What would have been thought a few years ago of those who ventured on the prediction that we should soon be relying for a great part of our winter butter supplies on shipments from the antipodes? For some little time past, however, this has been an accomplished however, this has been an accomplished fact. The only reason for commenting on it now is to refer to the remarkable developments which are constantly taking place in connection with it. For instance, a few days ago the Arawa arrived from New Zealand with the enormous cargo of 3,404,800 pounds of grass-fed butter. Times have changed since Byron wrote of the futility of seeking roses in December or ice in June; and who can say that the day will not come when we shall be able to calcine ice into gunpowder?

Perhaps the best word for the cry of the cricket is that of Tennyson. Not a cricket chirr'd," he writes in "In Memoriam." But Tenyson was always curiously exact in his vocal rendering of the songs of birds. What could be truer to sound than "the moan of doves in immemorial elms?" Then too the linnet, the robin and the thrush "pipe," the woodpecker "laughs" and "mocks," the lark and the plover "whistle," the jay "scritches," the parrot "screams," the peacock "squalls," the blackbird "warbles," while the ocean fowl "shrief" and the eagle "yelps."

A law has recently been enacted in Wisconsin authorizing the state to engage in the annuity and life insurance business after next year. The business is to be carried on under the management of the state insurance commissioner, and is to be conducted on the same lines as a mutual insurance corporation, but at an expense not to exceed $2 per $1,000 insurance. Premiums are to be calculated according to the American mortality table. Annuities are to range from $100 to $300, and life insurance policies from $500 to $3,000.

The new Year Book of the department of agriculture discloses an astonishing increase in the horse stock of the country during the last decade. It shows that in 1900 there were 15.-000,000 horses and 2,000,000 mules in the United States, and that 10 years later, or in 1940, there were 24,000,000 horses and 4,000,000 mules. These numbers are the targest on record in the history of the country. Compared with those of 10 years ago they show a gain of more than 50 per cent for the horses and 100 per cent for the mules.

Mrs. E. H. Harriman is said to insist that "left overs" be made use of both in foed and wearing apparel. RIGHTS OF THE ROAD DEFINED IN OPINION IN AUTOMOBILE CASE

Supreme Court Makes Driver Responsible to Keep Car in Full Control.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.-In sustaining a judgment of $4,500 against William Coon, a Lincoln automobile dealer, secured as damages for running down and killing a Miss Nellie Smith, the su-preme court of Nebraska, for the first time, lays down the precise law gov-erning the liability of drivers of auto-mobiles for injuries sustained by pedestrians. Here it is in brief:

"It is the duty of the driver of an automobile to see persons who are in automobile to see persons who are in the act of crossing the street at a proper crossing and his duty, when approaching the crossing to so operate his machine as to avoid injury to anyone. If he fails to comply with this provision of the law, he is liable forwhatever damages he may inflict.

"The driver of an automobile when approaching a crossing in the main business part of the city at a time when the streets are occupied by other vehicles and pedestrians, should have his automobile under control, should keep automobile under control, should keep a sharp lookout and should manage his

a sharp lookout and should manage his car as to its rate of speed and otherwise stop if necessary to avoid injuring any one who for any cause is found to be in a place of danger."

The significant part of this is that it holds that a driver must so control his machine as not only to be able to stop, but must stop. It holds that one who becomes frightened and bewildered at the near approach of an automobile while crossing a public street, and for that reason falls to avoid a collision, is not, as a matter of law, guilty of contributory negligence.

The court says that the fact that a person who discovers himself in a place of sudden danger is not presumed to negligently contribute to the accident if he turns the wrong way or hesitates or jumps one way when he should have jumped the other, for the reason that under such clrcumstances what he does is not done voluntarily, and the law under such circumstances what he does under such circumstances what he does is not done voluntarily, and the law does not require that he should exercise his best judgment. As to the respective rights of pedestrians and drivers, the court says:

"One has the right to assume that others will exercise care and caution to avoid injuring him, but there is imposed on him a corresponding duty to use due care for the safety of others. Thus, one in charge of an automobile is bound to exercise the care commensurate with the risk of injury to others. It is his duty to keep a vigorous watch surate with the risk of injury to others. It is his duty to keep a vigorous watch ahead for vehicles and pedestrians and on the first appearance of danger to take proper steps to avoid it."

In this case it was shown that Coon did not try to stop his machine, although he saw the girl hesitating and jumping back and forth in her bewilderment. As a matter of fact she jumped into his path. The court says that under such circumstances it was his duty to have had his machine under control and to have stopped. Coon his duty to have had his machine under control and to have stopped. Coon is a dealer in autos. At the same sitting the court sustained a judgment for $2,000 obtained by Mrs. Blado against Thomas Draper, a restaurant keeper, for injuring her by running his machine into her buggy while trying to avoid hitting a bicyclist.

GENERAL MANDERSON DIES ON HIGH SEAS

The Distinguished Nebraskan Breathes His Last On Atlantic Liner.

Omaha, Sept. 30-Gen. Charles Frederick Manderson, lawyer, soldier, author, lecturer, statesman and one of Omaha's most distinguished citizens, died yesterday on board the steamship Cedric, of the White Star line, en route from Liverpool to New York city.

The first announcement of the demise came late Thursday afternoon in the shape of a telegram to a friend of the family in Omaha. No particulars accompanied the message and it is assumed that death was unexpected and sudden sudden.

General and Mrs. Manderson, with Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Deitz, went abroad about three months ago. They toured Europe and intended to return to this Europe and intended to return to this country on the Olympic about a week ago with other Omahans, including the Deitz and Millard parties, but the steamship was rammed before it was out of sight of land and the passengers had to put back into port. This accident broke up the Nebraska party, which was compelled to divide and sail on separate steamers. General and Mrs. Manderson engaged passage on the Cedric.
