far.

The Lackawanna Yields.

New York, Nov. 14.—The demands of the engineers employed by the Lackawanna railroad were adjusted today in the conference between President Bruesdale and representatives of the engineers. They granted a ten-hour day and an increase in wages.

WOMEN HURT IN PANIC; MOVINGPICTURE CAUSE OF A THEATER FIRE

Hot Carbon Drops on Celluloid Films—Police and Firemen Struggle With Crowd.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 14.—A hot carbon used in a moving picture machine dropped into a basket of celluloid films in an amusement place here, and in the fire which ensued a number of women and children were bruised.

The Franklin Street theater, where the accident occurred, was at once a scene of panic, and it was a marvel that no one was killed.

The police and firemen had a hard time controlling the crowd, which was buying tallow and American tallow (cottonseed) oil, and they are now said to be reaching out after the market for washing soap, toilet soap and perfumes.

With the British Trust.

The beef trust has already a large number of soap manufacturing plants and proposes to combine with the English soap trust, which is headed by Levers of Manchester, who has recently established an American branch in Cambridge, Mass.

For several weeks someone has been buying tallow on an enormous scale in the American markets, with the result that tallow is now 25 per cent. higher than it was a month ago, and is still on the rise.

WIFE, DESERTED, WAITS ON STEPS TWO WEEKS

Man Supposed to Be Dead Is Found With a Pretty Widow.

Brussels, Nov. 14.—Mme. Lebourg is besieging the house in which her husband lives at Dunkerque.

About four years ago M. Lebourg, who lived at Havre, went out for a walk and never returned. A few months later a man's body was dragged from the Seine, and Mme. Lebourg recognized it as her husband's. The body was buried with due ceremony, and a mass was said for his soul.

Last month a Havre merchant went to Dunkerque on business and met there his old friend Lebourg, who was in the best of health, in the company of a pretty young widow.

The merchant, on returning to Havre, told Mme. Lebourg of his discovery, and she promptly followed her faithless husband to Dunkerque. For the past two weeks she has been sitting on the doorstep of the house in which he is living.

STRIKING RESULTS OF ELECTION DAY

Republicans Increase Their Lead There—Dryden, Babcock, Wadsworth, Lacey and McCleary Are Defeated.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—"Raymond," in the tribune, summarizes last Tuesday's election as follows:

It was a spectacular election after all. The people did strange things with their ballots on Tuesday, and the result of their voting will be felt in different sections of the country for many a long day.

There was a vast amount of scratching. The independent voter was out in force, and the people took it upon themselves to enforce their own ideas in a way not often seen in this country, even in an off year.

Machines were smashed everywhere, men of national reputation were retired from politics, Hearst was beaten in New York state, congress is safely republican, and there were a dozen other features any one of which would be enough to make the election of 1906 notable from a political point of view.

Of course the fight in New York state against Hearst overshadowed everything else in the way of popular interest.

Hearst Lost Everywhere.

More than that, Hearst was singularly unsuccessful everywhere. His personal political enemy, John B. Moran, the noisy district attorney of Boston, was beaten out of his boots for governor of Massachusetts. The "Locket" in Chicago was left out of sight, and a similar fate befell his candidate for governor in California. If Mr. Hearst chooses to be a candidate for the presidency, which is something he has declared over his shoulder, he will not take under consideration, he will not be able to go before a democratic national convention with anything in the way of a clean bill of health so far as Tuesday's election is concerned.

So far as national affairs are concerned, the thing in Tuesday's election which probably will excite the greatest interest, aside from the Hearst defeat, will be the backsliding of Missouri. It was only two years ago that the "Mysterious Stranger" left his expected tracks in the waste places between the democratic and the republican columns. He was welcomed as newcomers generally are in politics, and the enthusiastic republicans of Missouri predicted that the state was unalterably in its adhesion to republican policy. They elected a republican to the United States senate and then sat down and gloried in their political greatness.

But they will glory no more. The mysterious stranger did not come to stay. The stranger has gone back to his old associates, and Missouri has become a democratic state once more by a safe majority, electing a large percentage of democrats to the house of representatives, and probably insuring the electoral vote to the democracy two years from now.

Republicans Gain in Senate.

Late returns indicate an unexpected gain for the republicans in the United States senate. Out of Colorado comes the news that the legislature is almost certainly republican. This means the defeat of Senator Patterson. He was the one democrat in the senate who dared to stand up publicly and praise Roosevelt and his policy. He stood by the administration in several tight places, and he seemed to have deserved a better fate. He will be succeeded in all probability by a republican of the name of Simon Guggenheim.

The senate will contain sixty-one republicans, more than two-thirds of the whole, thus making possible the ratification of treaties and confirmation of appointments without calling on the minority.

The term of W. A. Clark, the multimillionaire of Montana, expires next March. At one time he said he would not be a candidate for re-election, but lately he has reported to have changed his mind. He will probably change his mind back again, however, upon learning that, according to the latest returns, the republicans will have a majority in the legislature.

Idaho has elected a republican legislature, thus retiring Senator Dubois, democrat.

Glum Outlook for Dryden.

There will be a change in the personnel of the senate from New Jersey. The opposition to Senator Dryden, the life insurance president, has been particularly fierce. He has a primary nomination behind him, but the majority of the republicans in the legislature will be so small that other candidates will be sure to spring up among the republicans, and he will have to fight for his life, with a possibility of losing his seat after all.

Talking of the senate reminds one that two new members of that body will soon have to be accounted for from the new state of Oklahoma. They will probably be democrats. Arizona and New Mexico will remain outside of the fold for many years to come.

The chances are that no republican administration will get down on their knees and ask for it. The United States senate is surely republican for many years to come, so that the prospect of a standstill for Arizona and New Mexico is extremely remote, no matter what might be the result of the next presidential election.

Several Big Lights Go Out.

Tuesday's elections retired from politics several of the best known men on the republican side of the house of representatives. Wadsworth of New York, McCleary of Minnesota, Babcock of Wisconsin and Lacey of Iowa will not be on the rolls when the clerk calls the house of representatives to order for the beginning of the sixtieth congress. Wadsworth's case is more or less of a peculiar type. His son married the daughter of Secretary Hay, and President Roosevelt was personally instrumental in making his son speaker of the New York assembly.

Babcock in Wisconsin and Lacey in Iowa were the victims of unfortunate factional fights. Babcock and Senator Spooner have for a long time in Wisconsin been the leaders of the stalwart republican move, which has fought LaFollette in season and out of season. LaFollette was marked for slaughter by LaFollette's friends many years ago. He always managed to secure an election in spite of the fact that much of his time during the campaign was taken up with the work of the republican congressional committee, of which he was the chairman.

This year he declined the chairmanship of the national committee so that he could give his attention to his own district. In spite of this fact the LaFollette people "got him," and he will not return to the house, where he has been a prominent figure for many years.

Tariff Revision Omens in Results.

In the case of McCleary, of Minnesota, there is evidence of increasing sentiment on the tariff revision question. McCleary was a pronounced standpatter. He has fought revision at every stage of the game. He is a member of the ways and means committee of the house, and was relied upon by "Uncle" Joe Cannon to help in chinking off any possible tariff legislation. The fight in his district was waged entirely on the tariff issue, and McCleary's defeat will probably be taken throughout the country as a significant victory for those who believe that the time has come when President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft will press upon the country the necessity of a reduction in the present tariff schedules.

It is quite possible there is another tariff revision victory in sight in Massachusetts. Governor Guild was elected there by a majority of something like 30,000. He is a pronounced advocate of tariff revision. Running on the same ticket with him was Leonard G. Draper, who is equally well known as a standpatter. The returns show that Draper ran far behind his ticket and carried the state by not over 10,000 majority. This difference of 20,000 majority between him and Guild may be the measure of the unpopularity of District Attorney Moran, but the chances are that it measures the popularity of the tariff revision issue in Massachusetts.

Governor Cummins, of Iowa, another tariff revisioner, has been re-elected by a largely reduced majority.

Pennsylvania went for the regular republican ticket by a plurality of fully 75,000 votes. This is a great personal triumph for Senator Penrose. It puts him as firmly in the saddle in Pennsylvania as ever Quay was, and at the same time it ends for the time being all hope of the success of a reform movement in that state. John Weaver, the sensational mayor of Philadelphia, went back to the Penrose crowd before the election and turned over to them the control of the police and the city government.
