Vitalizing the Teacher.

have they benefited the individual? "Ye shall know them by their fruits". "A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither can a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit." "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire." Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them." The junior normals have done the work of university extension by taking the gospel of betterment in the persons of men and women, instructors and lecturers, in the uttermost parts of the commonwealth;

These have inspired young men and women to carry on their education in the established institutions of higher learning in Nebraska;

They have brought under the influence of capable instructors young people heretofore deprived of very wide opportunities and enthused them with larger purposes;

They have offered the means to aspiring teachers to raise their teaching certificate grades and by that much to become more truly professional in their work;

They have served as a clearing house wherein qualifications were tested and talented teachers promoted to better positions. Four of the best grade teachers in the McCook city schools today, were "found out" in the junior normal there;

They have assisted to weed out the incompetent and shiftless, which, if this were their greatest service, they would still be abundantly justified before the world;

They have so inspired and enthused the students that these students became better teachers. Thus testify the county superintendents of schools, who have examined their work and who, therefore, speak with authority;

They have evoked from Governor Sheldon, who visited many of the schools, a declaration that the state's appropriation should be immediately increased to at least $50,000.

Doing any of these things constitutes a vitalization of the teacher and her work. So long as conditions, geographical and educational, remain as they are now, there will be a genuine need out on the edge of things to bring out prospective rural school teachers in contact with better life, with stimulating lecturers and entertainers, with consecrated instructors, with true school spirit, and that long, the junior schools, with their systematic short-term courses of study, ending in definite aim, should be continued, as a vital link in the educational plan, having in view the making of a teacher.

time was promoted to the superintendency of the schools at Lyons. He has been elected, with a raise of salary, for the third year's work at that place. Superintendent Fleming will have charge of the science work this summer. Although a new member of the faculty here he will be none the less welcomed and his thorough preparation for the work he will have charge of here will at once secure for him popularity among the students.

Educational Notes.

Eighth grade examination will be held in each village and town, except Chambers, on Thursday and Friday May 14 and 15. The subjects given in this examination are reading, arithmetic, grammar, geography, history, physiology, mental arithmetic and orthography.

Teacher's examinations will be held at Chambers and O'Neill on May 15 and 16.

A few weeks ago we presented the fact that the average boy in the country school was not given an equal chance with his sister in the matter of being given an opportunity to secure even an eighth grade education. He is allowed to attend less regularly, given shorter terms and sometimes given less encouragement. The fact that educated young men are needed to fill vacancies in so many lines of

Not a drop of Alcohol

Doctors prescribe very little, if any, alcohol these days. They prefer strong tonics and alteratives. This is all in keeping with modern medical science. It explains why Ayer's Sarsaparilla is now made entirely free from alcohol. Ask your doctor. Follow his advice.

Unless there is daily action of the bowels, poisonous products are absorbed, causing headache, biliousness, nausea, dyspepsia. We wish you would ask your doctor about correcting your constipation by taking laxative doses of Ayer's Pills.

work at present should be an inducement for many more to prepare themselves for positions. There is probably no profession in which good strong men are needed to fill positions today than the teaching profession. We print a portion of a letter from President Crabtree of the State Normal at Peru: "We must manage in some way to hold young men in the schools and to interest a larger number to enter the teaching profession. There is a false notion among young men based on conditions ten or more years ago that salaries are not in keeping with salaries in other lines of work. As a matter of fact teachers receive very good salaries at the present time, and principals and superintendents certainly receive remarkably fine salaries. Even the best business positions seldom pay as well.

"The scarcity of men is increasing salaries in these best places. Those who prepare for school supervision during the next few years will reap a most excellent harvest. Is it not our duty to look ahead for these young people, calling their attention to the opportunities open to them in our profession.

"We are making a special effort to influence worthy young men now teaching to continue their education and prepare for the better places. There are so few men, however, teaching in the lower schools, we are not reaching a sufficient number to fill even the very best places that are open or that will open in two, three, four and five years. Would it not be a kindness to interest high school boys in teaching as well as in other professions."
