State Lands at Auction

On certain days during June and July the State Auditor will sell at public auction 368,000 acres of State land located in Northern Minnesota. The terms are easy, 15 per cent down and balance any time within forty years at 4 per cent interest. For illustrated booklet containing full information about these sales, address S. G. IVERSON, State Auditor, Saint Paul, Minnesota.

Better take advantage of the low railroad rates via GREAT NORTHERN RAILWAY and look over these bargains.

NOTICE.

To the unknown heirs and devisees of John McLaughlin, deceased, and the east half of the northeast quarter of section 25, township 28, range 13, west of the 6th p. m. in Holt county, Nebraska, non-resident defendants.

The above named defendants will take notice that George Gaughenbaugh, as plaintiff, has commenced an action in the district court of Holt county, Nebraska, against you and each of your co-defendants, Thomas McLaughlin and wife, Bridget McLaughlin, Edward H. Whelan, trustee, and the County of Holt, the object and prayer of said action being to foreclose a certain tax lien held against the following described real estate situated in Holt county, Nebraska, to-wit: The east half of the northeast quarter, of section 25, township 28, north of range 13, west of the 6th p. m. Plaintiff alleges in said petition that he purchased said land at private tax sale on the 5th day of April, 1905, for the taxes for the years 1892 to 1903 inclusive and that afterwards to protect his tax purchase, he paid the taxes levied against said land for the year 1905.

Plaintiff alleges that said tax sale is a lien on said real estate and that there is due him thereon the sum of $300, and prays for a decree that the defendants be required to pay the same or that said premises be sold to satisfy the amount due him with interest, cost and an attorney's fee and that the interest of each of the defendants be decreed to be subject and inferior to plaintiff's lien and for other equitable relief.

You are required to answer said petition on or before the 15th day of July, 1907.

R. R. DICKSON,
Attorney for Plaintiff.

BEER FOR BREAKFAST.

The Awful Morning Meal That Was Once in Vogue in England.

The breakfast appetite varies strangely. Some persons are content with a cup of coffee and a piece of toast. Others make it the most determined meal of the day. Once it was formidable indeed. In Sir John Hawkins' "History of Music" is quoted a sixteenth century manuscript belonging to the house of Northumberland which gives the breakfast arrangements of the Percy family both for Lent and for flesh days, and, oh, how some of us have fallen away in trencher work! Here is the simple Northumberland scheme: "Breakfast for my lord and lady during Lent: First, a loaf of bread in trenchers, two manchets (a manchet was a small loaf of white bread), a quart of beer, a quart of wine, two pieces of salt fish, six bacon'd herring, four white herring or a dish of sprats. Breakfast for my Lord Percy and Master Thomas Percy: Item, half a loaf of household bread, a manchet, a bottle of beer, a dish of butter and a piece of salt fish, a dish of sprats or three white herring. Breakfast for the nursery for my Lady Margaret and Master Ingram Percy: Item, a manchet, a quart of beer (this for the nursery), a dish of butter, a piece of salt fish, a dish of sprats or three white herring."

At ordinary times my lord and lady fared thus: "First, a loaf of bread in trenchers, two manchets, a quart of beer, a quart of wine, half a chine of mutton or else a chine of beef boiled." Lord Percy and Master Thomas Percy disposed of "half a loaf of household bread, a manchet, one bottle of beer, a cheeking or else three mutton bones boiled," while to the thirsty nursery went "a manchet, one quart of beer and three mutton bones boiled."—Cornhill Magazine.

THIEVES FROM CHOICE.

Criminals, as a Rule, Steal Because They Don't Want to Work.

The theorists say that men are driven to crime by poverty and want, but the theorists are not always right. There are no doubt some cases of men stealing or swindling to get bread, but they are very few. Not one criminal in a hundred in this country pilfers, plays burglar or highwayman because he's hungry, but because he is a criminal from choice and would rather steal than work. He knows perfectly well that nobody ever made a fortune or even a decent living by picking pockets or breaking into houses or robbing people on the streets. He knows, too, that it is only a question of time when the penitentiary gates will open for him, and yet he chooses the uncertainties of criminal life and idleness in preference to steady work at good wages. Good times with the rest of the world signify nothing to the criminal, except that the man he robs is likely to have a little more money in his pockets. No matter how prosperous the rest of the world may be, his criminals are always hard up. When a sneak thief makes a haul or a foot-pad gets hold of somebody's roll the first idea is to spend it. It goes at cards, in dives, grogeries, anywhere, to anybody that wants it, and, no matter how large the haul, in a little while it is all gone and another job must be done to get more. General prosperity means nothing to the rogue. The devil pays low wages on small contracts.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Minute Fish.

The most diminutive vertebrate creature in the world is said to be a small fish caught in a mountain lake in the Luzon region of the Philippines. The largest of the species is less than an inch long, but its smallness may be best gauged by the fact that it takes about 6,000 of them to make a pound. Although so tiny, however, the fish, which is named snarapan, is an important article of diet among the Philippine natives. Obviously it is too small for any net and is caught in coarse muslin sheets. The fish are prepared by being mixed with pepper and other spices and then dried in the sun. They are a great native delicacy.

Beginning Well.

"Begin your stories well," said an author, talking to a group of literary beginners. "There's nothing like a good beginning. Indeed, it's half the battle." Then, with a smile, this excellent beginner of stories added: "Always bear in mind the case of the young man who, desiring to marry, secured a favorable hearing from his sweetheart's irascible father by opening the interview with the words: 'I know a way, sir, whereby you can save money.'"

The Best Fiction.

The fond husband was seeing his wife off with the children for their holiday in the country. As she got into the train he said, "But, my dear, won't you take some fiction to read?"

"Oh, no," she responded sweetly; "I shall depend on your letters from home."—London Judy.

She Wasn't Engaged.

"And do you have to be called in the morning?" asked the lady who was about to engage a new girl.

"I don't have to be, mum," replied the applicant, "unless you happens to need me."—Tonkers Statesman.

It is all right to rave over Grecian noses in poetry, but the nose we admire in everyday life is the nose that is kept out of other people's business.—Athenion Globe.
