For 50 Years
the Standard of Perfection in

Farm Wagons

The quality of the Studebaker wagon is so well known that it needs no introduction to users of farm wagons anywhere. For 50 years it has stood as the climax of perfection in wagon building, and of the tens of thousands of farmers using the Studebaker in this and foreign countries there is not a dissatisfied one among them. Brennan has a large stock of these wagons and would be glad of the privilege to show them to you, explain their superior points and give you prices.

BLACK FOX PELTS.

Only About Five Skins Are Secured Each Year.

In the estimation of trappers of the Canadian northland as well as in the eyes of the nobility of Russia there is only one king of beasts, the highly prized black fox. On an average five perfect pelts of this rare fur bearer are brought down from the northland each year and in rare years as many as ten or twelve, though each year thousands of men make a living trapping and the yearly catch of foxskins amounts to over 100,000 from Canada alone.

In no way except in color does the black fox differ from the red fox, whose pelt sells for about $2, or from the gray fox, whose winter coat is valued at from $150 to $400, but whenever a hunter can secure a black fox and remove its skin without marring the fur he is sure of receiving from $800 to $1,500 for his trophy. Not only is every black fox pelt bought as soon as taken, but a dozen Russian noblemen have paid agents traveling in North America all through the winter seeking out remote hillside farms and abandoned logging camps where it is possible that a shy and elusive black fox may have been seen.

Within the last twenty years a number of wealthy men who have owned fenced game preserves have spent vast sums of money in buying foxes alive and turning them loose within private inclosures. By and by it may be that some skilled or fortunate breeder will produce a black pup or perhaps a pair of black foxes may be captured alive, and from these a new breed of black foxes will arise and cause a great panic among the men who hunt for black foxes. He who can wrest the secret of breeding black foxes from nature is assured of riches past counting and can command the worshipful homage of the Russian nobility and aristocracy, who seem willing to sacrifice untold wealth for the pleasure of wearing overcoats made from the pelts of American black foxes.—Edmonton Cor. Toronto Globe.
