The people of California are making it very plain that they have no love for the Japs.

Governor Morehead during the last campaign severely censured Governor Aldrich for vetoing so many measures passed by the legislature, intimating that he did not believe in the governor using the veto power. But he is now governor and he vetoed six measures passed by the last legislature. It appears to make some difference as to who has the veto power.

President Wilson sent his secretary of state, W. J. Bryan, to California this week to plead with the California legislature and try and prevent them from passing a law preventing aliens—aimed principally at the Japanese and Chinese—from acquiring land in that state. The members of the legislature listened very attentively to the message from the president and then the senate passed the alien land law. The president might have had better success had he sent Teddy as his emissary.

Among the many able men in the last legislature Representative J. J. McAllister of Dakota county stands close to the head of the class. Mr. McAllister was the ablest orator in the house and when he rose to speak was always listened to with close attention for he always had something to say and clothed his thoughts in such pure English that it was always a pleasure to hear him. He was one of the strongest men on the democratic side and could always be found on the right side of every question. The people of Dakota county can well feel proud of their representative in the Thirty-third session of the Nebraska legislature.

The voters of the state will be asked to ratify or reject one appropriation made by the last legislature as arrangements are now under way to have it submitted to a referendum vote of the people at the next general election, in 1914. This is the appropriation of $20,000 for an armory building at Nebraska City. If this one grab at the pork barrel was all, it would probably be allowed to stand without objection, but as there are twenty-two militia companies in the state and if one is entitled to have an armory they all should have and the building of an armory for each company in the state would entail an expenditure of nearly a half million dollars of the peoples' money. On this account many of those who opposed the appropriation in the house will assist in circulating the petitions necessary for a referendum vote.

Because he refused to get out and lobby against the insurance bill during the last session of the legislature, at the request of the state auditor, L. G. Brian, who has been insurance deputy under Auditor Howard since the first of the year, was fired by the state auditor the first of the month. While no one questioned the right of the auditor to remove any of his office help at any time he so desires his action in discharging Mr. Brian for the reason will not make him any friends in the state who know the reasons for the act. Most people believe that the state officers have enough to do looking after their official position without trying to influence legislation and the action of the auditor in trying to kill the insurance bill won support for it in the house, as many members resented his attempt to influence their vote on the measure.

The father-in-law of Bryan, Jr., evidently has not much faith in democracy. He was engaged in the milling business in Wisconsin and last week closed down his mills giving as a reason that if he did not do so now he would be compelled to after the democratic tariff bill was enacted into law.

Brick From Sand

Ainsworth Star-Journal: Richard Osborn of this city brought into this office this week a sample of brick made from pure sand by an electric process. John Roach and Mr. Osborn have been experimenting for several months and after making sure that they had a cheap way of making a first class brick, they applied for a patent and obtained it, and now the only question that bothers them is capital. Ainsworth has the power, the material and the territory for the manufacture of this kind of brick and tile, on a large scale, and only lacks the capital and men skilled in manufacturing to become the center of what looks like a mammoth business which would be of untold value to Ainsworth and surrounding country. A company of capitalists in Dakota have offered to buy and are trying to secure the exclusive right of the entire United States to the manufacture of brick made under this patent, but the patentees have refused, awaiting developments looking to the establishment of a factory. They have granted the "right" to this company of three states.

By this method 600 pounds of sand can be made into brick or tile for fifteen cents, as compared with fifty-five cents the cost of cement or concrete, and can be ready for use in thirty minutes. They are non-conductors of electricity and are not affected by change of temperature.

It certainly looks like a fine thing for this sand country and we hope that enough men of capital can be interested to investigate this matter and if plausible put some of this water power into a use that will make money for this city and country.

At the Opera House

The annual visit of the popular Chase-Lister Co., will occur at the opera house on Friday night, May 2. The company remains only one night this time and will present for the first time here that latest and best comedy drama, "A Country Boy." The company has just closed a nineteen weeks stock engagement at Butte, Montana, and is on the way east before closing the season. Of all the plays presented at Butte, "A Country Boy" proved to be one of the most pleasing and satisfactory. It contains an excellent story and plenty of comedy, two elements which always produce a successful play. All the old favorites are with the company, including Clint and Bessie Robbins, and a new and pleasing line of specialties will be introduced during the action of the play. The prices are always the same, 25 35-50c. Seats at the usual place.
