

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brookfield, Mo.—"Two years ago I was unable to do any kind of work and only weighed 118 pounds. My trouble dates back to the time that women may expect nature to bring on them the Change of Life. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel much better, and I have continued its use. I am very grateful to you for the good health I am now enjoying."—Mrs. SARAH LOUISIGNON, 414 S. Livingston Street, Brookfield, Mo.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

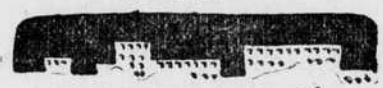

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

PILES

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascarets for constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascarets have done wonders for me. I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."—George Kryder, Napoleon, O.

CLEARING HOUSE FOR PLAYERS GOOD PLAN

Idea Suggested by "Tip" O'Neill Would Help Leaguers in Getting Men Wanted.

St. Louis Sporting News: President "Tip" O'Neill, of the Western league, whose headquarters in the midst of the official camping grounds of the American league and the Chicago White Sox, as well as several minor organizations, ought to be fruitful territory for numerous inspirations, is being credited with a burning desire for a baseball clearing house. There is nothing the matter with the scheme, but we rather believe that it is exactly the same thing suggested by the redoubtable Ted Sullivan last winter. The question of originality, however, will be considered of less importance than the thing itself, which is sure to come as soon as some energetic business man takes hold of the proposition in the right way. That such a scheme could be made of decided benefit goes without saying. At the beginning of each playing season every manager, whether his club be great or small, has at least half a dozen players who he knows he will carry through the season. Sometimes the proportion is larger. He must try out new material of which he has had good reports in the hope of filling holes already in his team or that he knows are bound to appear soon. Or he may suddenly wake up to the realization that he has not the player for a certain vacancy who can be expected to fill the bill. The "clearing house" would prove, if conducted properly, the place where the manager can in a few hours provide himself with new material, which even though it may not prove satisfactory in the end, will leave him at least no worse off than before and would save him hours of labor and worry that would probably have the same result. Then, too, there are annually many players cast aside by clubs who doubtless have greater ability than those fortunate enough to stay on other teams. The discard, in more cases than not, unacquainted with the method of landing some other berth, often discouraged by his first failure, quits the game entirely and it is easy to believe that in some cases a real star is thus lost to baseball.

WHERE HE SAVED MONEY.

"You say it costs less to run this automobile than that trotting horse you owned?" "Yes; I used to bet on the trotting horse."

Try to Come Back. Not long ago Lord Kinnaird, who is always actively interested in religious work, paid a surprise visit to a mission school in the east end of London and told a class of boys the story of Samson. Introducing his narrative, his lordship added: "He was strong, became weak, and then regained his strength, enabling him to destroy his enemies. Now, boys, if I had an enemy, what would you advise me to do?" A little boy, after meditating on the secret of that great giant's strength, shot up his hand and exclaimed: "Get a bottle of 'air restorer.'"

HOW A DOCTOR CURED SCALP DISEASE

"When I was ten or twelve years old I had a scalp disease, something like scald head, though it wasn't that. I suffered for several months, and most of my hair came out. Finally they had a doctor to see me and he recommended the Cuticura Remedies. They cured me in a few weeks. I have used the Cuticura Remedies, also, for a breaking out on my hands and was benefited a great deal. I haven't had any more trouble with the scalp disease. Miss Jessie F. Buchanan, R. F. D. 3, Hamilton, Ga., Jan. 7, 1909."

Kept with Barnum's Circus. P. T. Barnum, the famous circus man, once wrote: "I have had the Cuticura Remedies among the contents of my medicine chest with my shows for the last three seasons, and I can cheerfully certify that they were very effective in every case which called for their use."

A Liking for "Hamlet." "Do you like Hamlet?" asked the hostess of her unlettered, if gushing, guest.

"Indeed I do," was the reply. "I am excessively fond of it, but I always prefer a savory to a sweet one." There was a momentary confusion, and then the hostess realized that the admiration of the guest was of a culinary, not literary, character. "I gave her ham with an omelette for breakfast next morning," said the hostess, when telling the story.—Scraps.

Partly Made Over.

"Weren't we engaged last summer?" inquired the girl. "Your face is familiar," faltered the man. "Well, I'll forgive you for not recognizing me. My hair and figure are new."

WALSH STANDS HIGH IN PITCHERS' WORLD

Chicago's South Side Spitball Artist Has Record Which Fades Them All.

Chicago.—Special: Is there a pitcher in the American league who can be placed in the same class with Edward Walsh, the South Side spitball pitcher, right now?

Is there? You can talk about your Johnsons, Benders, Coombes, Morgans, Fords and the rest, but do they compare with the form that the big fellow on the South Side is displaying these days? Since returning to the South Side grounds Walsh has pitched 35 innings.

He has allowed two runs. He has been touched for 15 hits. He has fanned 25 men. He has given three bases on balls. Isn't that a great record for a man with a seventh-place team back of him?

Wonderfully Bad Luck. Yet he has lost two games, has tied one and has won but one contest. Talk about your tough luck. Here is a pitcher who has allowed but two runs in 35 innings, almost four complete games. Yet every run cost him a game. It's wonderful.

The form that Walsh is displaying these days is the wonder of the league. The Sox won from the Washington Senators in the third game of their series by the score of 4 to 3. And Walsh completed 25 innings without allowing a run.

Can you beat it? He started his wonderful pitching streak when he opposed the Detroit Tigers on July 30. Tyrus Cobb won that game. It was a 1 to 0 contest. You remember that Cobb tore at the way home from second while Chick Gandil held the ball. And Walsh was licked.

That day he was touched for six hits. He fanned four men, but did not give a base on ball.

Not Scored On. The next day he stepped on the slab for one inning, and Tyrus Cobb smashed a home run drive to the left field fence. It should not have been a homer. Pat Dougherty misjudged that ball, or the feet-footed right fielder of the Tigers would have jogged to the bench instead of about the bases. Well, that, Walsh remained long enough to fan one man.

The next game he was in was that 16-inning battle with the Athletics. Six hits were made off him that day, but not a run. He fanned 10 of the aspiring pennant chasers, and allowed three of them to amble to first.

His fourth game was Sunday. He pitched magnificent ball. He allowed two hits, but nothing resembling a run. In fact, he breezed all the way. His control was absolutely perfect. Not a man did he walk, and but one man got three balls. That was Killifer in the ninth, and then the spitter turned and fanned him.

Catch those figures? In 25 innings Walsh has not been scored on.

JOHN L. DECIDES TO TAKE UP FARM LIFE

Old Prize Fighter, After Making a Fortune on the Stage, Will Seek Quiet.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Special: John L. Sullivan, who held the championship of the world for many years, and was never defeated under London prize ring rules, has decided to retire from public life for good and settle down on a small farm near Boston, there to enjoy life with his family. John L. has been touring the country under the management of Frank Hall the past few years, doing a vaudeville stunt, and in that time has accumulated a fortune. It is just six years since Mr. Hall took hold of Sullivan, and July 1, 1911, they will separate as business partners, probably for all time, as Mr. Hall intends to settle down in Chicago, while John L. will go back east. It is the intention of the ex-champion to conduct a physical culture place on his farm similar to the one established by William Muldoon near New York city. John L. has ideas of his own regarding the development of athletes and the building up of a business man, and he intends to follow them when he establishes his place near Boston. John L. has had a varied career since he became champion of the world back in 1882. But there is one thing that can be said for him and that is he was always on the square, and for that reason the public supported him in every way possible. During the last few years John L. stopped drinking entirely and during the Jeffries-Johnson contest at Reno, Nev., a reconciliation was brought about between the big fellow and Ed Masterson, also Jim Corbett, with whom he had been at outs for many years. At the present time John L. is touring the far west, and he will gradually work east again. The fans will be sorry to see him disappear from public life, but they will wish him every success in his new venture, and wish him long life.

HOW EGOTISM WAS PUNISHED.

By William Jennings Bryan. From the New York World. THE year after coming to Nebraska, in 1888, I made 60 speeches against the republican candidate for governor, and in each one made it quite clear why he should not be elected. He was elected, however, by the usual majority. On the following St. Patrick's day I was to make a short speech and Governor Thayer (whom I had tried to defeat) presided. It was a varied program, consisting of songs and speeches. It was the first time I had seen in the presence of the governor and I wondered whether he felt any resentment toward me for all the work I had done against him. At last my turn was reached. The governor, having been prompted by another man, arose and said: "The next person on the program is W. J. Bryan," and as I came forward he stepped toward me and extended his hand. I felt greatly pleased that he did not harbor resentment against me and grasped his hand warmly, as he drew me toward him and whispered: "Do you speak or sing? He had never even heard of me.

Where Size Counts. Edna thoughtfully considered a cow that was calmly grazing in a meadow across the way. "Mamma, how old is that cow," she finally inquired. "She is four years old," answered Edna's mother. Edna considered the answer and from time to time appeared to be comparing herself with the cow. "Well," was her parting comment on the question, "I'm five and that cow is big enough to be fifty."
