General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative remedy of known value; a laxative which physicians could sanction for family use because its component parts are known to them to be wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, acceptable to the system and gentle, yet prompt, in action.

In supplying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine-manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists. Price fifty cents

THE PAINTING SEASON.

Good results in painting at the least cost depend largely upon the material chosen. Paint is a simple compound and the ingredients can be easily tested. The solid part or pigment should be White Lead. The liquid part should be Linseed Oil. Those best informed on painting always buy these ingredients separately and have their painter mix them fresh for each job. Before the mixing the test is made.

Place a pea-sized bit of White Lead on a piece of charcoal or piece of wood. Blow the flame against it and see what it will do. If it is pure White Lead, little drops of bright, pure metallic lead will appear, and with patience the White Lead can be completely reduced to one globule of metallic lead. This is because pure White Lead is made from metallic lead.

You may test dozens of other so called White Leads and not be able to reduce one of them to lead. If they will not change wholly to lead but leave a residue, it is clear that some adulterant is present.

If you should have your painting done with such materials, no matter how cheap they might seem, it would be costly in the end.

National Lead Company, Wood-bridge Building, New York City, are sending on request a blowpipe free to any one about to have painting done, so that the White Lead may be tested. With it will be sent a handsomely printed booklet having as its frontispiece the "Dutch Boy Painter," reproduced from the original painting. This little painter has become noted as the guaranty of pure White Lead.

Boston's Vocation Bureau.
From the Boston Transcript.
The vocation bureau is not merely proposed: it is in actual existence today and in successful operation. Its executive office is at that well known social experiment station, Civic Service house, Salem street, with branch offices at the Young Men's Christian association and at the Woman's Educational and In-dustrial union. Already, in its first month, it has done good service for a dustrial union. Already, in its first month, it has done good service for a number of young people.

This new institution is to help such people to decide what occupation they are best adapted to and how to fit themselves for it. The basic idea is that the choice of a career should be carefully, and, so far as possible, scientifically, determined—that is to say, determined after a full consideration of the conditions, aptitudes, resources, ambitions, aspirations or lack of them, and the limitations of each individual. Too many people are fixed in life by haphazard and merely temporary circumstances. The consequences of allowing youths on first leaving school to drift about earning a few dollars for the family chest now at one sort of office work and the next month at another kind of job, are recognized as constituting a distinct and widespread evil, at the bottom of much of the unemployment which is complained of at all great centers of population on both sides of the Atlantic. As the vocation bureau argues, no one would think of building without a well considered plan and consultation with an architect; and in building a human career at least as much planning should be required as in building a house. At least the counsel of a wise and kind expert in social studies is preferable for the young to the drifting into any calling as the result of chance, proximity or uninformed selection.

BORAX, NATURE'S DISINFECTANT, CLEANSER AND PURIFIER

Everybody realizes the necessity of some method of purification of sinks, drains and utensils in which may lurk the germ of a dreaded disease. Health is a question of cleanliness and prevention.

Most people are familiar with the use of disinfectants in their ordinary sense -all of which are unpleasantly associated with disagreeable odors, on which are depended to kill the contagion (which disinfectants must of necessity be of a more or less dangerous character) and must be used for this purpose and for no other, and in consequence kept from children and careless handling.

There is, however, within the reach of all our readers a simple, safe and economical article that will not only answer for every disinfecting purposebut can also be used for a multitude of domestic cleansing and purifying purposes-Borax.

Borax is a pure, white harmless powder coming direct from Nature's laboratory; in fact Borax has often been called "Nature's Cleanser and Disinfectant."

Two tablespoonfuls of Borax in a pailful of hot water poured down the grease-choked pipes of a sink, or flushed through a disease-laden drain, cleanses and purifies it, leaving it clean and

Bed clothing and clothes used in a sick room can be made hygienically clean and snowy-white, if washed in a hot solution of Borax water.

Kitchen and eating utensils, used during illness will be kept from all possibility of contagion if Borax is used when washing them. Pure as snow and harmless as salt, and because it can be used for almost every domestic and medical purpose, Borax must be considered the one great household necessity.

Heart of mine. The days will be so happy.
The nights will not be long,
If I have your love to cheer me and
Make life one sweet song.

With God's own love within our hearts How happy we can be; Then give me back your tenderest love-Oh, give it back to me.

For God is Love, and Love is God, Then why should we refuse The essence of that Love Me gives In our souls to diffuse.

Perchance the time will come too soon
When we are called to part.
Then give me all that tender love
That should be mine, sweetheart.

A Question of Names.
From Illustrated Bits.
On one occasion, a bishop who prided himself on ever forgetting either the name or face of any clergyman in his diocese, happened to be traveling somewhere by rail, when, at a certain station, a clergyman got into the same carriage in which the bishop was.
The bishop recognized the man's face, but could not remember his name, and not wishing to acknowledge his forgetfulness, leaned forward, and, with a charming smile, said:
"Excuse me for forgetting, but how do you spell your name?"

"J-o-n-e-s, my lord," was the reply.

Bostonian Appreciation.

Bostonian Appreciation.

From the New York Times.
Dr. David Starr Jordan told a story on his last Brooklyn visit of John Muir leading a cultured Bostonian up the mountains that overlook the Yosemite valley. Muir said that he led the Bostonian along devious ways, so that the great, splendid valley would burst all on a sudden upon his astonished eyes.
Finally, at a turn of the road, the vast, multicolored panorama was spread out before them. The Bostonian's ejaculation was as sudden as Muir could desire; but it was this:

"Well, now, how can we get across that damn gap?"

The Song of the Skillet.

Ah, The Song of The Skillet, With its sizzling and ite spurts, Is the sweetest that the camper wants to hear; The grace-notes meet the zephyrs,

And the faint staccato tones
Whisper greetings in the lonely angler's ear.

The vesper shades are failing.
And the glowing embers shed
Their meilow light along the splashing creek;
The whip-poor-will is calling
To the world a last goodnight,
And the skillet song, itself, is growing weak.

The dying embers blacken, As they singe their grassy nest, And the dusky twilight steals along the shore:
The twinkling stars their javelins cast
To taunt the drowsy creek,
And The Song of The Skillet is no more.

THE CALL OF THE SOIL.

Days of Financial Stress Make Farm Lands Look Rich.

A staff contributor of a Southern newspaper has taken up the question of the return to the farm of many who had forsaken it for the glitter of the city. He says: "It is a well-known fact that the history of this government shows that those men who have been most successful in life and who have left their impress upon its people and its institutions as statesmen, soldiers. financiers, have as a rule been those whose youth was spent on the farm, and it is to such as these that there comes with overmastering power THE CALL OF THE SOIL. More especially does it come with redoubled persuasiveness, greater power and sweeter pleading to the man of affairs when the clouds of financial unrest begin to darken the sky; when the cry of panic causes people to lose their wits and act like stampeded cattle; when with reason or without reason there arises before him the specter of ruin, grinning in his face and waving its gaunt arms in threatening gesticulation. The pitiable state into which some men were brought by the recent financial flurry, which happily is now passed, suggests these reflections. Some were ruined and a very few became insane because of their losses. Two or three took their own lives.

It is when such times that the statesman, the great financler, and the man of affairs becomes tired of the struggle. He lays down his pen, turns from his desk and

There are hundreds of cases throughout the United States of those who have money in the banks and are looking for investment in lands. No investment is better or safer. Take for instance, the lands in West-ern Canada that can be bought at from $10 to $15 per acre which yield a revenue equal to and often greater than their original cost. These lands make a certain investment. During the past two months large investments in these lands have been made, some intending to use the lands for farming purposes of their own, others to re-sell to farme friends. The agents of the government of Canada located at different points throughout the United States have in their possession particulars of districts in which there are free homestead grants of 160 acres, each accessible to railways, markets, schools, churches, etc. These are valuable lands. These agents will be pleased to give information to any desirous of securing and will tell all about the railway rates,
