The case against Floyd Montgomery charged with shooting a horse belonging to George Gaughenbaugh was dismissed in district court by the county attorney last Wednesday, Montgomery was a young man who was employed in the Burlington depot last year and last June he shot a horse belonging to Gaughenbaugh. He had a hearing before the county judge and was bound over to the district court. We understand that his relatives made good to Mr. Gaughenbaugh and the case was dismissed.

Stanton Pickett: The Fremont Commercial club and other commercial clubs all over the country are advocating strongly the plan of cutting out all illegitimate advertising schemes, such as hotel register ads., cheap programs and fakirschemes and invest the money in newspaper advertising. The towns and cities that are known on the map are those that support their newspapers liberally. If you want to know if a town is a live one, look at its newspaper. A paper that contains few home ads. is a sure index to a back-number city.

W. P. Davis arrived in the city last Friday evening from Vancouver, B. C., for a few weeks visit at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Davis. Mr. Davis is a linotype operator on one of the Vancouver dailies and is spending his summer vacation at home. This is his first visit to O'Neill in eight years and he says that he can hardly realize that it is the same old town, on account of the many improvements made here during the past few years, but the old timers he has met, he says, do not look a day older than they did eight years ago.

Last Saturday John L. Chmeler of Elgin, Neb., purchased the Davison harness shop on east Douglas street, taking possession at once. Mr. Chmeler is an experienced harness maker and says that it will always be his aim to furnish his patrons with the best harness that can be manufactured for the money. He has something to say to the readers of the Frontier in another column. The Frontier welcomes him to the ranks of O'Neill's business men. Davison will leave here next week for Oregon, where he expects to make his future home. His many friends wish for him and Mrs. Davison prosperity and happiness in their new location.

Gerald Harrington took the examination for admission to the bar in Lincoln last Tuesday and passed and is now a full fledged attorney.

Fire destroyed William Fallon's barn, just north of his residence, last Monday forenoon. A heavy wind was blowing from the south at the time and the fire had gained such headway before the alarm was given that the barn was practically destroyed when the fire department reached there.

James McManis of West Union, Ohio, cashier of the First National bank of that city, was in the city last Saturday and Sunday visiting at the homes of his cousins, Mrs. J. P. Gilligan and C. E. Stout. Mr. McManis was on his way home from Wyoming and stopped off here for a few days visit. This was his first visit to this section of Nebraska and he says he is sorry that he did not come out here twenty years sooner as he was very favorable impressed with the looks of O'Neill and this section of the country. Mr. McManis left for his Oldo home last Monday morning.

A delegation of ball players, under the leadership of Eddie Tomsick, went up to Atkinson last Sunday afternoon and went down to defeat before the Atkinson aggregation by a score of 12 to 5. Those who witnessed the game say that it was much better than the score would indicate and that outside of a couple of innings it was a fairly interesting game. A return game will be played in this city next Sunday afternoon and the O'Neill boys say that they will try and redeem their reputation by hanging the defeat sign upon the boys from Atkinson.

Robert Cook and Miss Zella May Simmons were united in marriage by Rev. E. M. Gleason at the Catholic church in this city yesterday morning at 7:30 in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cook and is a native of this county and is one of our hustling young farmers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sheridan Simmons and was born and grew to woman hood in this city. The young couple will go to housekeeping at once on the old Sullivan farm northeast of this city. The Frontier extends its congratulations.

The forepart of last week F. J. Dishner, C. E. Downey and Frank Campbell, as-representatives of the O'Neill Commercial Club, marked the auto road from near Page to a few miles west of Emmet, marking twenty-seven miles in all. The mark of the road is a blue stripe on a pole with white on top and below. This road is called the blue pole line and is marked in this manner from Omaha to the Black Hills. Auto drivers say that this is the best road to the Black Hills in the state and expect it to be liberally used by motorists this summer. Any person desiring any information concerning the road can secure same by writing to F. J. Dishner, O'Neill.

District Court.

The regular spring term of district court convened in this city last Monday morning, with Judge Dickson presiding, C. B. Scott as court reporter and Col. Harney Stewart of Page, and P. C. Donohoe of this city as bailiffs.

The first jury case tried was that of George Reeve and George Reeve by his next best friend Philip Sheridan Simmons against Edmund H. Clark which occupied the attention of the court and jury nearly three days, the case going to the jury at 3:30 Wednesday-afternoon. They reached a verdict about midnight and brought a sealed verdict into court the next morning, finding for the plaintiff and fixed his damage at $3,000.

This case was filed on December 6, 1911. In his petition Reeve alleged that he had been adjudged incompetent to manage his own affairs by the county court of Holt county, but has since been declared sane by insanity board and is now sane. He alleged that he has a guardian but that said guardian declined to commence or prosecute this action for damages, and for that reason selected Philip Sheridan Simmons as his next best friend for the purpose of commencing and prosecuting this action. He alleges that on and prior to the 14th day of October, 1910 the defendant was the owner and manager of a two story building in the unincorporated village of Inman. That the plaintiff lodged in said building in a room on the second story thereof as a tenant of said defendant. That defendant slept in his room on the night of October 13, 1910, and left the building early on the morning of the 14th to go to his work. He further alleges that he was very busy with his work all day and did not return to his room until after dark on the evening of said day. That when he left the building in the morning the second floor thereof was in a safe condition; that when he returned to the building in the evening to go to his room the second floor was in a dangerous condition, in that an opening had been cut in said floor eight feet long and three and a half feet wide. That he had no knowledge that said opening had been cut and in going to his room he fell through said opening to the first floor of said building which fall caused him permanent mental and bodily injury. That, by reason of said injuries he has been permanently incapacitated from any kind of manual labor and is now only able to walk with the aid of crutches. That he has suffered and is now suffering great physical pain and distress and his mind and mental faculties have been greatly injured and impaired thereby.

He further alleged that at the time of the injury he was an able bodied man capable of earning $2.00 per day and was 54 years of age. He asked judgment for $15,000 with interest from the 14th day of October, 1910, and costs of suit.

The case of George Bowden vs. the McCault-Webster Elevator Co., was taken up Wednesday afternoon and is now being tried. This case is an appeal from the County court of Holt county where Bowden received a verdict against the company for $350. The case was started in the county court on May 4, 1912. From the petition it appears that Bowden purchased a car load of corn from the defendants in April, at an agreed price of 73 cents per bushel. The company guaranteeing the corn to be first class. Bowden alleged that when the corn arrived it was not first class but was wet and mouldy and was not worth to exceed 40 cents per bushel. The grain was shipped with a bill of lading for $922.70, which Bowden paid. He brought suit for $500 damages. When the case came up in county court on July 30, 1912, Bowden filed an amended petition in which he alleged that the corn was worth not to exceed 50 cents per bushel. That he paid for 1255 bushels of corn and that there was but 1088 bushels in the car, being short 167 bushels. That by reason of such shortage he was defrauded out of $122.75 and that he was damaged in sum of $255.68, making a total $378.43, for which he asks judgment.

Wait Mason: Old Mr. Parr, he bought a car, and said: "I'll travel slowly; these cranks for speed are fools indeed; their conduct is unholy." With care he went nor cared a cent in frantic speed to revel, and people said the old man's head was noticeably level. For quite a week old Parr was meek and slow and mighty cautious, and then he said: "We'll put ahead a bit or folks will josh us." But careful still he ran down hill and courted no disaster for one week more, and then he tore along a little faster. A month was gone. "So help me John," old Parr was sadly drawing, "I don't like speed—I don't indeed—but we are merely crawling! I didn't get this car to fret along like this, dod gast us! So let her rip along this trip—the snails are whizzing past us! He woke in bed with bannaged head and, docs and nurses handy, and ere he died he sweetly sighed: "That auto is a dandy!"
