

One hundred cents for your dollar—

The price you pay for Peerless Prepared Roofing is based on what it costs to manufacture. The figure we ask is the lowest price that can be made, for actual cost of material and manufacture come so close that you'd be surprised to see how narrow our profit margin is. But we are satisfied—satisfied to give you one hundred cents' worth of roofing value for every dollar you spend—satisfied to sell you because we know that quality will bring you back for more.

Peerless Roofing

Peerless represents the absolute pinnacle of perfection in the manufacture of prepared roofing. All that years of experience, a modern manufacturing plant, skilled workmen, and the best material possible, can produce is offered under this brand. No man could ask more. You need not be satisfied with less.

Are you willing to spend a little time for the sake of finally and positively ending your roof troubles and expense? Then—come in and talk it over.

Opportunity Items.

Rain, rain, rain.
J. R. Getty and Ezra Thomas were seen at the ball game Saturday.
Mr. and Mrs. D. Weidfelt and Carl and Henry Weidfelt attended the ball game here Saturday.
Ben Powell and Antone Siversind took in the ball game here Saturday. They looked very happy, and judging from their comments on the crop prospects, they are certainly pleased with the rains we got last Thursday and Friday night.

The Opportunity ball team is now imbued with the propriety of effecting a permanent organization, if the talk among them on the subject last Saturday is a criterion, and we hope they will effect the same in time to be reported in our next items.

Getty Thomas is going to start for Wyoming soon, to take up a homestead there I understand. Judging from all reports we have heard from that state, all young men that have not used their homestead rights as yet, would do well to emulate his example.
The Star team crossed bats with the Opportunity team on the latters grounds in a nine inning game which resulted in a score of 13 to 7 in favor of Opportunity. The game was a one sided affair from the beginning until near the end, when the Star team rallied and run in a few scores, but the Opportunity team had too great a lead for them to overtake. Neither team seemed to be playing in their best form, and at times they failed to inspire the fans on the bleachers with a proper amount of enthusiasm when a good play was made. At times there was some excellent plays made, and others so very grotesque that inspired much noise and laughter from the spectators.

You can tell them also by the loud holler they put up when they pull of the deal against the man that raises an objection. They also yell that anyone that objects is killing the party. If they do not know who is killing the party it is because their whole system is so full of the idea that politics is simply a skin game and is not a business at all. The cobwebs will be lifted too late to save these fellows and they will see that government which they call politics is a business, not a skin game, and that it is the business of the people and will be run and operated upon as high a plane as any line of business.

It is amusing, if not astonishing, to hear these fellows who are, they think, helping the party every time they pull off something questionable, lay down the rule for those who have due regard for the party and party procedure. They say that any man who does not vote for a man who occupies a high place upon the ticket, should get out of the party. It is alright, though, if he scratched a candidate for a small office.

I heard some of those fellows fresh from the tactics employed to count votes from Francis, Inman, Ewing and Grattan, in which no caucuses were held, nor the semblance of a caucus, that they were proud of the part they took in the matter. Of course such men would not hesitate to vote the other two thirds of the townships of the county that were not represented at all if they needed them to select delegates to go to the state convention and holler that "Holt county is for Taft." The majority of the delegates that helped to send delegates to the state convention to misrepresent the republican sentiment of this county were honest, I take it, but were led to believe that the matter was all right.

AS SEEN BY A DELEGATE.

An Atkinson Delegate Gives His Impressions of the Convention.
Atkinson, Nebr., Aug. 22, 1912.

Editor Frontier: As a delegate to the late republican convention I desire to occupy a little of your space to tell how the proceedings of that convention appeared to me. I was amazed to witness the tactics employed by those who manipulated things to procure an apparent endorsement of the Chicago convention and its nominee in a county where I am positive the sentiment of the republicans, or at least 80 per cent of them, are opposed to it.

Will it help the standing of the delegates to the state convention, who really represent but a handful of the republican voters of the county, or add to their influence with republican voters here in the county, when the facts are known as to the methods used to secure the majority of the convention.

There was a time when political methods, farcial in nature, and devoid of everything pertaining to fair play, was suffered by the rank and file of all parties. Do the parties who manipulated at Chicago to overthrow the will of the great majority of the rank and file of the party, and who will still by unfair methods endorse the action of the Chicago convention by resolving and etc., know of the present widespread awakened public conscience, as evidenced by the states that are not entirely boss ridden enacting primary laws in the interest of pure politics? It seems that they do not. It used to be said that "everything was fair in politics." Who says that now? You can put a finger upon them whenever you see a crooked trick turned. Of course they do not say so in words, but "actions speak louder than words."

You can tell them also by the

loud holler they put up when they pull of the deal against the man that raises an objection. They also yell that anyone that objects is killing the party. If they do not know who is killing the party it is because their whole system is so full of the idea that politics is simply a skin game and is not a business at all. The cobwebs will be lifted too late to save these fellows and they will see that government which they call politics is a business, not a skin game, and that it is the business of the people and will be run and operated upon as high a plane as any line of business.

It is amusing, if not astonishing, to hear these fellows who are, they think, helping the party every time they pull off something questionable, lay down the rule for those who have due regard for the party and party procedure. They say that any man who does not vote for a man who occupies a high place upon the ticket, should get out of the party. It is alright, though, if he scratched a candidate for a small office.

Of course such men would not hesitate to vote the other two thirds of the townships of the county that were not represented at all if they needed them to select delegates to go to the state convention and holler that "Holt county is for Taft." The majority of the delegates that helped to send delegates to the state convention to misrepresent the republican sentiment of this county were honest, I take it, but were led to believe that the matter was all right.

In our opinion the only pleasing feature of the convention was the manly stand taken by the editor of The Frontier and Judge Carlson when they objected to what was on its face the unfair tactics employed in making the temporary organization. It is the kind of action the voters will hereafter demand.

Yours Truly,
A DELEGATE.
