By a change which took effect yesterday, J. H. Wise retires from the flour and feed business and is succeeded by Henry Zimmerman and William Conklin, who have bought the stock, machinery and building. The new firm will be known as Zimmerman & Conklin.

District court, that has been adjourned several times since December, will convene Monday, Judge Harrington probably presiding. No cases of importance have been set for hearing though a number of equity cases and naturalization matters are expected to be disposed of by the court.

Farmers still complain that there is too much snow in the fields to husk corn. The snow has almost completely disappeared around town but still covers the ground out in the country and has been crusted into ice so that it melts away slowly. It will be a busy time this spring on the average farm.

Rev. M. F. Cassidy, who has not been feeling well the last couple of months, went to Omaha last week for treatment and on Saturday morning was operated on for appendicitis at St. Joseph's hospital. The latest reports from Omaha are that he is getting along nicely and would be able to return home in a few weeks.

T. F. Lull of Stafford was a business caller at these headquarters Tuesday. Mr. Lull will have a public sale of his personal effects this week and will leave next week for Sundance, Wyo., where he expects to make his future home. The Frontier will visit him weekly in his Wyoming home and keep him posted upon events in this section.

Alleging that his wife got gay with men a couple of months after their marriage Jay Arnett has filed suit in the district court praying for a divorce from Ethel Arnett to whom he was married at Valentine, Nebr., on April 11, 1907. He further alleges that the defendant left him on July 8, 1907, refusing to live longer with him and has not lived with him since that date.

Dave Darr, for many years a resident of this city and one of the "old timers" of the community, was in town Tuesday shaking hands with old friends and trying to locate some of the familiar scenes around town. Mr. Darr is now a resident of Basin, Wyo., and he says he likes the country up that way very much. He went to Page in the evening, his brother John residing at that place.

The ladies of the Methodist church will hold a handkerchief and apron sale on Tuesday, February 22. They will have a fine assortment of handkerchiefs recently imported from China, and they will be sold at very reasonable prices. Plans are not completed yet, but it is expected that refreshments will also be served. The place for holding the sale will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Dickson entertained at their pleasant and beautiful home Tuesday evening. The popular game of five hundred was the principal amusement of the evening, though a general social time was indulged in and luncheon served. Sanford Parker won gentleman's first prize at cards and Mrs. C. E. Stout captured the ladies' trophy, while Mr. Stout went to the foot of the class.

Henry Hoxsie died at the home of his son-in-law, Howard Bradley, in the southeast part of town yesterday about 2 o'clock from the effects of injuries sustained by having a limb crushed in a hay press some three weeks ago. About a week ago the limb was amputated and complications set in that resulted in his death, though it was thought he would recover up until yesterday. About noon Mr. Hoxsie realized that the end was near, sent up town for a lawyer to draw up his will but when Attorney Chapman arrived Mr. Hoxsie was unconscious and died soon after. His death marks the passing of one more of the pioneers as he was one of the early settlers of the community and known by nearly everyone. He was naturally strong and rugged and not at all accustomed to confinement or inactivity and worried a great deal over his condition. The funeral will be held at the home of his son-in-law Friday at 2:30 p. m., interment to be in the city cemetery.

Nineteen applicants started in on the examinations for census enumerators at the postoffice last Saturday, but four of them did not complete the work which was more of a test than any of them had expected. The examination consisted in filling out blanks that will be used in taking the census. The papers were forwarded to the supervisor of census and it will not be known who will get the appointments in this county until the supervisor makes his appointments known.

Jacob Kraft of Stuart was a caller at these headquarters Tuesday. Mr. Kraft informs us that he has disposed of most of his property in this county and that he will move to Tripp county S. D., next spring where he will make his future home. Jake has been a resident of this county for upwards of a quarter of a century and has always been a live wire in the strenuous political battles that were waged in the county during that period. His many Holt county friends will wish him success in his new home.

A novel contest case is now in progress at the land office, novel because the same parties have before had a contest case over the same piece of land, a one section homestead southwest of Emmett. The title of the case is Wright vs. Gaffney. Formerly the title was just reversed, Gaffney contesting and securing the cancellation of Wright's entry. Now Wright has started contest proceedings on the grounds that Gaffney failed to establish his residence upon the land within six months of the date of his entry.

The following Frontier readers extended their subscription during the past three weeks: L. Simonson, Agee; Sam Beaver, G. H. Jones, P. Reddin, M. C. Coffman, W. H. Yesterday at the county judge's office Fred L. Asher and Miss Ethel Coover, both of Page, were united in marriage. The young couple were attended by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Coover. The couple are among the finest young people of the county and start out with bright prospects. The groom, a native son of this county, is a brother of Hebe Asher, one of the substantial citizens of Verdigris precinct, and is a young man of excellent habits. The bride, also a native of Holt county, is a young lady of more than ordinary worth and comes of a good family. Her parents were among the early pioneers of the Page country.

Public Sales.

February will afford a good many public sales that might have come earlier had the weather permitted. Following are some that will be held this month:

Feb. 10.—M. C. Coffman, one mile and a half north of O'Neill.

Feb. 14.—C. S. Kennel, seven miles northwest of O'Neill.

Feb. 22.—George Bradt, eleven miles northeast of O'Neill.

Feb. 23.—J. M. Colbert, eight miles north and two miles west of O'Neill.

Feb. 25.—Thompson & Bowden at the Sam Nelson farm near Agee.

Feb. 28.—H. L. Madison, three miles southwest of O'Neill.

Feb. 28.—Joseph Shaheen, nine miles northeast of O'Neill.

A Rare Occurance.

It is a very unusual thing to see three generations appearing at one time in the same play, yet such is the case in "The Little Prospector" that comes to the opera house on Thursday, February 27. Mrs. Mattie Perkins (Grandma Perkins), her daughter "Chic" Perkins and her 5-year-old grandson, Frank G. King, jr., all appear in this production.

Clipped From Exchanges.

A Bloomfield girl who is looked upon as one of the highbrows of the burg, was the object of a serenade the other night, and in telling about it to a friend she is reported to have said: "I don't think there is nothing more nicer than to be woken up at night with vocal singing." Possibly this is libel.

This is a high priced story. A Nebraska man bought twenty cents worth of steak and received a nickel in change. When he reached home he could not find the meat. At last he discovered the nickel in his over-

John Gilligan departed Monday morning for Fremont, where he goes to take a commercial course.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith were visiting in Spencer last Saturday and Sunday with relatives of Mrs. Smith.

Jerry Lahey drove down to Page Wednesday where he purchased thirty head of hogs, bringing one load back on Thursday.

The welcome buzz of the wood saw is being heard in these parts, Will Crawford being the first to get his summer supply of wood laid away.

The ice on the Eagle has all disappeared the creek being as free from ice as in midsummer, a very unusual happening at this season of the year.

Walter Hamilton and the Misses Lowry were the only ones from here that attended the dance Saturday evening in the Nollkamper school house.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt were visiting Mrs. Rosa Church at O'Neill Sunday and Monday, being guests of Mr. and Mrs. Boshart Monday night on their return.

Miss Mabel Clyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Clyde, is quite sick at Spencer, where she has been attending school. Her mother was called to Spencer to nurse her.

Edward Overocker of Sunnyside, Nebr., was looking after business matters in Paddock this week. He was formerly the mail carrier from Paddock to Red Bird but is now holding down a Kinkaid homestead in Brown county.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Carroll, their daughter, Miss Della, and son, Charles and Frank, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. George Brjcker. The day was spent in social conversation and music. A lovely four course dinner was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes were assisting their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Crawford, Thursday and Friday to get settled in her new home on the Prouty place. In moving some of the loads were upset three times, but fortunately no very great damage was done.

Mesdames N. W. Pell and Will Crawford spent Wednesday with Mrs. T. W. Crawford assisting Mrs. Crawford in the culinary department while their better halves were aiding Mr. Crawford in fixing up the power for the wood saw.

The dance and card party at J. B. Berry's Saturday evening was a very enjoyable affair. Owing to the unfavorable condition of the weather one of the musicians failed to come, but with the skillful performance of the one violinist present, ably assisted by the Misses Berry at the piano, everything went off lovely. A two course luncheon was served at 12:30. The guests departed at 3, expressing themselves as having spent a very enjoyable evening. The guests from away were: Fred Halstead and Nye Berry of Orchard, Miss Emma, Dill and Glen Anderson of Dorsey, Carl Connelly of Lynch and Lyle Dewitt of Gross.

Educational Notes.

By the County Superintendent. Superintendent C. A. Gregory of Crete, who was recently appointed instructor of normal training in high schools, visited the Atkinson and O'Neill high schools also St. Mary's Academy the last week in January. Mr. Gregory proved a great help and inspiration to both teachers and students.

Miss Margaret Foster of Lincoln was recently elected to eighth grade in Atkinson to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mary V. Long. Miss Almeda Cockerill, who has acted as principal of the Atkinson schools the past two years, has resigned and will accept a lucrative position near her home in Ohio.

H. B. Burch, principal of the Page schools, visited at the county seat Saturday, February 5.

Plans are being made for a junior normal school to be held in O'Neill commencing June 6, and lasting eight weeks. It is probable that the first week will be institute week.

The school library law, sections 11 and 13, subdivision 12, requires that the district set apart from its funds the sum of 10 cents for each pupil enumerated in the district. Therefore the funds raised by the teacher from entertainments would not relieve the district from having to set aside this fund.

Seventy-three districts have made reports on school libraries and are eligible to draw their state apportionment which is in the hands of the county treasurer ready for distribution.

All eighth grade teachers should note that the Elements of Agriculture should be taught in connection with geography, and civil government with history.

The North Nebraska Teacher's association will be held at Norfolk, March 30, 31 and April 1, 1910. Every teacher in this county should enroll.

The next teachers' examinations will be held February 18 and 19.

Teachers may get "Specimen Books" by asking for them at the county superintendent's office.
