

THE O'NEILL FRONTIER

D. H. CRONIN, Publisher.
O'NEILL, NEBRASKA

M. Falleres, was until recently, believed to be the only president of the French republic who had no double, but his counterpart has been found. The man, who most resembles him physically is a respectable merchant of the Rue Saint Honore, who plays his part with decorum and dignity. He wears exactly the same kind of blue butterfly ecru and white dots as the president, the same kind of hat and exactly so dily cut a beard. And on his promenade he is always accompanied by a friend who could easily be taken for the president's private secretary. Dressed in the same measured steps, the notable double walks through the Fauorg Saint Honore and feels overjoyed it being saluted on all sides.

A sergeant major of an infantry regiment stationed in Bremen was recently sentenced to a slight disciplinary punishment for having mortally wounded a man with a revolver in the course of a fight. He appealed against this, but was informed that his appeal had been rejected. He then ordered his men to load their rifles with blank cartridges, but during their absence reloaded them with live ones. He then drew up his men in firing line and carefully showed them how to aim their rifles straight at his heart. With the utmost calm he then ordered "Fire," and fell with three bullets through his heart.

The announcement that the London Daily Mail is about to issue a weekly edition for the British and French press to the other British journals published in Braille type, which have had a long and useful career, though they have seldom been seen by the general public. The first weekly newspaper for the blind was published on June 1, 1892, and is called the Weekly Summary. It has always been issued below cost price and its promoters derive no benefit from its publication. Another was started only last year, called the Braille Weekly, and issued from Edinburgh.

Thousands of men work all their lives at securing the banks of the great Yellow river in China. Yet every now and then the tide sweeps away all opposition and the loss in human life is greater than any war ever caused. Nineteen years ago the river burst its bonds. Day after day the torrent flowed, twenty miles to the hour, thirty miles wide and ten feet deep. The flood has been described as five Japanese sailing from a light for two months and not reaching it. The Chinese have been embanking this river.

Senator Cullom was about to step into his carriage at the Capitol the other day when he stopped and looked at the horses critically. "John," he said to the coachman, "we have got to do something for these horses. They are too thin. They are out of condition. Why, I was not noticing Sartif's horses until they were as nice and big and glossy and fat as 'Deed Boss,' broke in the coachman, looking at the thin figure of Senator Cullom, "we don't need no such horses to haul us as Mr. Taft does, anyhow."

Book restorers, as a rule, are most ingenious artists, and they can produce an imitation of a page of a rare book which will deceive hundreds of collectors. One particular restorer is known to have "doctored" over a thousand old books during the last five years, producing pages in facsimile and supplying colophons or doctored capitals. There is not a thing wanting to make a book complete that this man cannot do. "I have done it," he said in a recent interview, "the market is now being fairly flooded with his productions."

In an article entitled "Rubber Made from Whence?" William T. Walsh, writing in reference to this matter in the "Technical World" magazine, says: "The importance of the discovery can hardly be over estimated, coming at a time when the world is anxiously asking where its future supplies of rubber will come. In half a decade, it is said, the annual consumption of elastic material will be at least 80,000 tons. Even 100,000 tons is considered by many as a conservative estimate."

Speaking at the dinner held to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the Grand Antiquity society, of Glasgow, on the 16th inst., the lord provost of the city remarked that the only great name that remained to be honored by the present generation of citizens was that which would soon become a very pressing question—to provide a remedy for the congestion of their street traffic.

Vere Goldthwaite, one of the most interesting personalities of the Boston bar, has had a romantic career. He is the son of a well known Boston physician and for a number of years traveled with a wild west show. For a time he was one of the best known cowboys of Colorado. He attracted considerable attention recently by publishing a book on Ingersoll.

The veterinary profession is much interested in a surgical operation which has been accomplished by Professor Udriski, one of the staff of the veterinary school at Bucharest. Having amputated a horse's leg at the fetlock joint after the animal had been fastened in fitting a leather boot or artificial leg that enabled the animal to walk about and take exercise.

The Rev. James Boulton, of Northwich, aged 92, lost his sight five years ago. He recently consulted an eminent eye specialist, and after submitting to an operation recovered his sight. He is the oldest private Methodist minister in England, and is now superannuated. He has been in the ministry for sixty-five years.

A life convict in the Andamans had served some long period when an order recently came for his release. All the time he had been in the band, and had evidently so far forgotten that he was a prisoner that on his release he put in a claim for a pension on account of his long and faithful service as a government servant.

It is in the forests of Canada where the biggest motors in the world are designed. They have been specially designed for hauling logs over snow and rough roads. One of these machines is capable of dragging a train of 200 tons weight of logs at a speed of twelve miles an hour.

Workingmen engaged in diverting a roadway at Welwyn, Herts, Wales, unearthed seven Roman urns in a good state of preservation, a Roman spur, two drinking bowls six inches high, one smaller cup, a bowl, some bronze plate, an iron standard and a small urn six inches high.

"The elephant's trunk," says Dr. Ray Lankester, "originated through a shortening of the lower jaw. Therefore, I am sorry to upset Mr. Ruydard Kipling's explanation that the length of the trunk was increased by its having trunk" and "the crocodile."

SUFFRAGIST REVIVAL.

They Ask the Teachers to Support the Cause in Nebraska.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 29.—Woman suffrage advocates, stirred to action by the reports that their cause is waning in Nebraska, will ask to have the state teachers' association go on record in favor of their pet idea. A communication from Inez C. Philbrick of Lincoln, chairman of the state W. S. A. resolutions committee, has reached State Superintendent McEwen requesting the privilege of presenting a resolution before the association indorsing the principle of equal rights to both sexes at the ballot box. In her letter Miss Philbrick says:

"We feel that this is a most pertinent question to come before the association. The future voters of the country are being trained in the schools. If they are imbued with a high sense of civic honor and responsibility, it is essential that the teachers present the enlarged outlook which actual participation in the affairs of government alone can give."

FORM G. O. LEAGUE.

Meeting for the Purpose Called for Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 29.—The mass meeting called sometime ago by Wm. Harrington and Edgar Howard, provisional president and secretary, respectively, of the government ownership league, to organize permanently will be held at 8 o'clock tonight. Every elector in Nebraska, regardless of political affiliations, will be entitled to a voice and vote in the convention which is called for the purpose of making permanent organization of the Nebraska Government Ownership League.

The call says: "We are aware that the date selected comes at a time when most men are busy with the work of closing up the year's accounts, but we are also aware of the fact that if the nation is ever to be rescued from the grasp of corporate hands the task must be accomplished by men who are ready and willing to make some measure of sacrifice for the public good. It is to such men that this call is addressed. Do not wait for a personal invitation. Accept this call as personal to every man in Nebraska who favors government ownership of railroads, rather than allroad ownership of government."

McEver, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Gus Hill, of this village, has the distinction of wearing his wife's picture nearer his heart than any other man. The fact causes him some physical suffering, but this is not thought strange when it is known that the picture is in Hill's stomach.

Hill bought the locket, which is a gold-filled affair about as big as a 25-cent piece, from a peddler and put his own and his wife's picture in it. He intended to give it to his life partner for a Christmas present, but fate willed otherwise.

He maintained great secrecy regarding the locket until a few days ago, when he thought he would show it to an old friend. This was his undoing for on the way to the friend's house he tried to open the clasp. It stuck; one finger nail broke, and he used his teeth. The locket was slippery and so was the sidewalk, and as Hill's feet went up the locket went down. Hill kept the matter literally to himself until he began to have pains in his stomach, when he told his wife and went to a doctor. The locket is still in his hiding place.

PEOPLE'S LOBBY AT NEBRASKA CAPITAL

Railroads and Insurance Henchmen Not to Have Corner on Information.

IGNORANCE INEXCUSABLE

Legislators Will have at Hand Easy Reference to Past Bills and to Contemporary Political Platforms.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 27.—A people's lobby in a limited sense will be in evidence at the coming session of the Nebraska legislature. There will be nobody present at all sessions to guide the legislative intellect aright, but provisions have been made for the establishment in a convenient room of a man who will be equipped with material ready at hand for the use and information of the legislature upon every topic that is likely to come up for discussion and adjudication.

The man is A. E. Sheldon, who at other times has charge of the field work for the state historical society. At its meeting last May the society authorized the organization of a legislative reference library, placed H. W. Caldwell, professor of history, and Mr. Sheldon in charge, and gave them money with which to start the work. Mr. Sheldon made it his business to first visit the legislative reference library at Madison, Wis. Three weeks were spent there studying the methods, in use in the Badger state. A visit was also made to St. Paul, Minn., for a similar purpose.

Assumed They Stand for Something.

Since then Mr. Sheldon has been the busiest man in the state. He assumed that the platforms of the political parties expressed in a large degree the current of public opinion, and he has proceeded to gather from various sources material upon these subjects that are likely to receive consideration at the hands of the legislature which meets here next month. Special effort has been made to secure all possible material on all sides of such topics as direct primaries, railroad regulation, revenue systems, local option, municipal government, employers' liability and the like. Other subjects have not been neglected, as it is recognized that among the several hundred bills introduced at every session will be found some touching upon life at unusual points. A card catalogue of all bills introduced in past sessions, arranged under subject headings, will make it possible to quickly find and examine every bill relating to a given topic.

TWO PARDONS ISSUED FOR THE SAME MAN

Governor Mickey Extends Clemency to Young Man for Third Time.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 27.—Governor Mickey today issued two pardons to William Campion, charged in Seward county with bastardy and child desertion. This is the third time the governor has given Campion executive clemency. Campion comes from a wealthy family, but declared his innocence and said he would not go to jail before he would pay the girl the money adjudged by the court.

Judge Good after the first pardon held that the proceeding was a civil one in which the governor could not act. Now the governor remits the penalty and declares a man cannot be imprisoned for debt. He believes the youth innocent. If the court refuses to recognize today's pardon habeas corpus proceedings will be begun in supreme court. In the desertion case Campion has not been sentenced.

CALLED GOVERNOR A "CUR," IS THROWN OUT

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 27.—Because she called Governor John H. Mickey a "dirty cur," Miss Nora Garber, a clerk in the employ of the state commissioner of public lands, was forcibly ejected from the office of the governor.

Miss Garber had called to castigate the Nebraska executive. Finding him absent she unburdened her mind to the employe, one of whom was Evan S. Mickey, son of the governor and his chief clerk. When she denounced the executive as a "dirty cur" the son ordered her out and when she refused to go he grabbed her and physically enforced his demands.

GIRL IS DISCHARGED.

She Shot Former Sweetheart But Court Lets Her Go.

North Platte, Neb., Dec. 27.—The preliminary hearing of Miss Mirth Clark, charged with murder in the first degree of John Leonard on December 2, was concluded Saturday evening about 10 o'clock before County Judge Elder, resulting in her discharge. The taking of testimony lasted all afternoon and part of the night. The evidence showed that the shooting occurred without witnesses other than the actors in the tragedy. Leonard was shot in the back.

The testimony showed that Leonard had threatened to kill both himself and the defendant if she would not marry him and he said that he had $200 which would be enough to bury both of them. He had followed the girl here from Vancouver to press his suit for marriage, she repelling all of his advances. The county judge discharged Miss Clark, not deeming the evidence of the state sufficient to justify him in holding her for trial. It is not likely that she will again be arrested on the charge.

FRENCH PAPER SAYS ROOSEVELT IS CHRISTIAN

Paris, Dec. 29.—The Liberte prints an editorial entitled "Roosevelt's Christianity" in which it describes the president as no superman, but a man of average faculties, who is nevertheless clothed in American eyes with a species of sacerdotal character, which assures him considerable prestige. He is an apostle of christianity, representing admirably that human religiousness which is gradually being evolved from the various religious co-existing in the United States.

He is as sentimental as a parson. His discourses are constructed like sermons. The bible continually shows him how to impress the multitude. The writer quotes Mr. Roosevelt as saying that christianity is the sole basis for a nation's lasting greatness. The correspondent says that the president does not by this mean any special creed, but he wishes religious life propagated under the most diverse forms. This state of mind is not, properly speaking, piety, but liberalism, embracing every form of religion. It is the gift of comprehension granted sometimes to children and refused to celebrated scholars. The Jansenists call it grace. The Americans call it inspiration.

The Americans believe that all their national heroes possessed it. Lincoln, Emerson, McKinley, and now Roosevelt. It sums up the nation's spiritual ideal. The writer's objective in these remarks is given in the final paragraph, which says: "It is due to this tolerant, liberal christianity, that Latin anticlericalism has not yet penetrated America. While men like Roosevelt are at the head of the government we shall have striking proof that the wretched passions agitating us are as yet unborn among his citizens."

CHILDREN OF MRS. BRADLEY NOT BROWN'S, HE SAYS IN WILL

Her Lawyers, However, Expect to Prove Parentage and Secure Monetary Consideration for Them.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 25.—Ha the late ex-Senator Arthur Brown foreseen his death at the hands of Mrs. Bradley he could have devised no more ingenious retaliation than the post-mortem revenge contained in his will. The document, written August 24, 1906, four months before Mr. Brown was shot down in the Raleigh hotel, Washington, says:

"I do not devise, or give, or bequeath anything to any of the children of Mrs. Anna M. Bradley. I do not think either or any child born to Mrs. Anna M. Bradley is or are mine, but whether such child is or is not I expressly provide that neither or any of them shall receive anything of my estate."

"I have never married Anna M. Bradley, and never intend to. If she should pretend that any such relation ever existed between us, I direct my executors to contest any claims of any kind she may present, and I direct that she receive nothing from my estate."

The testator bequeaths all his property, valued at about $75,000, to his two children by his first and second wives.

The children so specifically disinherited are Arthur, aged 7, and Mark, aged 3 years. The attorneys engaged by Mrs. Bradley's relatives in Salt Lake City decline to discuss the will at this time, but there is scarcely a question that a contest will be instituted, as much for the purpose of establishing their parentage as to secure a monetary consideration.

SOCIETY BELLE HELD WITH BAD WOMEN ON MAN'S FAKE CHARGE

New York Doctor's Wife Vindicated in Court and Her Accuser Arrested.

HE SAYS SHE HUGGED HIM

Mrs. Jeanne Trautman, Awaiting Robbery Trial, Kept From Communication With Friends Some Time.

New York, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Jeanne Trautman, wife of a prominent physician and surgeon of this city, was vindicated in police court today of the charge of larceny preferred by Peter J. Hogan, who caused her arrest Christmas eve in front of a Fifth avenue store.

Hogan was arrested on a charge of assault preferred by Mrs. Trautman. The case attracted attention because of the social prominence of Mrs. Trautman and as showing the indignities to which an innocent woman may be subjected on the accusation of persons who may or may not be responsible.

Hogan, who is a clerk, seized Mrs. Trautman roughly by the arm while she was looking in a show window and asked if she knew him, threatened her with physical violence and ended by calling a policeman to arrest her.

His story is that Saturday evening he was met on the street by two women, one of whom led him into a dark hallway and put her arms around his neck.

When he managed to free himself from the woman, whom he declared to be Mrs. Trautman, Hogan says he found $13 had been taken from his pocketbook, which later was returned. Mrs. Trautman was taken to the police station after being questioned as to her name, residence, etc., and committed to a cell in which were several dissolute women. Considerable time elapsed before she was permitted to communicate with friends, who secured her release on bail.

"Double" Close at Hand.

When Mrs. Trautman appeared before Magistrate Flinn she dismissed the complaint without even the formality of bringing the most important witness into the court room.

Mrs. Clifford and her sister, Mrs. S. H. Clarke, were attempting to walk the soldier when he viciously grabbed Mrs. Clifford around the waist and threw her into the street, exclaiming that the sidewalk belonged to him.

Mrs. Clifford screamed for assistance, but the assailant escaped before help arrived.

They saw several men approach and shouted greetings, but the others did not reply. Suddenly a shot rang out and the bride fell. Another shot was fired and the bullet struck Mrs. Gilmore in the shoulder.
