Just 148 years ago the largest bulk of treasure ever taken from a ship at sea was brought into London. It was the whole of the cargo of the Spanish ship Hermione, captured on May 21 by H. M. S. Active. The Hermione surrendered to the Active without an action, and the treasure was landed at Portsmouth and conveyed to London in 20 decorated wagons with British colors over Spanish and an escort party of soldiers. The strange procession reached London on August 10, the day on which George IV. was born. On being sold the treasure realized £519,705 1s 6d, and the share of the officers and men of the Active was as follows: The captain, £26,053 13s 9d; the commissioned officers, each £13,004 14s 1d; eight warrant officers, each £4,336 3s 2d; twenty petty officers, each £1,806 1s 8d; 158 seamen, each £455 5s 4d.

The youngest divorced couple in the world is to be found in the court of Abyssinia, so we learn from a Paris contemporary. On May 16 of last year the Princess Romanoff was married to the Prince Daji of Bamart. Her apparent bride then being 8 years old and the bridegroom 14. Now they have been divorced. It is not a question of fault on either side, nor incompatibility of temper, none of the causes which figure so frequently in our divorce division. The princess happens to be the niece of the Empress Taitu, and this lady is not popular with the regents of the country. So to prevent the empress exercising any baneful influence on the future ruler's wife, the statesmen have required the prince to divorce her.

There are various kinds of graves in China. The graves are dug generally from 12 to 15 feet below the ground, while, according to an old custom, the mounds of the graves of emperors were 30 feet in height, those of barons without territories, and of lord stewards, about 15 feet. In the case of officials and common people mounds only four feet in height were erected. Pines were planted on the tombs of emperors, a species of willow on those of barons and lord stewards and elms on those of inferior officials. Although there are no territorial lords and lord stewards now in China, men of high rank still have their tombs constructed in accordance with this old custom.

Miss Winifred Gibbs, who has been connected with the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor of New York for several years, read a paper on "Popular Education and Diet" in New York at the annual conference of the congress of home education, which was held in Brussels. The paper treated of the work done by Miss Gibbs herself in visiting the homes of the poor and inspecting the mothers in feeding and caring for their children. The conference was under the auspices of the Belgian government. The talks about the care and feeding of their children which Miss Gibbs began before sailing for Europe are being carried on during her absence by Miss Helen E. Smith.

Carlisle had an inveterate hatred for Darwinism, which he described as the "gorilla" damification of the Londoner. Leonard Huxley, in his life of his father, recalls an incident that happened shortly before Carlisle's death. "My father," he writes, "saw him walking slowly and alone City in London, on the side of the street, and, touching his solitary appearance, crossed over and spoke to him. The old man looked at him, and merely remarking, 'You're Huxley, are you?'—the man that says we are all descended from the monkeys" went on his way.

"Champagne and claret will doubtless be produced in large quantities this year, despite the general failure of the French vineyard," says the London Chronicle. "The art of making wine without grapes is an ancient one. As far back as 1427 100 pipes of wine were seized in London because no trace of grape juice could be found in them. The citizens flocked to see the public staving in of the pipes and the unusual watering of the streets which followed thereupon."

If the proposed Hudson river bridge is ever constructed, says the Scientific American, it certainly will not be built at the proposed site at One-hundred-and-seventy-ninth street, for the preliminary borings for the foundations have been carried to a depth of 80 feet without discovering anything but mud and sand. It is stated that a survey will now be made at One-hundred-and-Tenth street, which will include borings to determine the nature of the river bottom.

William James, an Ohio probate court deputy, tells of a post extraordinary that comes about that office. She is a woman, a middle-aged, heavy-jowled person, who comes in and shortly after she has read in the paper of the death of a prominent man. And she comes because she wants to read the dead man's will as soon as it is probated, for she has the hopes of receiving a bequest in any of the wills. She just likes to look them over. Reading wills is her hobby.

There have been exhibited from time to time at international exhibitions abroad specimens of flexible sandstone from Kallab, in the Punjab, India. Slabs of this stone between three and four feet in length are said to bend under their own weight, giving forth a creaking sound resembling that made by a strip of tin. Placed in a box with only their ends supported the slabs assume a curved form.

The largest crab in the world, a specimen of the giant spider crab from Japan, is now at the Museum of Natural History, New York. The spread of the two largest legs, or arms, having sawlike teeth, called "pinners," is nearly 12 feet, and the body portion is over one foot in diameter and about the size of a large dinner plate. The monster crab inhabits the sea and islands of Japan, and is known to occur at a depth of over 2,000 feet.

Last year nearly 200,000 tons of fish were delivered to Billingsgate market, of which over 125,000 tons arrived by land and the remainder by water.

OMAHA CHIEF MUST DEFEND HIS ACTS

Forced to Tell Court Why He Failed to Enforce the Day-light Closing Law.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 11.—John J. Donahue, chief of the Omaha police, must stand trial on the charge of dereliction of duty. The supreme court has overruled the motion to quash the information filed against him by Attorney General Thompson at the direction of Governor Shallenberger. In the complaint it is charged that the Omaha official has willfully failed to enforce the law which prohibits the sale of liquor after midnight. It is alleged that the chief of police has not made it a part of his duty to see to the enforcement of the daylight saloon law and the ordinance against disorderly houses. It is probable that a referee will be appointed to take testimony in the case and report the facts to the supreme court.

BUTCHERS ARE PROSECUTED FOR ADULTERATED SAUSAGE

Vermillion, S. D., Oct. 11.—Fure Food Commissioner Cook has just taken the initial steps towards the prosecution of three butchers in different parts of the state for selling adulterated sausage. Buck Brothers, a wholesale produce firm, of Huron, S. D., have been recommended for prosecution for selling rotten eggs. The case has been set for Wednesday, October 12, and will be contested. Word has just been received that on complaint of S. J. Beddow, of Armour, S. D., a farmer was fined $10 and costs for selling rotten eggs. The case was prosecuted by Honorable Robert D. Walker, of the county attorney of Douglas county. The small error in the pure food law in which the little word "no" was substituted for "any" is not affecting the enforcement of the law.

TITLE CLEARED TO $1,600,000 ESTATE

Noted Will Case in Nebraska Is Settled After 10 Years of Litigation.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 29.—According to a decision handed down by the supreme court, Joseph H. Mills, of Falls City, is the rightful heir to an estate valued several years ago at $1,600,000. It is worth a great deal more now. The district court of Richardson county has decided that the will executed by Stephen B. Miles at Rulo, November 27, 1888, was rightfully probated, and that the testimony did not disclose that a subsequent will was made at St. Louis and had been concealed by Joseph H. Miles when he became executor of the estate. Only one question was passed upon by the supreme court. That was the sufficiency of the evidence as to whether or not a later will was made in St. Louis. The court found the evidence not sufficient to establish the St. Louis will. By the rule will Joseph Mills, a son of Stephen Mills, was left the greater part of the estate. Samuel A. Mills, of University Place, was left real estate in trust worth $175,000. This was so tied that he could not get any of it except the income. The suit has been in the court for the last 10 years. It has attracted a great deal of attention in surrounding states. The elder Mills died in Fall City, October 30, 1898. Paul Gadsden, a young attorney of St. Louis, who is alleged to have written a later will for the elder Mills, was brought back from Mexico to testify in regard to the St. Louis document.

SELF DEFENSE IS PLEA OF GERLOCH

Accused Man Goes to Trial at Dakota City for Killing Lee, at Emerson, Neb.

Dakota City, Ia., Sept. 29.—Gus Gerloch, charged with shooting and killing Joseph Lee in the rear end of a meat market in Emerson, Neb., January 13 of this year, was placed on trial here today. The work of securing jurors in the case began at 10:45 o'clock and it is thought the rest of the day will be necessary to complete the roster. According to the story told by the defense, Lee came into the meat market, where Gerloch was working, under the influence of liquor. He passed through the front part of the shop where Gerloch was waiting on a customer and took a seat in the little office in the rear. Gerloch stepped into the back room he was confronted with a revolver in the hands of Lee. Realizing instantly that his life was in danger, though as far as known no words passed between them, Gerloch whipped out his own weapon and poured five shots into Lee which caused his death almost instantly. What caused Lee to cover Gerloch with a gun, as alleged, is not known. So far as can be learned the men had not been enemies and a woman cannot be drawn into the case. D. H. Sullivan, of Sioux City, attorney for Gerloch, bases his case on self defense.

POOR LO, EDUCATED, BUT JOBLESS, STEALS

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Frank Darkcloud, descendant of a famous Chippewa Indian chief, former halfback on the Carlisle Indian football team, came to Chicago with his wife five weeks ago to make an effort to take advantage of the education he had received. He hunted as relentlessly for a job as his ancestors had followed the trail of the white man. He stole a gun and a shirt, and in the last moment he succeeded, but his money was gone, his wife in delicate health and starving. He could get no credit, and for the first time in his life, he says, he broke the law. He stole a gun and a shirt, sold the gun, was caught and yesterday spent the first of a 113-day sentence in the Bridewell. His wife, who is a Sioux, is living at 1230 Wabash avenue and working in a Wabash avenue restaurant. She expects to become a mother soon.

Stella, Neb., Oct. 10.—William McBride, a former Stella boy, whose whereabouts has for many years been unknown to his relatives here, has turned up as the man who took the official photographs of the remains of Belle Elmore of the Scotland Yard Detectives in London. Mr. McBride has written a letter to his uncle, J. G. McBride, of this town, in connection with the settlement of the Greg estate here, in which he says he desires very much to visit Nebraska again. McBride's connection with the notorious Crippen case was a very important one. The photographs which he took of the remains of the dentist's murdered wife form one of the most valuable links in the chain of evidence built up by Scotland Yard. The pictures were taken immediately after the discovery in the cellar of the Crippen home in London.

LINCOLN ACCEPTS REPORT ON CENSUS AS TRUE

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 10.—Lincoln citizens are disappointed in the census report, which gave the capital city of Nebraska only 43,973. Many had expected that the figures would show Lincoln's population at least 50,000. Some placed the enumeration as high as 60,000. It is generally conceded that former enumerations were greatly padded. Twenty years ago Lincoln's count was given as 65,169, and 10 years ago as 40,169. The irregularity of the above figures has given rise to much armistice. The 1910 census is accepted by residents of this city as being approximately correct.

GAS PRODUCING SHALE FOUND NEAR FAIRBURY

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 10.—Pending the conclusion of elaborate tests now being made at the University of Nebraska, the professors making the investigation refuse to comment on the claims of citizens of Fairbury, Neb., regarding the discovery of a gas producing shale six miles northwest of that city. Some of the tests have been highly satisfactory, while those on other specimens have brought down the average results. The tests are being made with a great deal of care. Some of the specimens which have been examined show the presence of gas in large quantities. Some ran as high as 10,500 cubic feet of gas to the ton of shale. Analysis of other specimens, however, are far below this figure.

SUICIDE PLANS IN TRIPPLICATE FORM

Man Hangs in Well, Shoots Himself Through Brain and Then Drowns.

Crawford, Neb., Oct. 7.—A report has just reached here of the suicide of James Carey, near the postoffice of Dunlap, 35 miles southwest of here. Carey lost his entire corn crop of 20 acres by the frost of August 24, and the fact preyed upon his mind until it is thought he became insane. In killing himself he put into operation three plans, any one of which would have proven fatal. His wife and grown daughter were away from home, spending the day at a neighbor's. When they returned the husband and father could not be found. After a long search it was discovered that the bucket was at the bottom of the well, which is 30 feet deep, and contains nine feet of water. Mrs. Carey's suspicions were aroused and summoning neighbors, one went down into the well and at the bottom found the body of Carey. He had been dead some hours. In his right hand was clasped a revolver and a bullet through his brain. Around his neck was a small rope, its lower end fastened with a noose. The presumption is that Carey climbed down into the well on the big rope, carrying the bucket, and that down there he fastened the small rope around his neck and then shot himself. People are at a loss to know whether he drowned, hanged himself or died from the result of the revolver wound.
