The Southern Power company will erect a 4,000 horsepower plant at Great Falls, S. C., to furnish power for the manufacture of fertilizer for the air. Two similar plants are now in successful operation in European countries, one in Norway and the second in Chile, and producing fertilizers and nitrogen compounds. The process is an electro-chemical one, and centers about the forcing of atmosphere through flame at high pressure, thereby producing gas, which, with the addition of water in certain proportions, produces nitric acid. By subjecting these gases to limestone a valuable compound used in commercial fertilizers is obtained. The possible saving that may be realized through the establishment of such a process can be estimated when it is stated North Carolina uses 640,000 tons of fertilizer last year and South Carolina 700,000 tons, or about 1,340,000 tons in the Carolinas.

When he is working in water infested by sharks and other sea monsters likely to do him harm, the diver has at present to rely for his safety on the use of the knife, or falling that, on a quick return to the surface. Now comes the invention of Captain Grob, a German diving instructor, who has constructed a rifle which can be fired under water, and is designed for the better arming of the diver. The most remarkable thing about this is that it fires, not bullets, but water which is propelled with such force that it has an extraordinary power of penetration. Indeed, the inventor himself has pierced armor plate of medium thickness with the water jet from his weapon. The rifle is about 18 inches long and is loaded with a cartridge case in India rubber.

When Miss Jennie Lee was on tour with the dramatized version of "Bleak House," she met with an unusual experience. One night she was in the midst of the long and harrowing death scene of poor Jo. The stage was darkened and the limelight illuminated the pale features of the death stricken boy. People were sobbing all over the house. Suddenly, to her consternation, Miss Lee heard the limelight man addressing her in a brawny Scotch whisp, audible to half the house. "Dee quik, Miss Lee—dee quik!" he roared softly. "The limelight's gone out!" She did it "quik" but for the purpose of making a speech to that limelight man which he said he would never forget.

Apparently some new invention brings with it some evil. The British Medical Journal points out that among distinctly modern diseases are the poisoning produced by the fumes of calcium carbide or acetylene; the headache, dizziness, cardiac failure and sensory disturbances of the nose, throat, and eyes; the use of aniline dyes; the frothing of the blood, known as calisson disease, which follows too rapid decompression in workers at the foundations of bridges; the functional neurosis known as the "cramp," resulting from the use of the Morley, and the numerous affections of the skin, lungs, digestive tract and eyes due to irritation by organic or inorganic dusts of industrial origin.

A dual language law, respecting contracts with public utility companies, has been enacted in the province of Quebec, Canada. It provides that all Quebecers, tickets, baggage checks, way bills, bills of lading, printed telegraph forms and contract forms, made, furnished or delivered by a railway, navigation, telegraph, telephone, transportation, express or electric power company, as well as all notices of regulations posted up in its stations, carriages, boats, offices, shops, workhouses, shall be printed in both French and English.

Miss Sheila O'Neill recently showed and explained in a model of a tandem monoplane which she has just completed. This exhibition was given under the auspices of the Woman's Aerial League of London. Miss O'Neill is the only woman allowed to drive a motor car in the United States. She has won many prizes in motoring, has patented several inventions and is at present perfecting a new splash device for motors. She went out as a nurse during the Boer war and has been both the king and the queen of England.

Buenos Ayres needs a channel of 30 feet at low tide for large vessels, for a distance of 22 miles. Four dredges will be used at work; each cost over $55,000, and have a capacity of annually dredging 9,000,000 cubic meters.

Declares It Is Time to Stop Legislating Against Corporations and Enforcement Statutes.

Executive Advises That Tariff Board Be Made Permanent, but Opposes Another General Revision.

SHIP SUBSIDY IS URGED

Washington, Dec. 6.—President Taft's annual message to congress, which was delivered today, opens with a discussion of the settlement before the Hague tribunal this year. It takes up the relations of the United States with foreign countries, and recites the treaties of various kinds which have been entered into during the year. The formation of the republic of Portugal is touched upon, together with its tentative recognition by the United States.

Relations with the far east, the Chinese railroad loan and kindred matters are then discussed. The friendly visits of oriental potentates to this country are touched upon, as are relations with Latin America, particularly the Nicaraguan revolution. Former President Zelaya is severely condemned for his alleged acts of maladministration.

Tariff Negotiations.

The first domestic topic discussed in the message is that of tariff negotiations, and on this point the president says:

The new tariff law, in section 2, provides for the maximum and minimum tariffs of the United States, which provisions came into effect on April 1, 1910, imposed upon the president the responsibility of determining prior to that date whether or not any undue discrimination existed against the United States and its products in any country of the world with which we sustained commercial relations.

In the case of several countries instances of undue discrimination against American commerce were found to exist. These discriminations were removed by negotiation prior to November 1, 1910, when the maximum tariff was to come into operation with respect to importations from all those countries.

The minimum tariff should be issued by the president. These proclamations embraced the entire commercial world and hence the minimum tariff of the United States has been given universal application, thus testifying to the satisfaction of the entire world with our relations with foreign countries.

Marked advantages to the commerce of the United States were obtained through these tariff settlements. Foreign nations are fully cognizant of the fact that under section 2 of the tariff act the president is authorized to apply to any country the treatment accorded by them to the products of the United States is not such as to entitle them to the benefits of the tariff laws of the United States, to withdraw those benefits by proclamation, giving 30 days' notice, after which the maximum tariff will apply to the dutiable products entering the United States. In its general operation, this section of the tariff law has thus far enhanced the entire commercial world, and hence the minimum tariff of the United States has been given universal application, thus testifying to the satisfaction of the entire world with our relations with foreign countries.

ents in friendship and commerce as would be the case if the tariff board were of communication with the countries of Latin America adequate to meet the requirements of a rapidly increasing appreciation of the value of the products of the countries of the western hemisphere upon each other's products, sympathies and assistance.

I allude to this most important subject in my last annual message; it has often been before you and I need not recapitulate the reasons for its recommendation. Unless prompt action be taken for the completion of the Panama canal will find this the only great commercial nation unable to avail in international maritime business of the great advantage which it means of the world's commercial intercourse.

While aside from the commercial aspect, unless we create a merchant marine, where can we find the seafaring population necessary as a natural naval reserve and where could we find, in case of war, the men to man our ships, without which a naval fleet is arms without a body? For many reasons I can not strongly urge upon the congress the passage of a bill which would authorize our subvention adequate to guarantee the establishment and rapid development of an American merchant marine, the restoration of our flag to its ancient place upon the seas.

With our increasing international intercourse becomes incumbent upon me to repeat, as I have done in my annual recommendation which I made in my inaugural address that congress shall at the earliest opportunity take action to the United States to the courts of the United States, free of the violation of the rights of aliens secured by treaty with the United States, and that the general government of the United States shall, as a crime, be called upon by a friendly nation, to redress its citizens promise by treaty to secure to the citizens or subjects of that nation the same rights and liberties and freedom from violence and due process of law in respect to their life, liberty and property.

I also, and for the same general reasons, strongly commend to the favorable action of the congress the enactment of a law applying to the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States, and Section 1763 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in the Civil Service act of June 27, 1883, and the executive orders of June 27, 1883, and of November 26, 1898.

Treasury Department.

Every effort has been made by each of the chief to reduce the estimated cost of his department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912. I say this in order that congress may understand the smallest amount which each of the departments, bureaus, and offices of the government and meet its obligations unimpaired. It is estimated that a cut of these estimates would amount to $1,000,000,000, and that a cut of these estimates would amount to $1,000,000,000, and that a cut of these estimates would amount to $1,000,000,000.

The final estimates for the year ending June 30, 1912, as they have been sent to the treasury, on November 29 of this year, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, including those for our harbors, and harbors, and the navy building program, amount to $60,494,013.12. This is $2,244,820 less than the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, and $16,883,153.44 less than the total estimates, including supplemental estimates submitted to the treasury for 1911.

These figures do not include the appropriations for the Panama canal, the appropriation in respect to which ought to be, and is, to spend as much each year as can be economically expended in order to complete the canal as soon as possible, and, therefore, the ordinary motive for cutting down the expense of the government does not apply to appropriations for this purpose. It will be recalled that the estimates for the Panama canal for the ensuing year are more than $66,000,000, and that the appropriations for the canal for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1912, are $19,000,000, and that the appropriations for the canal for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1911, are $19,000,000.

Public Buildings.

In our public buildings we still suffer from the method of appropriation, which has been so much criticized in connection with the harbors. Some methods should be devised for the more economical supply of public buildings, so that they will harmonize with the actual needs of the government, and consider any proposal appropriated for only as buildings which will utilize the land which has been appropriated for by congress which are needed, and which are not being constructed, and which are not being constructed, and which are not being constructed.

All these tariff negotiations, so vital to our commerce and industry, and the duty of jealously guarding the equitable and reciprocal relations of our products, capital and industry abroad develop upon the department of state.

The department of state, like the subsequent important one for Argentine railway equipment, and those for Cuban government vessels, were secured through the most successful. The volume of business obtained in new fields of competition and upon new lines is secured to great and congress is urged to continue to support the department in its endeavors to further trade expansion.

Merchant Marine.

Another criticism has been directed to the unhampered and natural development of American commerce is merchant marine. All maritime and commercial interests are deeply interested in this factor. The greatest commercial nations of the world are jealously foster their merchant marine, and it is a matter of great importance to our country that we should have a merchant marine of our own.

whose stock is not so listed or offered for sale, and who are not open to the inspection and examination of creditors and stockholders of the corporation whose record is sought. The returns of progress of the work in most satisfactory. If unimpeded obstacles are removed, the canal will be completed well within the time fixed by Colonel Goethals, to-wit: January 1, 1915, and within the estimate of $250,000,000.

The Payne Tariff Act.

The schedules of the rates of duty in the Payne tariff act have been subjected to the greatest deal of criticism, some of it, just, more of it unfounded, and much misrepresentation. The act was adopted in pursuance of a declaration by the congress that it was the duty of the congress to protect the home industries, the measure of the protection to be the difference between the cost of production in the United States and the cost of production abroad and the cost of producing it at home, together with such reasonable profit to the domestic producer. The basis for the criticism of this tariff is that in respect to a number of the articles covered by the act, the duty is not followed, but a higher difference retained or inserted by way of undue discrimination in favor of certain industries and manufactures, and in some cases the criticism of the tariff has been directed against the protective principle above mentioned, and the duty is not followed, but a higher difference retained or inserted by way of undue discrimination in favor of certain industries and manufactures, and in some cases the criticism of the tariff has been directed against the protective principle above mentioned, and the duty is not followed, but a higher difference retained or inserted by way of undue discrimination in favor of certain industries and
