TRY THE HABEAS CORPUS

Question of Whether Miles Will Be Taken Away Or Tried Here.

ALLEN SCORES SCANDALMONGERS

Makes Specific Reference to Principal in Case in Court.—Judge Takes Time to Decide.

The hearing on the habeas corpus case against Sheriff Clements of Madison county, a part of the judicial preliminaries in the libel suit of Judge J. B. Barnes of Norfolk against George A. Miles of this city, was taken up in district court Tuesday before Judge Harrington.

The Madison county sheriff was in attendance and the case was in charge of former United States Senator W. V. Allen of Madison and Attorney Burt Mapes of Norfolk in behalf of the sheriff and Judge Barnes. A. F. Mullen represented Miles in the effort to hold him on the Stephen McGinnis warrant. Mr. Miles was in court but Mr. McGinnis was not.

The first move on the part of the attorneys for Judge Barnes was an attempt to have the justice court proceedings in O'Neill on the McGinnis complaint the night of July 15 set aside. The county attorney here took the position that the proceedings were hasty and illegal and made a showing to that effect in the justice court on the 16th, which gave the Madison county attorneys encouragement to proceed along that line. Judge Harrington did not sustain their contention. Mr. Mullen demurred to the justice court proceedings at Norfolk, alleging that the petition did not state a cause of action. The court overruled the demurer, when the main point at issue on the writ of habeas corpus was gotten down to.

The entire day was spent by the attorneys in citing authorities and presenting their arguments. Mr. Mullen asserted that the Independent publisher should be tried in the county in which he resides.

Mr. Allen, who presented the Barnes side of the case to the court, maintained that a newspaper publisher could be prosecuted for criminal libel in any county in the state in which his paper circulates, and made numerous references to the authorities. In the course of Mr. Allen's remarks to the court, he took occasion to pay his compliments to scandal mongers in general and slanderous newspapers in particular, with specific reference to the case in court, saying that if it had been himself instead of Judge Barnes who had been thus assailed there would have been something doing besides a libel suit, or words to that effect. He said the article in the Independent was an offense against the federal laws and rendered the paper unmailable, and that this was to be brought to the attention of the federal grand jury.

"They can not make that defence when they are brought before the federal court," said Mr. Allen with reference to Mr. Mullen's contention that the county of his residence was the only place to prosecute the Independent publisher on the criminal libel charge.

The question involved is whether Mr. Miles can be taken to Norfolk on the warrant issued by the justice court there on the morning of July 15 to stand preliminary hearing or held here for trial in the district court to which he was bound over by Justice Golden on the night of July 15.

Judge Harrington took the matter under advisement and has not yet announced his decision.

Captain Walker Weds.

Capt. H. A. Walker surprised his friends by taking out a license yesterday for his marriage to Mrs. Melvina Simmons, step-mother of Sheridan Simmons of this city. The official document gives the bride's place of residence at Inman. She is the widow of the late Dr. Simmons of that place.

The marriage ceremony was performed last evening at the Ogden hotel, which is conducted by the bride's stepson. Friends of the contracting parties extend their congratulations, in which The Frontier heartily joins. Capt. Walker had been expecting to go to Hot Springs, S. D., previous to this event but may decide otherwise now. The Captain is seventy-one years of age and his bride fifty-nine.

Scotfield Put Under Bonds.

The expected did not take place just as partially agreed upon by the defendant and prosecuting attorney in the Scotfield wife desertion case. It had been understood by the county attorney that the defendant would plead guilty when arraigned in court, when a bond would be fixed obligating him to provide for the maintenance of his wife. The defendant declined otherwise after employing counsel and entered a plea of not guilty when taken before Judge Harrington last Saturday. The court held him for trial at the next regular term on $500 bonds, after a severe lecture as to the family obligations of husbands.

R. F. D. No. 1.

A destructive hail and wind storm swept this portion of the county clean of all kinds of crops, doing great damage to buildings, live stock and fowl. Farmers who had their twine bought and expected from 50 to 70 bushels of oats, are today looking over a wreck which they can't even mow for hay. Fruit trees are trimmed and barked so that many of them will die, several windmills are smashed, corn cribs are blown down and small buildings are off their foundations. It was the worst storm ever known in this part of the country on account of the high wind which carried the hail like bullets.

Frank Daley arrived in O'Neill last week from Park City, Utah, to spend a few weeks with relatives and friends here. He will return in a couple of weeks and will be accompanied by his wife and daughter, who have been visiting here the past six weeks.

Dr. E. T. Wilson departed Tuesday on a visit to his former Michigan home. His family have been there for some weeks past. He expects to be away a fortnight.

A son is reported at the home of George and Bessie Gaughenbaugh, born Monday.

STORM DESTROYS CROPS

Hail, Rain and Wind Devastates Large Strip of Country.

DAMAGE AMOUNTS TO LARGE SUM

On the Eve of Harvest of Great Crop Storm Beats Down Grain.—Wind Wrecks Barns, Trees, Etc.

The worst storm in point of destruction to crops and general devastation that has visited this section in many years swept practically the whole of the northeast portion of the county Tuesday afternoon between 4 and 6 o'clock. It left a beaten path of devastation, desolation and ruin on every farm in that rich agricultural belt, and farmers that were preparing to reap a rich harvest of grain are left without a kernel.

The work of the destroying elements is felt peculiarly severe because the prospects for an exceptionally large crop were the best in many years.

An unmeasured depth of rain, hailstones battering like the shot and shell of armies in battle and a wind sweeping with unrestrained fury across a stretch of country twenty-five miles wide and treble the length tells the story of desolation in a region that was abloom with verdure and rich in the products of the soil before it was storm swept.

It is out of the question to publish the names of all who suffered by the storm or present in accurate detail the items of loss. It may be said that practically every farm in the track of the tempest suffered loss to the value of from $500 to $2,000 and some possibly more. From the best information we have obtained the storm spanned from the Niobrara on the north to the Elkhorn valley on the south; from a point west about to the Phoenix postoffice on east into the adjoining counties. A short space to the north east of O'Neill the storm divided, the heaviest hail element moving eastward and the western branch southward. This branch struck O'Neill and riddle gardens more or less, broke off many limbs from the trees, tore up the grandstand at the fair grounds and other lesser structures there. The damage here in town, however, was slight compared with that in the country, where barns, sheds, chicken houses and the like were wrecked, trees rooted out, small grain beaten down, nothing left in the cornfield but stumps of the stalks, chickens, pigs, cows, and horses killed. The total loss cannot even be measured by the destruction wrought as farmers will have to dispose of their stock and several seasons must elapse before they get stocked up again. Hence the damage will run to immense figures.

Mrs. May Scheef and Mrs. Lou Kinneal, sisters of Mrs. Sam Berge, are here from Colorado Springs on a visit. Mrs. Kinneal's husband may come later and they make their home here. Mrs. Kinneal was formerly Miss Lou Walmer and was a former resident of O'Neill.

Sam Jones' missing mare came back Tuesday. Word reached her that Sam had just bought a Monitor Drill of O. F. Biglin.

Anna, the 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rob Conrad, died Saturday last of typhoid fever. The funeral was held at St. Patrick's Catholic church Sunday forenoon. The sympathy of the community goes out to the bereaved parents in the loss of their daughter, who was just coming to the years of womanhood. Mrs. Conrad is now down with the fever.

Prof. O. R. Bowen, who has been one of the instructors in the Junior Normal here the past six weeks, leaves for Springview the later part of the week for work in the Keya Paha county institute next week. The week after next he will be at Bassett to assist in the Rock county institute. He is on the program for one evening lecture at each institute. For the week commencing August 19th he will be at home for work in the Pierce county institute. From the amount of work he has mapped out for himself he does not intend to take much of a vacation this summer.

Mrs. W. D. Mathews was a pleasant caller at these headquarters Wednesday afternoon. Twenty-eight years ago her husband established The Frontier, which he ably and successfully conducted for about fifteen years. In 1884 he erected the building which is the present home of The Frontier and Mrs. Mathews said it felt quite natural to come into the old office, even after thirteen years absence. They are now located at Nashville, Tenn., where Mr. Mathews is state agent for one of the old line insurance companies, which is a very lucrative position. The family have all enjoyed excellent health since their removal to the south and are well satisfied with that section of the union. Mrs. Mathews expects to leave for home next week.

AN ALLEGED KIDNAPPING

Child Said to Have Been Unlawfully Taken From Its Mother.

OFFENCE CHARGED TO FATHER

Earl McGrew Sued by His Former Wife, Who Says He Took Unlawful Possession of Child.

A writ of habeas corpus was issued by County Judge Malone Tuesday for 6-year-old Coral Belle McGrew to release her from the alleged unlawful detention by her father, Earl McGrew of Stuart, pending the further decision of the court as to whether the father or mother is to have possession of the child.

The application for a writ of habeas corpus was brought by the county attorney at the instance of Mrs. Birdie Curtis, mother of the child and former wife of Earl McGrew. Mrs. Curtis, whose maiden name was Hart, was married to McGrew in December, 1900, and they were later divorced, one child being born to them which had remained in the custody of the mother. Each of them have since re-married, McGrew's former wife now living with her husband in South Dakota, where she has kept the child up until June 26, when the plaintiff alleges McGrew kidnapped the child.

The petition filed by Mrs. Curtis states "that subsequent to the marriage of the petitioner and the defendant the defendant sent the petitioner away to her relatives and during her absence applied for a divorce against your petitioner on the ground of desertion, and that ever afterwards the defendant failed and refused to associate with your petitioner. That thereafter on the 23rd day of October, 1901, said Cora Belle McGrew was born and thereafter on or about the 27th day of January, 1902, said defendant obtained a decree of divorce from this petitioner."

The petition further alleges that the father has never laid any claim to the child and that the little one has been with its mother continuously until June 26, 1907, when the defendant "forcibly and unlawfully and without the consent of petitioner took the child into his control."

McGrew resides at Stuart. The sheriff took possession of the child there and brought her to O'Neill Wednesday under a writ of habeas corpus issued by the county court. A hearing of the case was set for yesterday but has been continued until Saturday.

The marriage record in the county judge's office shows that a license to wed was issued December 15, 1900, to Earl McGrew, age 17, and Birdie Hart, age 14, both of Stuart, this county.

The Agricultural Society have up the posters for the race meeting on August 14, 15 and 16. Preparations are being made for some great racing events this year. All the fast horses in the circuit are being booked for entry in the races and some fine exhibitions of speed are looked for.

The vicinity of Page escaped the hail and wind portion of Tuesday's storm. A heavy rain fell there but no damage was done.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed McBride are the parents of a boy baby, born Tuesday.
