The "axle-light" system is in use on the trains of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad on an extensive scale. HOW TO APPLY PAINT.

Greatest care should be taken when painting buildings or implements which are exposed to the weather, to have the paint applied properly. No excellence of material can make up for careless ness of application, any more than care in applying it can make poor paint wear well. The surface to be painted should be dry and scraped and sandpapered hard and smooth. Pure white lead should be mixed with pure linseed oil, fresh for the job, and should be well brushed out, not flowed on thick. When painting is done in this manner with National Lead Company's pure white lead (trade marked with "The Dutch Boy Painter") there is every chance the job will be satisfactory. White lead is capable of absolute test for purity. National Lead Company, Woodbridge Building, New York, will send a testing outfit free to any one interested.

The proprietor of a Chicago hotel tells of an eccentric guest who registered with him about the time of the simpli-fied spelling flurry, and who under-took in an ingenious way, to show his contempt for the opponents of the proposed reform.

When the newcomer spread his signature on the register it was at once observed that the name was a most un-usual one—"E, K, Phtholoknyrrh." "Beg your pardon, sir," said the clerk,

but how do you pronounce it?"
"Turner," was the reply, "and spelled n approved fashion, too."
"Will you kindly explain?"

"Simplest thing in the world," said Turner. "First, we have 'phth,' the sound of 't' in 'phthisis;' then, 'olo,' the sound of 'ur' in colonel;' thirdly, 'gn,' representing the sound of 'n' in 'gnat;' and, finally, 'yrrh,' the equivalent of 'er' in 'myrrh.' If the combination doesn't spell "Turner,' what does it spell?"

Acre. Moose Jaw. Sask., Nov. 18, 1907.

Writing from Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Mr. S. K. Rathwall says: "I have much pleasure in saying that on my farm this year I had 500 acres in wheat, and 120 acres in oats. My wheat averaged about 22 bushels per acre, and I had 200 acres cut before the frost, which I sold at 85 cents per bushel, thus realizing on that wheat $18 per acre, not counting cost of twine, seed and labor. With regard to the other 300 acres of wheat, it got touched with frost, but is worth 60 cents per bushel. It will net me $13 per acre, but I do not intend to sell it at that price, as I can make more money by feeding it to hogs.

"My oats turned out about 50 bushels to the acre, and at 35 cents per bushel will give me $17 to the acre, not counting seed, twine and labor.

"On account of the late spring, a percentage of the grain was touched with frost; but on account of good prices, farmers will realize a fair profit on their farms even this year. We are as usual up against a shortage of cars to get our grain removed."

THE RICHEST BABY

Son Recently Born Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Martin Is Worth $3,000,000.

Chicago, Special: An event of tremendous importance in the family of the late Otto Young has occurred It was the birth of a boy to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel K. Martin, 234 Lincoln Park boulevard. It is easily the richest baby in Chicago.

Within an hour thereafter the telephone had carried the news to the other branches of the family and to circles of more distant relatives that another of more distant relatives that another grandchild—the ninth—had arrived to share the millions left by the Chicago merchant. Until the birth of this their first child, the Martins, under the terms of the will, had no claim on the fortune beyond Mrs. Martin's life interest in its income. Now they have an heir whose prospects are worth at least $3,000,000. It is the first Young grandchild to be born into its own rights since the death of Mr. Young. The importance of the event to the four branches of the family arises from the peculiar provisions of Mr.

from the peculiar provisions of Mr. Young's will. Mr. Young apparently shared the convictions of President Roosevelt and he was extremely careful to place no premium on race suicide in his family.

Grandchildren to Get All. In his testament he directed that his widow and four daughters be given practically the entire income from his practically the entire income from his estate, but the principal itself, amounting at the time of his death to $25,-000,000, he left to be divided equally among his grandchildren. The family with the most children thereby will receive the most money and the one with none living at the time of the distribution will not share.

The birth of the Martin baby had the The birth of the Martin baby had the effect of disarranging calculations in the families of the other three daughters. The prospective share of the family of Mrs. Marie Julia Young Kaffman, of Marquette, Mich., who is in the lead with five children, was decreased by the event from five-eighths to five-ninths of the estate—a loss approximately of $1,875,000. The future share of the family of Mrs. Cecile Young Heyworth, with two chilcile Young Heyworth, with two children, declined from 25 to 22 per cent, while that of Mrs. Catherine Ottille Young Hobart, one child, fell off some $375,000.

An addition to any of these three families will help it to regain the loss of prestige suffered through the event in the Martin family. At the same time a repetition in the Martin family time a repetition in the Martin family will enhance its prospects and still further reduce the others. Still it is recognized that Mrs. Kaufman, with five already, enjoys a tremendous handicap over her sisters.

What eventual effect Mr. Young's ideas will have on his posterity remains to be seen. The more grandchildren there are the less money there will be for each. On the other hand, the more each family has the less danger there will be of having its inheritance diminished or cut off by deaths.

Furthermore, not the least interest-inished or cut off by deaths.

Furthermore, not the least interesting point to the family is that the birth of every additional child probably postpones the date of the final division. Mr. Young directed that this should not take place until his widow and his four daughters are all dead and the youngest Ifving grandchild is 21 years old.

If, when the last of the daughters If, when the last of the daughters dies, there are any grandchildren under age, the trustees will have to wait until the youngest one reaches 21. If the last survivor of the daughters lives to extreme old age, however, the youngest grandchild in all probability will be 21 at her death, in which case the estate would be distributed at once. It may, therefore, be more than half a century before the division of the estate among the grandchildren. As the entire income is to be devoted to annuities the estate will increase in that time only in so far as the propthat time only in so far as the property may enhance in value. If it were divided at this time each grandchild would receive about $3,000,000.

The infidelity of your husband may be a hard thing to determine, even if you try, because all you ask of him, all the time that you want him to spend with you, he gives you. New York Sun: Mark Twain, at a publishers' dinner in New York, talked of his reporting days in Virginia City.

"We were trying a horse thief one day," he said, "and all of a sudden one big, burly scoundrel pulled off his boot and threw it at the judge. It was a heavy boot, too. It was studded with hobnails.

"I am still rather proud of the way I wrote up that little incident, doing it neatly and at the same time getting oack on a rival reporter whom I disliked. I got it all in one paragraph—something like this:

"Suddenly the blackguardly thief, pulling off his boot, hurled it with all his might straight at the judge's head. This desperate act might have been attended with most disastrous consequences, but fortunately the missile only struck a reporter. So no harm was done."
