

Tired Nervous Women Make Unhappy Homes

MRS. NELLIE MAKHAM

MRS. GEO. A. JAMES

A nervous irritable woman, often on the verge of hysterics, is a source of misery to everyone who comes under her influence, and unhappy and miserable herself.

Such women not only drive husbands from home but are wholly unfit to govern children.

The ills of women act like a fire brand upon the nerves, consequently seven-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous despondency, the "blues", sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some organic derangement.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness alternating with extreme irritability? Do you suffer from pains in the abdominal region, backache, bearing-down pains, nervous dyspepsia, sleeplessness, and almost continually cross and snappy? If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous troubles of women than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I was a wreck from nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs and today holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases of any medicine the world has ever known, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the laboratory at Lynn, Mass., which testify to its wonderful value.

He Knew.
From Lippincott's.

A teacher in an isolated school situated in the cattle country of Wyoming, where the children learn their letters from the brands on cattle before they learn the alphabet, was endeavoring to teach her pupils the different sounds of a as denoted by the marks above the letter.

"Now children," she inquired hopefully, pointing on the blackboard to the letter and the mark signifying the long sound, "what is this?"

There was a long and discouraging silence; then an embryo cowboy cried excitedly as he waved his hand: "I know, teacher; that's Bar A."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

When "Old Hutch" Lost.

From the Chicago Record-Herald.

"B. P. Hutchinson used to say no burglar ever could get into his house without waking him," said a Central station detective the other day; "but it remained for Chief Simon O'Donnell to put one over on the famous trader."

"You know, Mr. Hutchinson was famous in Chicago's commercial life years ago and was known popularly as 'Old Hutch.' He prided himself on the fact that burglars had never gotten into his house, and often boasted of the fact to his intimates. One day, while he was at lunch with Chief O'Donnell and a number of other friends, the company fell to discussing a crime that had been committed the night before. 'I'd like to see anybody get into my house,' Mr. Hutchinson said. 'Why, I hear every time the clock all night long.' 'I'll bet you dinner for this crowd,' said the chief, 'that I can produce a man who will enter your house and you will not know of his visit till morning.'"

"Mr. Hutchinson accepted the wager, and it was agreed that he was to let the chief have a latch key so that the burglar could get in without being disturbed by some patrolman. Mr. Hutchinson also agreed to leave some articles of value in the parlor where it could be found readily. The chief said the robbery would be committed within the following week.

Three days later Mr. Hutchinson awoke in the morning and discovered that both sheets of his bed, which had been in place when he retired, were gone. So was the antique gold clock he had left on a mantel. He hurriedly dressed and hastened after breakfast to the chief's office. O'Donnell saw him coming, and as he entered the office greeted him with:

"Mr. Hutchinson I have two sheets and a clock that belong to you. We will have the dinner today." "The burglary was done by a former criminal who at the time had reformed and was in a respectable line of business. He did the job at the request of the chief. How did he get the under sheet? He rolled Mr. Hutchinson over, rolled the sheet after him and then rolled him back."

WORN TO A SKELETON.

A Wonderful Restoration Caused a Sensation in a Pennsylvania Town.

Mrs. Charles N. Preston, of Elkland, Pa., says: "Three years ago I found that my housework was becoming a burden. I tired easily, had no ambition and was fading fast. My complexion got yellow, and I lost over 50 pounds. My thirst was terrible, and there was sugar in the kidney secretions. My doctor kept me on a strict diet, but as his medicine was not helping me, I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They helped me at once and soon all traces of sugar disappeared. I have regained my former weight and am perfectly well."

THE ONE PIECE GOWN.

The lingerie robe promises to have an unprecedented success this season. It is almost invariably a one piece frock. It may not be what one would call strictly a princess gown, for often the waist line is definitely marked by rows of insertion, sometimes forming a corset effect. The one piece frock is found in all summer fabrics for anything that is intended to be a little dressier than the tailored silk shirt waist suit. From comparatively plain designs it ranges into marvels of filmy lace and handwork.

Fine batiste is used exclusively for thin frocks and the manner in which it is worked up with hand embroidery, lace or tucks or sometimes all three together, gives a variety in design worthy of admiration.

A few choice models show the clever treatment followed in making up these most delectable summer gowns. One of these, for instance, is inset with an openwork surrounded by hand embroidered sprays of flowers. This forms the bib front and runs into long panels in the skirt. The pointed vest and skirt flounce are inset with Valenciennes lace, and the entire frock is laid in narrow tucks.

Another gown has insertions of lace and the tucks on the flounce are graduated in width. A row of lace insertion marks the waist line, and the bodice and front panel, as well as a broad band above the flounce, are elaborately hand wrought.

These hand embroideries are not always in white, but where color is used it must be handled delicately or avoided. One design, not shown here, has straps crossed on the bodice and around the skirt, worked with rosebuds of the very palest pink and green shades. The gown has a corselet and

SAYING "DON'T."

From McCall's Magazine.

Occasionally I cannot help wondering if some mothers ever were young. If they were I should think they would remember how they used to feel themselves when they are little. It is one thing to take charge of children and merely guard them from falling into any great danger, and quite another to take an intelligent interest in the little ones, showing that one feels that they are not chairs or tables that must only be kept tidy and uninjured.

I always remember the remark of a little boy to his mother when she took him to see a very beautiful park and gardens, where there were a number of signs up requesting people not to go on different pathways or touch the plants. The little fellow was walking along, with no wish to do any of the forbidden things, so looking up at his mother, he quietly remarked: "There seems to be a great many 'please don't's' in this garden!"

Have you ever considered how many times a day you say to the little ones "Don't do this" or "Don't do that"? Just count it up some fine day and you will find, perhaps, that there is very little they do that does not cause you to use the word in one form or another.

It would make an agreeable change, both for you and the children, to try another plan, and when you see them about to do something you do not wish, suggest to them something which you know will prove equally as agreeable. For instance, when your little girl begins to fidget and play with the piece of needlework you have in hand you might suggest that she get a needle and piece of muslin and play at making doll's clothes. If it is ever so possible she will get an immense amount of amusement out of it. When your small

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untutored Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race. This information, imparted freely to the whites, led the latter to continue investigations until to-day we have a rich assortment of most valuable American medicinal roots.

Dr. Pierce believes that our American forests abound in most valuable medicinal roots for the cure of most obstinate and fatal diseases. If we would properly investigate them and in the preparation of this conviction, he points with pride to the most marvelous cure effected by his "Golden Medical Discovery," which has proven itself to be the most efficient stomach, liver invigorator, heart tonic, regulator and blood cleanser known to medical science. Dyspepsia, indigestion, torpid liver, functional and even regular affections of the heart yield to its cure. The reason why it cures these and many other affections, is clearly shown in a little book of extracts from the standard medical works which is mailed free to any address by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., to all sending request for the same.

Not less marvelous, in the unparalleled cures it is constantly making of woman's many peculiar affections, weaknesses and distressing derangements, is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is amply attested by thousands of published testimonials contributed by grateful patients who have been cured by it of catarrhal pelvic, painful periods, irregularities, prolapsus and other displacements caused by weakness, ulceration, uterine and ovarian affections. Often after any other advertised medicine, and after she had failed.

Both the above mentioned medicines are wholly made up from the glyceric extracts of native medicinal roots. The processes employed in their manufacture were original with Dr. Pierce, and they are carried on by skilled chemists and pharmacists with the aid of apparatus and machinery specially designed and built for this purpose. Both medicines are entirely free from alcohol and all other harmful, habit-forming drugs. A list of their ingredients is printed on each bottle-wrapper.

LITTLE GIRL'S DRESS.

The low neck is becoming to nearly all little girls—and the one here illustrated being especially attractive, as it is very easily made. It is of fine Persian lawn, having a square yoke of insertion 1 1/2 inches wide. The skirt is fitted to this with fullness in the front and back, and an inverted plait under each arm, having the insertion set in the skirt with three tucks on each side and completed by a deep hem. The sleeves are made full, and have a cuff of the insertion.

inset bands on the skirt of palest pink batiste, laid in the narrowest pin tucks, and it is also elaborately but judiciously inset with fine lace.

Many of these one piece robes have the insertion running up and down but the effect is equally happy when the lace runs around instead of up and down. Such a one has quite wide strips of princess lace from which tucked flounces of the material spread, each one fastened to the lace strip below, but each flaring more until it reaches the floor, ending in a number of narrow tucks.

TO KEEP HAIR CURLED.

Now that summer days are said to be on their way the woman whose locks refuse to stay curled as she would have them is looking about for some lotion guaranteed to perform the miracle. One tablespoonful of bruised quince seed boiled in one pint of distilled water and then strained through cheesecloth and one and one-half ounces of alcohol and the same amount of oil will, if applied to the hair before curling, keep it sufficiently wavy for two or three days or a week before renewing the application.

SODA TO REDUCE FLESH

The woman who does not care just how she gets thin nor what effect it will have on her can easily lose ten pounds in a week or two by taking hot soda baths.

Four pounds of common soda dissolved in a tub of hot water will do the work. The water must be as hot as can be endured and the temperature increased as the body becomes accustomed to it. Such a bath is weakening but it starts the perspiration which is a great flesh reducer and if a certain amount of exercise is taken the next day may not after all make one feel exhausted.

These baths should be taken just before going to bed. If they are too weakening they should of course be discontinued.

A CASE OF BAD BOWELS

Are you happy? Not if your liver and bowels don't work. Happiness depends on the bowels. Every time you eat, you put into your body not only good material for repairs and fuel, but a mass of useless stuff that has to be removed promptly or it will clog your machinery, poison your blood, throw your liver out of gear, and make you act mean to those you love. Your stomach is sour, your skin yellow, your breath offensive, and you hate yourself and all mankind. Winter or summer it's all the same, when you are unclean inside, you are unhappy and so is everybody near you. The cure is pleasant, quick, easy, cheap, never fails.
