

LIGHTS TO BE TURNED ON MARCH THE FIRST

City Arranges for Lighting Some of the Streets.

ILLUMINATE PRINCIPAL PLACES

Railroads Will Have the Electric Glare at Their Fourth Street Crossings.

At an informal meeting of the city council the first of the week it was decided that the city would use five electric street lights, at a cost of $40 50 per month. In addition to these, both railroads will maintain lights at their fourth street crossings. The lights paid for by the city will be located as follows:

At the intersection of the following streets: Fourth and Grant, Fourth and Douglas, Fourth and Benton, Fifth and Douglas, Third and Douglas. This means a light on the court-house hill, one at the First National bank corner, one at the opera-house, one at the Golden hardware corner and one a block north of the Burlington.

The lights are promised to be turned on March 1.

Walter Martin Dies in Hospital.

Walter Martin died Wednesday in an Omaha hospital, after a long period of suffering from tuberculosis of the spine. The remains were brought to O'Neill Thursday and the funeral will take place Friday at two o'clock at the Methodist church. The funeral will be in charge of the Odd Fellows. Rev. T. S. Watson will conduct the services at the church.

The death of Walter culminates a long period of suffering and a heroic struggle against disease. It was only because Walter was a young man of unusual vitality that the fatal result did not come sooner. He was gifted with magnificent physical strength and a will and courage to hold up under the ravages of the disease during many months of suffering.

Walter was twenty-three years of age, bright and energetic, and his taking away is a severe blow to his relatives and deeply regretted by all his friends. He came from one of the best known families in the county, being a son of the late Bennet Martin. His mother and two sisters reside in O'Neill, and besides these he leaves to mourn the remorseless work of death three brothers and one married sister.

Death of Spindler Twins.

One of the Spindler twins died Friday of last week and the other on Monday of this week. The little ones came to gladden the home of the father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Spindler of Meek, only a few weeks ago and they were apparently a strong and healthy pair of boys.

The little ones were laid in one casket and buried in the Meek cemetery on Tuesday.

T. J. Gilligan of Broken Bow, a brother of Dr. J. P. Gilligan, was in the city this week for a visit with his brother, whom he did not know was away, and also his two daughters who are attending St. Mary's academy.

Will Helmich of Stella, Neb., who bought a farm ten miles northwest of O'Neill some months ago, was here last week and had the building finished up on the place. He returned to Stella the first of the week and will soon move here and get ready to operate his farm this season.

Nora Murphy, age twenty-four years, died of Bright's disease at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Murphy, living eight miles north-east of O'Neill, on Monday. The funeral was held at St. Patrick's church on Wednesday, the remains being interred in the Catholic cemetery.

John E. Burshek of Newell, S. D., and Miss Loretta Murray of Page were married at St. Patrick's church in this city Wednesday morning. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Murray, well known residents of this county. The wedding party drove out to the Murray home after the services where we suppose many enjoyed the open handed hospitality of our friend "Dick." Two O'Neill musicians, the Cotterill Sisters, who had been at Page, were secured to furnish music at the wedding festival last evening.

Congressman Kinkaid wired the postmaster the first of the week to ascertain the sentiment at O'Neill on the Canadian reciprocity bill. The postmaster replied that the sentiment here is favorable to the passage of the bill. Kinkaid's name is in the list of congressmen voting for the bill.

My new stock of 1911 vehicles are now on my floors. I have a variety of styles and prices and the beauty of 1911 buggies and carriages must be seen to be appreciated. My new farm machinery is also in, wind mills, pumps, fanning mills, corn graders, sewing machines and pianos.—Frank Campbell. 34-2.

The county officials, including the supervisors, were favorites this year with the Valentine jokers. Some choice selections of comic art and Valentine foldover were received by high dignitaries of the county Tuesday, but none of them have been seen out with a gun yet trying to find out "who sent it."

The children of the Presbyterian Sunday school were entertained at a Valentine party in the Odd Fellows' hall Monday evening. The party was under the supervision of Superintendent C. B. Scott and Assistant Superintendent Mrs. W. T. Evans, who furnished the children a delightful evening's entertainment.

Tyler Scriven, who had a sale a year ago and left Holt county and has since relocated in this county six miles southeast of Chambers, was in the city Wednesday. Mr. Scriven has again become the owner of the dwelling house in the southwest part of town he previously owned for a short time and then traded for property at York. He had more faith in the value of O'Neill property than at York, and having a chance to trade back did so.

Mayor Biglin has had another official position thrust upon him. The mayor is now acting as police judge of the city and those arrested for offending the peace and dignity of the city have now to appear both before the judicial and executive head of the town. J. J. McCafferty has resigned as police judge. The mayor appointed Weighmaster Gordan to the office but Mr. Gordan declined the appointment. The office is thus left vacant, and in this event the mayor acts in cases under the jurisdiction of the police court.

The county board convened Monday and adjourned Wednesday until March 7. During the session the board passed a resolution to let the printing of the delinquent tax list this year to the paper making the lowest bid for the same, and the clerk was instructed to advertise for bids. It has been customary in the past for the board to designate the paper in which to publish the tax list. The plan of advertising for bids leaves an open field for all papers in the county to bid for the work, but it is doubtful if the publishers will care to take it for much if any below the rate allowed by law for publishing such notices.

Miss Edna Howe resigned last week as assistant postmistress, which position she had filled for nearly four years. Miss Edna has made a capable, efficient and accommodating official and the office patrons regret her retirement from the service as she had been a general favorite with all. The Frontier does not know what her plans are for the future, but know she is capable of filling most any position of responsibility. Miss Maud Hall, who has been at Leaveyworth, Wash., the past year, becomes the new assistant, arriving from Washington last evening to assume the duties. Miss Hall has had previous experience in postoffice work that will enable her to take hold of the work without having first to become "initiated" and will no doubt make an efficient assistant.

Ewing Advocate: An article in last week's Independent in reference to House Roll 247 was all right except in one particular. The article in question left the reader under the impression that Senator Lee was the author of the bill when in reality such is not the case. Through a trustworthy source we learn that Representative Cronin himself framed the measure, and at Mr. Lee's request Mr. Cronin furnished him with a duplicate copy which he afterwards introduced in the senate. This is the sum and substance. We have no desire whatever to rob Mr. Lee of his laurels and believe that he himself would deny any and all imputations of an erroneous character. Besides, it injures no one to give proper credit where it rightfully belongs. As the bill is a popular one Mr. Cronin will doubtless do all in his power to get it passed in the house, while Senator Lee will at the same time spare no efforts to have it pass the senate.

Act IV—Reunited

The events of the drama are supposed to have taken place toward the end of the fourth century. Irma, alias Flavia, daughter of Flavania a noble Roman matron, was stolen away when but two years of age, by Solima, one of the slaves who through vengeance wished to make her mistress unhappy. The crime was facilitated by the fact that Solima had made previous negotiations with the captain of the ship about the sail for Crin. Hither she conducted Flavia. Not knowing how to rid herself of the child she paid much gold to Bernice, the Grand Druidess of Nerf Naom, that might do away with the child. Bernice promised, but Demo, the Arch Druid, ordered that the life of the infant should be spared. She was reared in the temple to be a vestal of Nief Naom, the goddess of the moon of wisdom and of virtue. The drama opens on the day preceding her initiation to the inner shrine of the temple, which was the last step to be taken preparatory to becoming a vestal. We find Flavia, whom the vestals call Irma, unhappy in the service of the heathen duties. She seeks something nobler, purer. Whilst keeping her midnight vigil, the sacred fire is extinguished, and according to the laws of the temple, Irma must be sold into slavery. She is taken into Rome, where she becomes a slave in the mansion of Flavonia, her mother Flavonia feels irresistibly drawn towards Irma. Finally Solima, who has in the meantime become a Christian, comes to seek pardon of Flavonia, and finds Irma. Then mother and daughter are happily united.

Say, Mister!

You know that the value of city lots are increasing fast. The best locations are being bought by persons who intend to build. This will increase prices. If you intend to build sometime or wish to double your money in speculation give this matter your attention. I have choice lots in north, west and east portion of town that I will sell right. I require only a small payment down.—T. V. Golden. 33-3

While it is often impossible to prevent an accident, it is never impossible to be prepared—it is not beyond any one's purse. Invest 25 cents in a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment and you are prepared for sprains, bruises and like injuries. Sold by all dealers.

Call at Shoemaker's market Saturday, Feb. 19. Skinned Hams at 18 cents a pound. 35-1

To My Valentine.
Please sweetheart try to love me,
Though I am not brave and bold;
I will love you now and always,
Till we're very, very old.
The above couplet in gold on a post card decorated with a wreath of hearts and American beauties has got an O'Neill man into bad repute with his wife and the family jar may expand to the divorce court any minute. It all came about by the wife finding the card addressed in a dainty feminine hand in her husband's pocket. There is no use trying to explain while the storm of jealous rage is spending its fury, but the man—just like a man, you know—says there will be nothing to it when his wife learns the card is from a 12-year old niece in a distant city.

The Live Stock Market

South Omaha, Nebr., February, 14, 1911.—Special weekly market letter, Nye, Schneider Fowler Co.

This seems to be a season of soft prices as well as soft weather. Receipts are very liberal and packers claim that the eastern demand is very dull which is usually the case in warm unseasonable weather. Killers can be quoted 15 to 25 lower all around. Feeders value go down some but not in proportion with the slump in killers. It looks as if it would take a little spurt of cold weather to check this decline.

We quote:

Fair to choice heaves..... 5.50@ 6.00
Others down to..... 4.75
Cornfed cows and heifers up to 5.15
Fair to good..... 4.00@ 4.50
Canners and cutters..... 3.00@ 3.75
Veal calves..... 4.00@ 8.00
Bulls, stags, etc..... 3.75@ 5.00
Good to choice feeders..... 4.75@ 5.00
Others down to..... 4.00
Stock heifers..... 3.75@ 4.50

Hog receipts begin to look like old times again. With over 60,000 in Chicago Monday and liberal receipts at all western points sharp breaks continue. Bulk $6.85 to 6.95, top $7.00.

While there is a sluggish feeling at the sheep barn, especially in the lambs values have not suffered the way cattle and hogs have for the reason that they were already cheap, but they are some lower.

Buy that Furniture Now.

A special price on furniture will be made at our store during February. We have too large a stock. You need a table, some chairs or a new bed. Why not buy it now? Do not say you cannot afford it, come in and see our stock, and get prices and be convinced that you cannot afford to do without.—Golden's Furniture and Hardware.

Methodist Church Items

In the history of Methodism, no other single agency has done so much for the development of Christian character and the strengthening of the church as has the class meeting. It always has been, and is still an important service of our church and should be loyally supported.

The regular services will held next Sunday. The pastor will preach both morning and evening taking for his morning subject "Why Christians Should Rejoice," and for the evening, "The God that Answered by Fire." The evening sermon will be the second of the series on "Elijah the Tishbite." To these and to all services of our Church we most cordially invite everybody. We are always glad to welcome the stranger.

Immediately following our morning service, we always have an interesting and profitable session of the Sunday school. Our Sunday school is steadily growing in number and increasing in interest, and we would be pleased to have you with us next Sunday while we study the word of God.

Prayer meeting every Thursday evening at 7.30. To this interesting and helpful service we cordially invite all of our neighbors and friends.

Attention, Young People! Come out to the Epworth League service next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. If our young people will they can make the Epworth League a mighty power for good. Are you willing to do your part? If so be on hand at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

Lewis Clyde Gets Into Trouble for Alleged Illegal Liquor Sealing.

DATES AND NAMES GIVEN

Taken Before the County Judge Who Holds Him to District Court for Trial on $500 Bonds.

The county court is frequently called upon to examine some chap for the crime of selling liquor without the law's consent, otherwise known as "bootlegging". Such a case was before Judge Malone last Friday and the accused was held to the district court on $500 bonds for trial.

The defendant in this instance is Lewis Clyde and the scene of his alleged illegal operations in the liquor traffic is Page. Complaint was entered in behalf of the state of Nebraska by Cora E. Murphy and a bond furnished for the costs if the prosecution fails. The complaint contains three counts, all charging the unlawful sale of liquor, each count naming a different date on which beer was sold to three different men or boys named in the complaint.

When brought into county court the accused waived his right to a preliminary hearing and was at once bound over to the district court. It is claimed by Page people that the "bootlegging" had become brazen and that mere boys were supplied with the drinks that makes drunks, and they are in dead earnest about the prosecution. Page has always been a "dry" section of the county and they are zealous of their reputation as such. It is not the first time the community has been aroused over the attempts of daring individuals to invade the sanctity of their village with the whiskey jug. Others have tried it but were soon following the sheriff toward O'Neill to answer before the bar of justice.

When Clyde will have his trial is not known. District court adjourned last month till April and this case will probably not be heard until then.

Seeks Divorce.

A little over two years of wedlock has brought Clara B. Taskey to the divorce court. She alleges in a petition filed in district court that she and William Edward Taskey were married at West point, Neb., November 24, 1908; that for the past six months or more they have been at Stuart, this county, and since their removal here he has refused to live with her or furnish her any means of support. The petition states that Taskey has conducted himself as an unmarried man since coming to this county and has "made love" to other women, naming one woman at Stuart as correspondent and alleging criminal acts.

She says the defendant has personal property and real estate to the value of $2,000, has an earning capacity of $60 per month and is the heir of an estate valued at $20,000. She asks for absolute divorce and alimony.
