MINOR MENTION

Last Week this office received a letter from C. L. Bright who is now living in Los Angeles, Cal. Charley says that he did not know whether he would ever get enough money together to get back here again or not, and says that for a while at least he wasn't anxious to come back as everything was fine in Los Angeles and he was in love with the country. He says that the hottest it has been there is 90 in the shade and there is always a cool breeze blowing, which makes it very comfortable. He is living one block from the home of E. Kline, formerly of this city, and says that Mr. and Mrs. Kline and family are well and enjoying good health.

M. Dowling of Omaha, president of the O'Neill National bank, and H. P. Dowling, president of the Shelby State Bank, of Harlan, Iowa, and one of the stockholders in the O'Neill National, arrived in the city last Monday afternoon for a few days visit and to look after business matters. Harry has been at Harlan a little over two years and is president of one of the largest banks in that section of the state. At the time of their last statement, June 28th last, their footings were $990,273.41, which is a splendid showing for a bank in a town the size of Harlan, a town of about 4,000 people. Harry's many Holt county friends will be pleased to learn of his success in the financial world.

At a special election, held on July 15th, the people of the village of Atkinson voted to adopt the referendum system of government for the conduct of their affairs. The referendum was adopted with a majority of three votes. Bonds for the extension of their water system were defeated by one vote. We understand that they will have another election the forepart of August, under the referendum, to decide whether intoxicating liquors will be sold in the village the balance of the fiscal year or not. At the village election last spring the village voted dry but some are of the opinion that a sufficient number of voters have changed their minds since then that the town will vote wet at the next election.

One of the most universal of customs when a prominent man dies is the hoisting of flags on public buildings only part of the way up the flagpoles. This is known as "half-mast;" but how many know what the custom means or how it originated? To begin with this custom was a military one. Ever since flags were used in war it has been the custom to have the flag of the superior or conquering nation above that of the inferior or vanquished. When an army found itself hopelessly beaten it hauled down its flag far enough for the flag of the victors to be placed above it on the same pole. This was a token, not only of submission but of respect. In like manner when a famous soldier died, flags were lowered not only to indicate respect to his memory, but to show that he had succumbed to the great conqueror of all death—for whom flag space was metaphorically left at the top of the flagstaff.

The base ball game at Emmet last Sunday, between Atkinson and Emmet, to decide which had the best team in western Holt, was the magnet that drew hundreds of people from this city and surrounding country to the little village of Emmet last Sunday afternoon. Each team had won a game previously and the one Sunday was the deciding one between the two teams and a good game was looked for and the spectators witnessed a good game, even if the score was a little one sided, 9 to 2 in favor of Emmet. Corey, the left handed twirler, who was on the mound for Emmet, was the whole show and had the Atkinson sluggers eating out of his hand all the way through. They were able to connect with his delivery for only three hits and he was entitled to a shut out. Corey had good control and his curves were breaking nicely and the heavy sluggers from Atkinson were wildly swinging at the air in an attempt to hit the elusive sphere. The game pitched by Corey was one of the best we have seen pitched in this section of the state for years, as he fanned 15 men during the engagement. With good support he would be a hard pitcher for any team in this section of the state to defeat. Kirkland was on the mound for Atkinson, and was touched up for twelve hits. It is but fair to Kirkland, however, to say that he was not feeling well and in no condition to pitch the game but done the best he could. His control was poor and his curves refused to break and the Emmet boys

QUAKER GIRLS ORCHESTRA.

THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD.

"Quaker Girls' Orchestra" to Visit Our Town.

"Who are the men?" That is one of the questions asked by many who see the picture of the Quaker Girls' Orchestra for the first time. We will try to explain. This is a company of eight people—all ladies and gentlemen of rare talent, culture and refinement. The name is taken from the five ladies of the company, the original Quaker Girls, who appear in a pleasing variety of musical numbers and sketches. For this season the company will be augmented by the addition of Ralph E. Bolleau of Chicago, baritone; Herbert J. Nelson, "cellist and clarinetist, and Harry Du Boff, Russian violinist, thus making an aggregation of talent unique in Chautauqua history. The appearance of the five dainty, petite little Quakeresses in their musical and dramatic "stunts" cannot fail to please, while the heavier solo and ensemble musical numbers leave nothing to be desired from that angle. Altogether, it makes possible a program that is little short of marvelous in its versatility.

CHAUTAUQUA SEASON TICKETS

There have been many inquiries the past few days, concerning the matter of admission fees to the Chautauqua that is soon to be opened in our city.

There are two plans whereby one may gain admittance to the sessions; that is, by season ticket and by single admission ticket.

There will be three or four entertainments each day, usually two in the afternoon and two in the evening.

You can buy a ticket admitting you to a single session or you can get a season ticket good for all the programs throughout the Chautauqua. The latter can be bought at a saving of from one-half to two-thirds over the single admission plan.

We strongly advise our readers to buy a season ticket for each member of the family, and all go.

Let us put forth a united effort in order that we may have a great Chautauqua.

Get tickets now! The committee has them. Any business man can tell you where to go to find them.

The committee has only a limited time in which to sell these tickets at the present price. When the big tent arrives and the Chautauqua crew is on the ground, the price will be advanced.

Buy now and save money.

landed for good hard drives almost at will. Eddie Alberts caught for Emmet and put up a nice game of backstopping, as usual. Arthur Ryan umpired the game and gave good satisfaction to the ball players and spectators.

Fair Association Organized.

About thirty citizens of this city met last Friday evening in the office of J. A. Donohoe and organized the Holt County Agricultural Society and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: Ed. F. Gallagher, president; C. E. Stout, vice president; O. O. Snyder, treasurer; F. J. Dishner, secretary. Board of directors: T. V. Golden, M. H. McCarthy, J. A. Donohoe, J. F. O'Donnell and C. E. Downey.

Since the old Holt county Agricultural Society, organized here a good many years ago, went out of existence the South Fork Agricultural Society has been receiving the county aid voted each year by the county board for the encouragement of county fairs. At the last session of the legislature a new law was enacted, which went into effect at midnight on July 16, which provides that the county board shall vote to the president of an agricultural society, organized for the improvement of agriculture in the county, which shall consist of twenty or more members who shall have paid into the treasury of the society the sum of $50, a sum of five cents for each inhabitant of the county, based upon the last vote cast for congressman in said county, allowing five inhabitants to each vote. The county aid under this law will amount to $875 this year. Whether this amount will be paid to the South Fork Fair or to the newly organized Holt county Agricultural Society will probably be determined by the county board at their next regular meeting.

The officers of the society expect to hold annual fairs in this county each year, and to erect suitable buildings upon the fair grounds for the accommodation of the people and the exhibits that will be brought here for display. It is a worthy enterprise and one that should be encouraged by all citizens of the county.

Card of Thanks.

There are hours that come into the lives of some, when every impulse of the heart is buried under its weight of sorrow. We stand there today; yet we would fain give expression to the gratitude that wells up from the depths of our hearts as we remember the kindness of the many friends in O'Neill who done so much to comfort us in the hour of our affliction, and assisted at the burial of our beloved wife, daughter and sister.

Michael Holland and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Flynn, Mrs. Ed. McLaughlin.

NOTICE.

All persons owing the Golden Furniture and Hardware are hereby notified that I intend to commence suit on all unpaid accounts unless paid or adjusted by July 29. This is the final notice.

Federal Game Law.

The national congress has passed a game law that will be effective October 1, next. Most of the states now have game laws but in many of them they are not enforced and to prevent the ruthless slaughter of wild game congress enacted the federal law. The states are divided into two zones, northern and southern. Nebraska is in the northern zone and the following from the secretary of the American Protective Game association will be one of interest to our readers:

The shooting season fixed for these two zones varies according to the four classifications of migratory birds that have been made, as will be seen later. The zones thus established take the place of fifty similar districts, now existing under the statutes of several states.

By way of summarization the following statements may be made:

1—Exceptions have been made in both zones for numerous reasons, but in most cases the closed season takes the average of the existing laws of the states in the particular zones in which they are located.

2—There has been more cutting down on the closing than the opening dates of the shooting season as they now exist.

3—In most cases three months of open shooting are allowed for water fowl and in some cases as much as three and one-half months.

4—Spring shooting is absolutely prohibited.

5—Shooting of migratory birds between sunset and sunrise is likewise prohibited.

6—In no case will there be less than thirty days when birds may be shot during the period of their greatest abundance.

WHEN SHOOTING IS PERMITTED

- 1—Water fowl.....Sept 1-Dec. 15
2—Rail.....Sept 1-Dec. 1
3—Woodcock.....Oct 1-Dec. 1
4—Short birds.....Sept 1-Dec. 15
No shooting whatever is allowed on cranes, or the columbidae-doves, pigeons, etc.

A closed season until September 1, 1918, is established for band-tailed pigeons, little brown, sandhill and whooping cranes, swans, curlews, all short birds except black breasted and golden plover, Wilson or jack snipe, wood duck, greater and lesser yellow legs.

Insectivorous birds, including robins, larks, etc are protected at all times in all states and similar protection is given the smaller short birds and other species which have been greatly reduced in numbers.

A novel and important feature is the prohibition of hunting on the great rivers of the country except during November and December. Prohibited territory designated by the regulation in this instance is as follows:

- 1—Mississippi river from New Orleans to Minneapolis.
2—Ohio river from its mouth to Pittsburg.
3—Missouri river between its mouth and Bismark, N. D.

Under the provisions of the Weeks-McLean law three months are given from the time these regulations are made public until they are presented to the president for approval and finally adopted. It is also provided that public hearings may be had if deemed proper and it is assumed that these very probably will be held.

Surprising Cure of Stomach Trouble

When you have trouble with your stomach or chronic constipation, don't imagine that your case is beyond help just because your doctor fails to give you relief. Mrs. G. Stengle, Plainfield, N. J., writes, "For over a month past I have been troubled with my stomach. Everything I ate upset it terribly. One of Chamberlain's advertising booklets came to me. After reading a few of the letters from people who have been cured by Chamberlain's Tablets I decided to try them. I have taken nearly three-fourths of a package of them and can now eat almost everything that I want." For sale by all dealers. Adv

CURE FOR THE BLUES.

Noted Lecturer Says Totten, the Magician, Has the Most Effective Cure.

In writing to Mr. Totten's manager, Edward A. Wiggam says of the great magician: "He is doing more to cure the blues over this country than any man I know of. I have followed him four years on lecture courses. I know more about his work than anybody living, although I have never met him in the flesh; but I know him just the same." He then goes on to say that Totten has cured more dyspepsia throughout the United States than all the doctors and patent medicines combined, and that he catches the hypochondriac off his guard and yanks him out of the depths and into sunshine before he knows what has happened. Take a "Totten treatment" at the Chautauqua this summer.

CORNET SOLOIST AT AGE OF 11

Signor Circillo Won Distinction at Tender Age.

IS FAMOUS BAND LEADER.

Comes Here This Summer With His Celebrated Organization—Will Be Feature of Chautauqua.

Signor Salvatore Circillo was a precocious youngster, especially among musical lines. At the age of eleven years, fame had already come to him as the cornet soloist of the Genoa (Italy) Municipal Band. At eighteen years of age he had won renown as the assistant director of the Fifty-fifth and Sixty-third regiment bands in Italy.

CIRCILLO.

Nine years ago Signor Circillo took up his residence in Cleveland, where his talents and abilities received quick recognition from press and public alike. He has surrounded himself with a most capable company of musicians, most of whom have been associated with him on concert tours for several years. This long artistic association, together with Signor Circillo's thorough knowledge of music and his remarkable directorial abilities, insures music of the highest order from his celebrated organization, and is responsible for the praise that he and his band have received wherever they have played.

It is a tiny little book, only five and a half inches long and three and a half inches wide. It is bound in bright red morocco leather, with the word "Bible" printed in diminutive gold letters on the back. But one does not see that red morocco cover unless he removes the little black leather slip which protects it. Long, long ago the little red Bible began to show wear. And then the black leather slip was made to protect it—so long ago, in fact, that fifteen of those covers, made to protect the venerated little volume, were worn out in the service.

It is without doubt one of the oldest Bibles, if not the very oldest Bible, connected with the government and is certainly the most historical. It is the book upon which since 1800 every chief justice—with the single exception of Chief Justice Chase—and every member of the supreme court has taken the oath of allegiance when accepting his appointment to our highest tribunal. More than that, every attorney who has practiced before the supreme court since that date, 1800, has pledged his allegiance over the little volume—all, with one exception also, and that exception was Daniel Webster.

It is told even yet of the supreme court of that day that Mr. Webster's fame as an orator had so preceded him that on the occasion when he came to argue his first case before the court the clerk, Mr. Caldwell, in his eagerness to hear the great speaker, forgot to administer the oath.

Unmasked.

"Did you ever stop to think what little things betray one's station in life?" said a woman as she watched the crowd come and go in a restaurant.

Two stylishly gowned young women who had just come in had removed their gloves. When they entered every body took notice. When they took off their gloves they revealed cheap rings on their fingers. Had they worn no jewels there would still have been a doubt as to their position. As it was, their knowledge as to the latest cut in gowns did not make up for their deficiency of taste in the matter of jewels.—New York Sun.

Ears of Animals.

The ears of the tigers, foxes, wolves, cats and other beasts of prey bend forward, while the ears of animals of flight, such as hares, rabbits, deer, etc., bend backward. This is because the ears of beasts of prey are designed for the purpose of collecting sounds in the direction taken by the animal in pursuit of its prey. The ears of an animal of flight, by turning backward, enable it to hear the sounds made by a pursuer.
