Albert Schultz of Omaha was arrested by Officer Kane Wednesday evening for running an automobile through the streets without lights. When Mr. Kane stepped into the room of the police court to speak to Justice McCafferty Schultz hit the high places and pulled out for a more congenial climate without bidding farewell to O'Neill's genial preserver of the peace. This unceremonious leave taking injured the dignity of Jack and he immediately sent the alarm to neighboring towns and about an hour later Schultz was again in the toils of the law at Page. He was brought to this city on the Burlington passenger and brought before Judge McCafferty who fined him $10 and costs, a total of $15, which he paid. Schultz has quite a reputation as a "speed maniac" and a few months ago was the cause of the death of Krug, the Omaha brewer, when he ran an automobile he was driving into one occupied by the Omaha man. The only way to stop this reckless driving is to pull the offenders at every opportunity and fine them the limit.
