O. W. Baker and P. J. Kennedy have returned from Omaha, where they had been receiving medical treatment for the past three weeks.

D. D. Robertson and family have left this section of the county and will live 25 miles northeast of O'Neill.

Irwin Kellogg has gone to Milwaukee to visit for an indefinite period. His father accompanied him as far as O'Neill.

P. J. Kennedy has a cow which, on the morning of January 30, presented him with three calves. They are smaller than the average calf, but are strong and lively.

Harold Baker of Elgin, Neb., is visiting with his brother, O. W. Baker and family.

Jacob Pfund returned to Omaha to resume his work with the American Express Company at that place, after visiting with his parents for nearly a month.

We buy more horses and mules direct from the farmers than any men in the world. We have an order from a firm in Atlanta, Ga., for 100 horses and mares, from 900 to 1100 pounds, that are fat and must have them this week.
