For Sale—440 acres of good land, 13 miles northwest of O'Neill. Farm, pasture and hay land. Running water on the place. Would make an ideal dairy farm. Will give some one a bargain if taken before November 1st. For particulars write—Mat Cleary, Emmet, Nebr. 14-7

Running up and down stairs, sweeping and bending over making beds will not make a woman healthy or beautiful. She must get out of doors, walk a mile or two every day and take Chamberlain's Tablets to improve her ingestion and regulate her bowels. For sale by all dealers.

Andrew Mulligan arrived in the city last Friday from King, Cherry county, and is spending a few days visiting old time friends in this city and vicinity. Mr. Mulligan has a homestead in Cherry county and says that everything is prosperous in that section of the state.

It seems like old times to see Doc Mathews hobnobbing with the boys around the First National Bank corner the past four or five nights, and to hear the stories told by the old timers must make the young fellows of today feel that they live in a very quiet and peaceable time

The implicit confidence that many people have in Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is founded on their experiences in the use of that remedy and their knowledge of the many remarkable cures of colic, diarrhoea and dysentery that it has effected. For sale by all dealers

Few, if any, medicines, have met with the uniform success that has attended the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The remarkable cures of colic and diarrhoea which it has effected in almost every neighborhood have given it a wide reputation. For sale by all dealers.

Dott M. Schultz has filed suit for divorce from Fred C. Schultz in the district court, on the grounds of extreme cruelty. She alleges that they were married in Fremont, Nebr., on September 3, 1906, and that they have been residents of this county for more than two years past. She asks the custody of their minor child, who is five years of age.

An article that has real merits should in time become popular. That such is the case with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been attested by many dealers. Here is one of them. H. W. Hendrickson, Ohio Falls, Ind., writes, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best for coughs, colds and croup, and is my best seller." For sale by all dealers.

A large number of O'Neill people attended the annual fall festival held at Page last Friday and Saturday. The weather man did not treat our neighbors very nicely, as it was cold and wet both days, but those that attended say they had an enjoyable time and that the citizens of that hustling little burg had made splendid arrangements for the amusement of the crowd, and that the various sports were pulled, off despite the weather.

Governor Aldrich refused to issue a requisition for the return of Joe McHugh from Missouri to this state. McHugh was wanted as a witness in the case of the state of Nebraska vs John Carr and was out on $400 cash bond, which he forfeited. A complaint was also filed charging him having obtained money under false pretense, but the complaining witness dropped this charge against him and the other offense not making him a fugitive from justice, the requisition was denied.

Last week Harrington & Daly sold the Edward Tighe ranch, located sixteen miles northeast of this city to Richard Baden of Council Bluffs, Iowa, for $93,000.00. This is one of the finest ranches in Holt county and contains 3120 acres. Mr. Tighe purchased this from Judge Harrington some ten years ago and has made a very nice profit upon his investment, more than doubling his money. Mr. Baden will stock the ranch and his sons will move thereon in the spring. Mr. Tighe gets some Iowa land in the deal and he will move to Iowa in the spring and make his residence on the land acquired in the deal.

Col. Barney Stewart, the hustling auctioneer from Page, was in the city Tuesday. The Colonel returned about a month ago from a visit to his old home in Kentucky and is chuck full of stories regarding that section of the United States. He says that it was his first visit to the land of his nativity since he shook the dust of the southland from his shoes and moved to Holt county thirty-five years ago. The old place does not look the same and most of the friends of his youth he found were laid away in the cemetery, and, the Colonel added, most of them died with their boots on. Barney says that he has no more use for that country and was mighty glad to get back to old Holt, the paradise of the best state in the union.

Hugh McKenna returned home last Saturday night with his pacer, Nabisco, that he has been campaigning in the eastern part of the state and through Iowa. Hugh had a very successful season with his horse but encountered a little bad luck last week. He shipped his horse from Lincoln to Sioux City and on the way up the car which contained the horse was bumped so hard that it threw the horse against the end of the car, breaking his jaw. He was then compelled to ship the horse home. He was in good condition at the time of the accident and Hugh expected to get away with a bunch of the "colin" at Sioux City as it was the meet he had been nursing his horse for. Whether it will affect the horse in the future or not can not be determined until the fracture has healed.

Lincoln News: The opinion expressed by the head of the bureau of animal industry that the disease prevalent among the horses of Nebraska is undoubtedly due to forage poisoning is not agreed to by the state veterinarian, and in this he is backed up by the experts in the Kansas agricultural college. The question of what the trouble is is very important, since it must be definitely settled before any method of combating it can be devised. The Kansas man says that it is clearly cerebro-spinal meningitis, for which there is no known cure. He thinks also that a number of horses have died because they were dosed with medicine or bleed. The disease is confined entirely to horses and mules, and so far in Kansas at least no case has been discovered among cattle. Quarantining against the disease is also declared to be useless. The only way the disease can be controlled is by a bacterin or serum, and that is what the experts are hunting.

Henry T. Clark, Jr., member of the state railway commission, with his stenographer, Miss Emma J. Hedges, was in the city last Tuesday hearing the case of Joseph McCaffery, who has petitioned the commission for a transfer switch here so that cars could be transferred from the Burlington to the Northwestern, and then shipped on west. Mr. McCaffery alleged that the switch would give them cheaper freight rates at Emmet as it would enable them to ship grain from stations from points on the Burlington that are now inaccessible to them. He said that the last shipment of corn that he made to Emmet cost him ten cents more than he could have bought the same laid down in O'Neill for. Many shippers were present from the Burlington line from Page, Orchard, Royal and Brunswick and from the Northwestern line from Emmet, Atkinson, Stuart, Basset and Newport. The Northwestern and Burlington were also well represented at the hearing. There were present for the Northwestern: Supt. Reynolds of Norfolk, E. R. Butler of Omaha, and Herman Aye of Omaha. For the Burlington there were present: W. W. Johnson, Attorney and J. P. Hickox, Attorney W. E. Scott of Atkinson represented the shippers. The hearing occupied all day and the commission will announce their ruling upon the matter in the next sixty days after the evidence has been transcribed and passed upon by the entire commission. The consensus of opinion among those who heard all the evidence in the case is that the commission will compel the railroad companies to put in the switch.

W. D. Mathews, who came to Holt county thirty-three years ago from Wisconsin established the Frontier and who was a resident of this county for nearly twenty years, arrived in the city last Thursday from Memphis, Tenn., and has been visiting old time friends in this city and vicinity. "Doc," as he is familiarly and lovingly called by old time friends, was one of the greatest boosters who ever pitched his tent in this county and one of the brightest country editors who ever wielded a shears or handled a paste pot. He ran the Frontier for years and finally disposed of the paper to James H. Riggs and moved to Fremont where he engaged in the loan business. In a few years he was back to "Gods Country", as he lovingly christened this part of the state shortly after locating here. Upon his return he established The Free Press which he successfully conducted for a few years when he suspended publication of the paper in order to devote his entire time to the money loaning business which he had established. Shortly thereafter he established the O'Neill State Bank. This was about the time of the commencing of the drought period and while the bank did not fall none of the stockholders made any money and it was finally sold to an eastern capitalist who conducted it for a few years and then liquidated. In 1894 Doc moved to Stuttgart, Arkansas, where he again entered the newspaper business and published one of the snappiest papers ever published in Arkansas. Disposing of his interests there he went to Little Rock, Arkansas, where he established the State Republican and tried for about two years to convert the heathen southern democrats to see the light according to the teachings of the republican party. Doc failed in this that is in converting them to republicanism but they converted him and he has since been an enthusiastic democrat. He disposed of his newspaper there and moved to Alton, Ill., where he entered the employ of an eastern insurance company and has been coining money ever since. He is now located in Memphis Tennessee, and is state agent for one of the oldline insurance companies and is getting both corpulent and wealthy. During the past few days Doc has had a splendid time with the old timers talking about the good old times some thirty odd years ago. They were strenuous times in the newspaper business and as Doc demanded, he had his share of enemies but had also as warm, staunch and admiring friends as any man who ever lived in this section. It is eighteen years this fall since he left the Emerald Tinted city and he says that it seems awful good to get back again among the old timers and the old timers are all glad to see Doc. He says that the old town looks good and that this country is just beginning to make good for the faith the old timers had in it. He promised to write an article for The Frontier upon his return home when he will give his impressions of this city and county after an absence of eighteen years.

Obituary.

Mrs. Margaret Sullivan wife of Michael Sullivan died at her home two and a half miles southeast of this city last Tuesday afternoon, after an illness of five weeks from ailments incident to old age.

Margaret McCarthy was born in County Cork, Ireland, in December, 1827 and was nearly 85 years of age at the time of her death. She moved with her parents to Canada when a young lady and was married to Michael Sullivan at St. Johns Canada, in 1859. Shortly after her marriage they removed to Portland, Maine, where they resided a few years and then moved to Pennsylvania where they resided until 1890 when they removed to this county and settled upon the farm southeast of this city where she lived up to the time of her death.

Deceased was one of the pioneers of this county having lived near this city for over thirty-two years.

After a long, busy and useful life she died as she had lived honored, trusted and loved. She reared her own monument while she lived in the heart of all who knew her. Her life was completed if work all done and well done constitutes completion. Her Christian life was beautiful from its beginning to its close throughout all the vicissitudes and sorrow that she met in the way, her faith in God never wavered. But she has left us and today the autumn leaves fall upon another grave that hides from our sight all that is mortal of a true and noble woman.

Life will never be quite the same to those who knew her, while those who were nearest her will long for her with unutterable longings-long for a mother's council and advice and for a wife's gentle and loving sympathy. Especially hard will it be upon her aged husband who has been her daily companion for fifty-three years and the sympathy of all his friends go out to him in this hour of his sorrow for the loss of his beloved companion she was a woman of strong Christian character; patient, loving and self sacrificing.

Besides her aged husband she leaves four children to mourn her departure from this life. They are: Mrs. D. L. Spellman of Omaha; Mrs. Myron Sparks of this city; Mrs. Joe Dwyer of Denver; and John Sullivan of this city, all of whom were present at the funeral. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock this morning from the St. Patrick's church and was largely attended.
