The first of the largest guns ever constructed in the United States has just been removed from the workshops of the Washington navy yard preparatory to being mounted on one of the dreadnoughts. It measures 53 feet 6 inches in length, and weighs 65 tons. It has cost $74,700, and an additional $53,000 will be expended for the mounting. The shell discharged by the gun weighs 1,400 pounds. Including the shell and power it costs $700 for each discharge. The initial velocity of the shell leaving the gun is 2,600 feet a second. The shell is effective at a distance of 12 miles.

The Holy Land is a term used especially by christians to designate Palestine, as being the scene of the birth, ministry and death of Christ; but also ministry and death of Christ; but also employed by other religious sects to describe the places sacred to them from association. Thus, the Mohammedaus speak of Mecca as the Holy Land, it being the birthplace of Mohammed. The Chinese Buddhlsts call India the Holy Land, because the founder of their re-Land, because the founder of their re-ligion was born there; while the Greeks bestowed this same title on Elis, where was situated the temple of Olympian

There is a growing disposition on the part of ship owners and officers in var-ious parts of the world to send to China for complete crews. For most China for complete crews. For most ships, particularly when first employing such crews, it is necessary to carry about a third more Chinese for the same service. On the other hand there are many officers and owners who claim that with such additional allowance of help a vessel is run more easily and efficiently, and that, all things con-sidered, the Chinese sallor is the best all-round man aboard ship to be found

How times change, and people with them, is exemplified by a Paris contemporary, who announces a motor bus service between Jaffa and Jerusalem. To the person with old ideas a journey made by motor to the holy sepulcher seems little less than the abomination and desolation which the sacred was announces. The enterprise referred to and desolation which the sacred writer announces. The enterprise referred to above, if such a word can be used in dealing with things sacred, is due to the initiative of an Italian, and every day, as people of all nations ride through the valley of Jehosaphat, they will be reminded of the last judgment.

BOND AND LIKELY NOW IN HONDURAS

Nebraska Incendiary Rounds Up Property and Makes a Good Getaway.

Lincoln, Neb., Sept. 11.—Where is Theodore M. Stanisics, sentenced to serve seven years in the state penitentiary for complicity in arson and under $5,000 bond pending an appeal to the supreme court? It is believed Stanisics has fled to Honduras. He recently disposed of all his property, said to be worth about $70,000, and is known to have made inquiries among attorneys as to what countries had no extradi-tion laws. His friends say he will re-turn and that the Lion Bonding company, of Omaha, will not be called upon to pay the bond.

Stanisics was convicted of complicity Stanisics was convicted of complicity in the burning of the home of Roy Wilscam, a thoroughly sensational trial showing that the house had been burned for the sake of insurance.

Included in the property of which Stanisics has recently disposed, was a 440-acre farm in Lancaster county, sold to L. J. Dunn for $20,000.

sion will be granted. He was released.

Sentence was pronounced by Judge E. D. Kinkead in the criminal decision of the common pleas court. Diegle was alleged to have been the "go-between" for certain assemblymen. The bribes, it was charged, were offered by detectives in a room of a local hotel, while in an adjoining room other detectives and stenographers were secreted, recording the alleged bribery conversation through a telephone instrument called the "dictagraph."

The specific charge against Diegle was aiding and abetting the alleged bribery of Senator L. R. Andrews, of Lawrence county.

Diegle as he faced the judge seemed a broken man. His wife, sitting behind him, occasionally bent over to whisper encouragement, but she, too, showed traces of the ordeal through which she and her husband have passed. After hearing the judge's sentence, Diegle slumped forward in his chair and silently wept.
