The Spanish can hardly be blamed for the latest Maine disaster.

Stuart Advocate: Hon. H. A. Allen and D. H. Cronin, the republican nominees for representatives, are old residents of Holt county, and have been prominent in public matters for many years, are acquainted with our needs and will make ideal representatives.

Shallenberger has announced that he will not accept the populist nomination for governor and make the race upon that ticket unless he also receives the democratic nomination. As the Omaha mayor has the democratic nomination hog-tied the governor will probably retire to his Harlan county farm after January 1st.

Polindexter, the insurgent candidate for United States senator in Washington, swept the state with a majority of over 40,000 at the primary election held in that state the first of the week. Judging from the returns it would not take the voters of Washington long to tie a tin can to Secretary Ballinger if they were given the opportunity.

Prior to the primary election Congressman Hitchcock appealed for votes on the grounds that he had supported measures advocated and supported by such good insurgents as Congressman Norris of Nebraska. Now Hitchcock, though the columns of his World-Herald, his denouncing Norris and boosting Sutherland, the democratic nominee and former member of congress from that district.

For the first time in over a quarter of a century the democrats of Maine have elected their governor and they also elected a democratic legislature and the next United States senator from that state will be a democrat. Maine has not been represented in the senate by a democrat since 1863. The democratic victory was a revolt of insurgent republicans against the republican bosses and was fought out upon local issues.

One of the latest rumors in state politics is to the effect that the populist state committee will place T. H. Tibbles at the head of their ticket as a candidate for governor. This is the program the democrats want the committee to carry out as they believe with Tibbles on the populist ticket the vote of the dries in the state will be split between Aldrich and Tibbles while Dahlman will be able to muster the solid vote of the wets. Many populists are opposed to this and they want the committee to endorse the republican nominee, believing that he comes nearer representing the principles that the party stands for than the democratic nominee.

W. J. Taylor the populist nominee for congress from this district and Judge Dean the democratic nominee have agreed to let their differences be adjusted by the state committees of both parties and the committee will select the candidate to make the race against the republican nominee. The Frontier predicts now that the machine will ditch Taylor, the populist nominee, and give the nomination to Dean, as the democrats have no use for a populist except to secure the votes of the believers in that party for the democratic candidates. If they should select Taylor to make the race then the populists will have to put an out and out county optionist upon their ticket for governor to prevent the populists from voting for the republican nominee and assisting Dahlman. Watch this prediction.

In the recount of the votes cast at the primary election in Omaha Shallenberger gained 72 votes on Dahlman. This reduces Dahlman's majority to about 230 with South Omaha and the country precincts to recount. Shallenberger announces that he will take the matter into court if not successful in securing enough votes in the recount to nominate him. If the matter is taken into court it may be decided before election but the chances are that it will not be settled for months. If Dahlman secures the certificate of nomination from the state board his name will go upon the ballot as the democratic nominee, unless restrained by an order of court. Whether Shallenberger or Dahlman is the nominee is unimportant to the people at large as Aldrich will be the next governor of Nebraska.

The Democratic Text Book.

St. Paul Pioneer Press: The campaign book issued by the National Democratic Congressional committee will prove a disappointment to citizens who have desired to be informed upon the Democratic attitude on national issues, and to secure in some compact form the figures and arguments upon which the democrats propose to make their Congressional campaign.

The campaign book comprises 516 pages of extracts from the "Congressional Record." This makes for economy in a way, as the committee can send the book out under the frank of any member of Congress, but the voter thirsting for information or arguments finds it impossible to attempt to get definite or accurate instruction from the document. The speeches, for the most part, were delivered while appropriation and other bills were pending and many of the evils decried against by the speakers were eliminated before the bills were passed. To that extent the arguments advanced in the speeches are misleading.

The committee draws no conclusions, offers no declaration of principles or remedy for existing conditions. The book, as a whole, simply represents a democratic note of protest almost of the muckraking variety. It does not contain a constructive line, and as a vote getting proposition might as well not have been issued.

acres of his own. Graves has another 160 acres which another man works, desert claims. This land is subject to homestead or desert entry, a man can take 320 acres of either. It is rich soil, chocolate color, some is sandy, some clay, some mixed. I am surprised to see grass 8 to 10 inches high, that was as dry and brown as the road ten days ago, result of one watering. The country is so near level, water can be run all over it in ditches, 3 feet wide or so. When we arrived, I spent three or four days and looked the town over. The town has two business streets and two cross streets, they claim 2,500 or 3,000 population; much wealth here, many are old cattle ranchers, good business houses, exclusive dry goods stores; two banks, two drug stores, three meat markets, two lumber yards, three livery stables, plenty of grocery, large new racket store, two undertakers, numerous restaurants, five hotels, machine shops and has a large twelve grade school and are now advertising for bids to build another school house to cost $30,500, also a $35,000 brick court house is being built. They have the brick work about done and

Mr. Chairman:

Whereas the bridge across the Niobrara River joining the Counties of Holt and Boyd and known as the Parshall bridge has been partially destroyed by the action of high water and five spans of the same have been washed out and said bridge is absolutely unsafe and impassable and whereas the public good requires that said span ought to be replaced and said bridge repaired and rendered passable at the earliest possible date, the expense of said repairing to be borne equally by the counties of Boyd and Holt.

I move that notice in writing be served upon the County Board of Supervisors of Boyd County, Nebraska, requiring said Board to meet and take action to let a joint contract for and to repair said Parshall Bridge in conjunction with the County Board of Supervisors of Holt County, Nebraska, on the 14th day of September, 1910, at one o'clock in the afternoon of said date, said meeting of said County Board of Supervisors of Boyd County to be held at Butte in said County when and where the County Board of Supervisors of Holt County, Nebraska, will be in attendance.

And that a copy of this resolution be served upon said Board of Supervisors of Boyd County Nebraska.

are advertising for carpenters. Wages are $4 to $5 a day. Wish Chas. Fowler was here to get his share. The residence part of town has some fine buildings and nice shady yards and gardens, fruit trees when water is put on either hydrant (city water from stand pipe) or windmills. Probably there is forty or fifty windmills in town, said to be cheaper than hydrant for lawns. The south part, old Mexican part, is mostly adobe buildings and many scattered all through, some fifty years old. There are some well developed farms in the valley with pumping plants that throw 1,500 gallon of water per minute. One party with alfalfa and other crops has been offered $100 per acre for his farm. There is a great chance to buy land three to five miles out and let it lay as an investment or develop it if they have $1,200 to put in a pumping plant. I have written a long letter, and I feel much improved.

The Live Stock Market

South Omaha, Neb., Sept. 14.--Special market letter from Standard Live Stock Commission Co.

The cattle run this week appears to be a little lighter than the previous week and there is a brisk active trade with values steady to a little firmer. There seems to be a scarcity of the good killers. Feeder buyers are as plentiful as ever and unless the balance of the week should bring unexpectedly heavy receipts the prospects are for a steady market.

We quote:
Fair to choice heaves..... 7.00@ 8.00
Others down to..... 4.50
Cornfed cows and heifers up to 5.50
Fair to good..... 3.50@ 4.25
Canners and cutters..... 2.25@ 3.25
Veal calves..... 4.00@ 7.25
Bulls, stags, etc..... 3.25@ 5.00
Good to choice feeders..... 4.75@ 6.30
Others down to..... 3.25
Stock heifers..... 3.00@ 4.25

The fresh meat trade takes the bulk of these light hog receipts and while the tendency has been strong the market fluctuates sharply either way. Bulk $9.00 to $9.25, top $9.60.

Sheep receipts are some lighter than last week but still very liberal. The demand is active and prices a shade higher.

Ewing Roller Mills Change Hands.

Ewing Advocate: A very important business transaction was closed last week, when Robert Rothleutner of Tonic, came into possession of the Ewing Roller Mills property, consisting of the mill property, and all other lands and buildings connected which were owned by M. T. Sanders. In the same deal Mr. Sanders was deeded the Rothleutner ranch, which is situated near the Tonic postoffice, and expects to move his family there.

This transaction came as a surprise to Ewing residents, as Mr. Sanders had been up to the time of disposal continually improving and making the mill modern throughout. He has been one of Ewing's foremost men for a number of years, having started and by his progressive ideas and straight dealings built up a large and profitable business in flour and feed. Our one hope is that Mr. Sanders will soon see fit to launch another enterprise in Ewing in the near future. To Mr. Rothleutner, who is well and favorably known in this community, we bespeak the same liberal patronage that has always been tendered M. T. Sanders as proprietor of the Ewing Roller Mills.
